ADJUSTMENT CENTER . . . where three inmates were interviewed.

Prison Administration Criticized By Inmates

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of four articles by a Star staff writer who accompanied State Sen. Ernest Chambers on a recent visit to the State Penitentiary.)

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Naturally, there is some antagonism between blacks and whites because of our history and tradition," David Rice said.

"Everything is not a bed of roses as far as the inmates relate to one another.

"It's phony to talk about brotherhood in a nation where humanity is not important.

"But, outside, blacks and whites cannot see the common enemy, the common problem. In here, it's different.

'Can Work Together'

Under those conditions, Rice said, blacks and whites "can work together" at the Penitentiary.

Rice is serving a life sentence for a murder conviction. He is black, and he is one of seven inmates with whom State Sen. Ernest Chambers visited on a trip to the prison last week.

Blacks who want the segregated (white) east cellblock integrated "don't want to go there because they could live next to whites," Rice said.

They want it integrated because its living conditions are better than the west cellhouse, he said.

Admitting that he was "already antagonistic" when he entered the prison because he considered his murder trial "a cartoon," Rice said administration of the Penitentiary is "in the Dark Ages . . bad, backward and barbarian.

"Everything is petty," he said

"They are much more concerned to show that you are under their thumbnail than to rehabilitate," he told Chambers.

"The emphasis should be on education, but the emphasis is on your shirt, your hair, your belt, your shoes."

'No Dignity'

The institution's blue rulebook states that "you will be permitted to live in dignity," Rice said, but "every possible attempt is made to show you have no dignity whatsoever."

Charles McClelland, a white, is serving a life sentence for murder convictions. He is one of two inmates who successfully petitioned U.S. District Judge Warren Urbom to order desegregation of the east cellhouse, pending appeal in the federal courts.

McClelland spoke with Chambers at the adjustment center.

"Racial discrimination is one of the worst things they have here," McClelland said. "No one in the administration wants to help 'the brother.' They want to keep him down."

'Apparent'

McClelland said discrimination is apparent in living conditions, work assignments and punishment.

The west cellblock, where blacks (and whites) are housed, is "like a stall for an animal." he said. The east cellhouse is "much better."

For the same offense, a white "may lose a couple of picture shows" or other privileges whereas a black "may go to the hole and lose three or four or six months of good time," McClelland said

'Two Sets Of Rules'

"We might as well have two sets of rule books, one for whites and one for blacks."

The prison needs a "a warden who believes that all prisoners are the same, that they should be treated the same and who realizes that all the prisoners are men," McClelland said.

And there is "a great need" few physical facilities, including better living quarters and more recreation space, he said.

Danny Hart, a white, is serving a three-year term for a no fund check conviction. He is a Vietnam veteran.

'Reds Treated Better'

"We treated our Communist prisoners a lot better," Hart told Chambers.

"There are no set rules on solitary confinement here. I might do something and go for five days of I might go for three years. It is used as a personal plaything."

As for conditions in the old west cellblock, Hart said, "I wouldn't let my dog live there."

Escaped

Hart escaped last February, leaving a Junior Chamber of Commerce convention in Hastings (where he represented prison Jaycees) to go to Omaha, where he visited with Chambers about prison conditions.

"I assured him I would go back," Hart said, "but before I could, I was captured that night."

Hart said he has written a number of people, including Iowa Sen. Jack Miller, Gov. J. James Exon and the FBI in Omaha, outlining his criticism of the prison administration.

'Change Ways'

The FBI, he said, sent a man to the Penitentiary "to tell me to change my ways." Hart said he has been warned to "shut your mouth or you'll be back in the hole."

In the year he has been at the institution, Hart said, "I've learned hate and bitterness.

Tho Says Politics, Pullout Separate

. . . IF NIXON SETS A DATE

©The New York Times

By ANTHONY LEWIS

Paris — A high-ranking North Vietnamese leader said Tuesday that the new Communist offer to return American prisoners of war if American forces are withdrawn by the end of 1971 did not depend on a political settlement in South Vietnam.

Le Duc Tho, a member of the Hanoi politburo, said the question of prisoners and withdrawal could be negotiated separately in the Paris peace talks now. Future political arrangements, he said, could be discussed afterward.

In an interview, Tho said that if President Nixon agreed to set a final date for total American withdrawal, the "modalities" of withdrawal and of the release of prisoners could be "rapidly settled."

Batch For Batch

He said North Vietnam and the Viet Cong would release some prisoners quickly after agreement on the troop withdrawal-prisoner release proposal. When "the first batch of soldiers" leaves Vietnam after that, he said, "the first batch of prisoners will be released."

Tho's comments appeared to clarify an important question that American officials had raised privately about the seven-point peace plan proposed last Thursday by Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong representative to the talks. This was whether the various points were interdependent.

Point 1 contained the new proposal on the prisoners and withdrawal. Then came suggestions for a coalition government in South Vietnam and other difficult political issues on which the negotiators have made no progress here in three years.

May Be Significant

American officials here, informed of Tho's statement that Point 1 was separately negotiable, said it could be significant. They added, however, that there were still many potential difficulties in the language of the proposal itself.

Chief U.S. negotiator David K. E. Bruce will reply to the new peace plan at the next session of the talks Thursday. He is expected to ask for clarification on a number of issues.

Tho, in the interview, also made these other explanatory comments on the new peace plan:

—As part of its total withdrawal, the United States would have to end the shelling of Vietnam by ships of the 7th Fleet and all bombing and close-support action by planes based in Thailand.

—The United States would also have to withdraw all military advisers attached to the South Vietnamese army. Tho did not give a direct answer to a question about continued U.S. material aid to Saigon's army.

—The agreement on American troop withdrawal and release of prisoners would apply only to the territory of Vietnam — not to Laos or Cambodia.

—If an agreement is reached, political talks should follow. They would be between the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam — the Viet Cong — and the Saigon administration — but the latter without President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Barnhill Lincoln's Iceman Since 1926

By LINDA SULLIVAN
Star Staff Writer

If you think the television commercial about the iced tea business putting a few extra dollars into the iceman's pocket is just another advertising gimmick, you're wrong.

At least that's what Elmer Barnhill says, and he should know. He's been selling ice to Lincolnites for 45 years.

"During the winter, I sell most restaurants a couple 25-pound sacks a day. But when summer comes, it shoots up to six or seven sacks a day. And they tell me its all because of the iced tea."

1,200 Pounds A Day

Barnhill, his son Leonard, and a young helper use two one-ton trucks and a van to deliver about 1,200 pounds of ice a day to some 125 customers, mostly restaurants and gas station ice machines.

But in 1926, things were a bit different.

In those days, when Barnhill was 19 and the first began selling and delivering ice bought from the Beatrice Creamery, he used a 1926 Model-T Ford to deliver to some 160 Lincoln homes.

Ah, those were the days.

"When a lady wanted ice, she'd put a card in the window with 25, 50 or whatever number of pounds she wanted written on it. When the card'd be in the window, I knew there'd be money waiting on the icebox."

50 Cents A Hundred

In those days, ice was worth 50 cents a hundred pounds. Today it sells for anywhere between $1.20 and $4.00 for the same amount.

Capital Beach, little more than a nostalgic memory to most Lincolnites, was Barnhill's biggest customer for 37 years. "They bought a ton a day, and on the Fourth of July, sometimes as much as six ton," he recalls.

Another hot customer in the ice business was the Dutch Mill, Lincoln's first drive-in.

Root Beer Stand

Barnhill said nobody thought the root beer stand "out there in the country" would catch on. "When they called me and my uncle to bring out some ice, he told me I could if I wanted to, but the drive wasn't worth the money"

But the Dutch Mill, which opened in the late 1920s, did catch on, its parking lot often filled with more than 70 cars at a time. And since young Elmer Barnhill made the hot dusty drive out there that day, the Mill was his customer until it closed in 1958.

In spite of these big customers and his regular route, Elmer Barnhill started to worry. There was a lot of talk about the new refrigerators that wouldn't need ice. Worse yet, it was the late 20s and a depression was coming.

'Didn't Help Business'

"Oh, the Depression kept a lot of people from buying refrigerators, I guess. But it sure didn't help my business. Cards would never be in the window, because families only had enough money to buy their food one meal at a time. They didn't need ice."

It wasn't until ice machines had been on the market for a couple of years that he realized that there was still room for an ice man in Lincoln.

"Ice machines are like automobiles. They're always breaking down and needing repair or new parts." And when a Lincoln firm's ice machine broke down, Elmer Barnhill was the ice man who could bring ice until it was fixed.

Fun, Variety

It's this type of emergency service that now provides the fun and variety of his work, he says.

"You never know what'll they'll come up with next. The other day I had to make a run over to Children's Zoo with a hundred pounds of ice. The penguins were getting hot."

Today, Barnhill buys his ice from Valley Ice Co. The ice manufacturing company turns over all sales that require delivery to him. During the summer, even with help, it's a 14-hour day for Lincoln's iceman.

Barnhill will be 65 next February, when he'll turn over the business reins to his son and start working "short" days.

But what about the ice business, is there still room for an iceman in Lincoln?

"As long as Nebraska has summers, Lincoln will need ice," he says with a wink.

And from the looks of things, Barnhill & Sons has a lot of business ahead in the next two months.

Two Road Mishaps Claim Three Lives

Three persons died as the result of two separate accidents in Nebraska Tuesday night.

A Lincoln man and an infant girl from Omaha were killed and five others injured in a two-car near headon collision about 3½ miles south of Bruning on US 81

One of the victims was identified as Roy Koves, 50, Lincoln, 4030 Fiene Blvd., who was alone in his southbound auto.

The infant, Valerie Laymon, about six months old, was the daughter of Delbert Laymon, 22, and his wife Ramona, 17.

Also in the car driven by Laymon were his parents, George Laymon and his wife, Pamsy, 41; and Delbert's brother Richard, 19, all from Wichita, Kan.

Thayer County Sheriff Jim Johnson said all were injured, but the extent of injuries was not known.

Sheriff Johnson said there were indications a boy on a bicycle may also have been involved.

The Cass County sheriff's office said a 17-year-old Weeping Water girl was killed in a two-car collision at the intersection of two county roads one mile north of the Avoca cutoff on US. 34.

Deputy Tom Frudiker said that Sandra Wade died en route to St. Elizabeth Health Center in Lincoln.

Roger DeLay, 16, also of Weeping Water and the driver of the car in which Miss Wade was riding, was listed in "guarded" condition at St. Elizabeth with two broken legs, broken ribs and head injuries.

The driver of the second car, John Parson, 19, of Weeping Water, was in "fair" condition with a head concussion, Frudiker reported.

Clothing Store May Get Class C Liquor License

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

The first cocktails to be served in a dining area of a downtown Lincoln department store may become a reality as a result of the recommendation Tuesday of the Lincoln City Council.

Contingent on compliance with certain regulations, City Council members voted unanimously to recommend approval for the issuance of a Class C liquor license for Roof Top, Inc. to be located on a proposed floor addition to Hovland-Swanson at 1230 O.

The council's recommendation to the State Liquor Control Commission will indicate its approval provided city building and fire code regulations are complied with and providing there is an available license within the city's numerical limitation of liquor license holders.

Lincoln Attorney Richard Knudsen told the council that plans call for a restaurant operation for noon and evening service of a limited menu of soups, sandwiches and salads as well as cocktails.

He said the food service would be approximately the same as Hovland-Swanson had in its tearoom before it was removed for expansion of the store.

Access to the proposed fourth-floor addition would be gained through the store during store hours and from the Rampark after store hours, Knudsen said.

James Swanson told the council that the proposed cocktail service would be new for retail stores in the downtown Lincoln area but is widely-used in similar retail stores throughout the nation including Nieman-Marcus, Neusteters in Denver and Colorado Springs, and Brandeis in Omaha.

He said that his plans call for no bar cocktail service but only service by waitresses at tables.

Police Chief Joseph Carroll told the council that approval of such a license is in opposition to the city ordinance which requires that such an operation be visible from the street.

However, council members noted that the proposed operation would be in conjunction with food service for which the regulations are somewhat different.

(For more on council meeting see page 5.)

Coast Guard Is Blamed In Crash

Washington (AP) — The National Transportation Safety Board Tuesday held the Coast Guard cutter White Alder chiefly responsible for a collision that sent it to the bottom of the Mississippi river two and a half years ago.

All but three of the White Alder's crew of 20 were lost in the Dec. 7, 1968, accident.

The cutter sank within one minute after being run down by the Taiwanese freighter Helena, en route to Baton Rouge, La. The freighter received only minor damage and no injuries.

Omaha Police, Youths Clash Over Park Rule

Omaha (UPI) — Chanting "we won't go" and shouting obscenities at police, about 300 to 500 youths refused to leave Memorial Park in West Omaha Tuesday night, putting up barricades and starting small fires to keep officers from enforcing an 8 p.m. curfew imposed earlier in the day.

Four or five officers were reportedly injured by 11:30 P.M., according to the City Public Safety Director Al Pattavina, but none apparently seriously. One officer was reportedly treated and released after an acid-like substance was thrown in his eyes.

Another was reported to have sustained a minor gunshot wound. Whether it was an actual gunshot or a firecracker was not immediately determined.

Police reported approximately 25 arrests by midnight. One was apprehended after tearing down an American flag.

Police reported no serious property damage, although bands of youths were reported roaming the neighborhood causing vandalism.

There were no confirmations on how many youths were injured, but several were reportedly hit by cars after youths moved to Dodge St., an arterial through Omaha, and disrupted traffic.

The City Council earlier Tuesday had imposed the 8 P.M. curfew after complaints that the park was being used as a center for drug traffic, illegal drinking and sexual activity.

Police Chief Richard Andersen, who was at the scene, said of his men "I think they have kept their cool very well, despite minor injuries."

The incidents began about 7:30 when the flag was torn down. Barricades were set up on the inside of a horseshoe drive running through the park, and fires were started in trash cans to keep policemen from entering.

Police then used bullhorns to try and persuade the youths to leave the park about half an hour after the curfew began, but were met with cries of "we won't go," obscenities and some rock-and-bottle throwing.

About 9:30 P.M., the youths attempted to set up barricades on Dodge St., causing traffic to be backed up for several blocks. The street was then blocked off by police for a short time.

Firebombs caused three minor fires near the south edge of the park. Some youths made vain attempts to put them out.

Clothing Store May Get Class C Liquor License

The first cocktails to be served in a dining area of a downtown Lincoln department store may become a reality as a result of the recommendation Tuesday of the Lincoln City Council.

Contingent on compliance with certain regulations, City Council members voted unanimously to recommend approval for the issuance of a Class C liquor license for Roof Top, Inc. to be located on a proposed floor addition to Hovland-Swanson at 1230 O.

He said that his plans call for no bar cocktail service but only service by waitresses at tables.

Police Chief Joseph Carroll told the council that approval of such a license is in opposition to the city ordinance which requires that such an operation be visible from the street.

However, council members noted that the proposed operation would be in conjunction with food service for which the regulations are somewhat different.

Coast Guard Is Blamed In Crash

Washington (AP) — The National Transportation Safety Board Tuesday held the Coast Guard cutter White Alder chiefly responsible for a collision that sent it to the bottom of the Mississippi river two and a half years ago.

All but three of the White Alder's crew of 20 were lost in the Dec. 7, 1968, accident.

The cutter sank within one minute after being run down by the Taiwanese freighter Helena, en route to Baton Rouge, La. The freighter received only minor damage and no injuries.

Omaha Police, Youths Clash Over Park Rule

Omaha (UPI) — Chanting "we won't go" and shouting obscenities at police, about 300 to 500 youths refused to leave Memorial Park in West Omaha Tuesday night, putting up barricades and starting small fires to keep officers from enforcing an 8 p.m. curfew imposed earlier in the day.

Four or five officers were reportedly injured by 11:30 P.M., according to the City Public Safety Director Al Pattavina, but none apparently seriously. One officer was reportedly treated and released after an acid-like substance was thrown in his eyes.

Another was reported to have sustained a minor gunshot wound. Whether it was an actual gunshot or a firecracker was not immediately determined.

Police reported approximately 25 arrests by midnight. One was apprehended after tearing down an American flag.

Police reported no serious property damage, although bands of youths were reported roaming the neighborhood causing vandalism.

There were no confirmations on how many youths were injured, but several were reportedly hit by cars after youths moved to Dodge St., an arterial through Omaha, and disrupted traffic.

The City Council earlier Tuesday had imposed the 8 P.M. curfew after complaints that the park was being used as a center for drug traffic, illegal drinking and sexual activity.

Police Chief Richard Andersen, who was at the scene, said of his men "I think they have kept their cool very well, despite minor injuries."

The incidents began about 7:30 when the flag was torn down. Barricades were set up on the inside of a horseshoe drive running through the park, and fires were started in trash cans to keep policemen from entering.

Police then used bullhorns to try and persuade the youths to leave the park about half an hour after the curfew began, but were met with cries of "we won't go," obscenities and some rock-and-bottle throwing.

About 9:30 P.M., the youths attempted to set up barricades on Dodge St., causing traffic to be backed up for several blocks. The street was then blocked off by police for a short time.

Firebombs caused three minor fires near the south edge of the park. Some youths made vain attempts to put them out.

Mayor Eugene Leahy was reportedly on the scene.

Tho Says Hanoi Offer, Political Pact Separate

(c) New York Times News Service

Paris — A high-ranking member of the North Vietnamese politburo said Tuesday Hanoi's recent offer to return American war prisoners if American troops are withdrawn by the end of 1971 was not dependent on a political settlement in South Vietnam. Le Duc Tho said in an interview that any political settlement could be discussed at a future time. (More on Page 1.)

Plan Interests U.S.

Washington — According to administration officials, the North Vietnamese peace plan is being given more attention and interest than any previous proposal. Because of the intense, high-level treatment accorded the plan, it is considered unlikely that any formal reply will be presented at this week's session of the Paris talks. The officials said at least another week would be needed to formulate an answer or a counterproposal.

Black Job Outlook Bleak

Minneapolis — Dr. Andrew Brimmer, an economist and a member of the Federal Reserve Board, told the annual convention of the NAACP that it would be "quite some time" before the employment situation for black Americans showed and significant improvement. He said that many blacks had given up hope of finding jobs and urged that the government take immediate action. (More on Page 14.)

Steel Men Admonished

Peerless 'Satchmo' Dies

Some Banks Increase Prime Rate

New York — At least 23 of the nation's major banks, led by Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., the nation's sixth largest bank, raised the prime interest rate from 5½% to 6%. (More on Page 13.)

Nuclear Power May Be Answer

New York — Technological and political leaders who have been searching for a way to end the nation's energy crisis have turned slowly, reluctantly and fearfully toward a nuclear-powered future. Nuclear power is technically difficult, expensive and is a source of thermal pollution. At the same time, however, the experts say it is more plentiful, ultimately cheaper and causes less pollution than any alternative source of energy.

Louis 'Satchmo' Armstrong Dies

. . . 'ME AND MY HORN, WE COME A LONG WAY TOGETHER'

World News

New York (AP) — Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, beloved troubadour of the jazz trumpet, with a delightful rasp to his voice and roll to his eye, died Tuesday, his heart worn out, his golden horn silent at last. He was 71 years old Sunday, July 4th.

"Me and my horn, we come a long way together," Armstrong once observed.

Together, they came out of a waif's refuge in New Orleans, up river to Chicago along the trail of jazz itself, then on to the show business pinnacles of New York and Las Vegas, and the motion picture studios of Hollywood.

He Enthralled All

And before they were through, Armstrong and his horn, together, had fascinated millions on five continents, enthralling royalty along with the humblest of jazz fans.

Armstrong and his horn pierced even the Iron Curtain, as he became one of the best ambassadors the United States ever sent abroad, a representative of democracy whose portfolio's contents, in his words, "ain't politics, it's just music."

"In Africa," Armstrong once reminisced, "the local tribe carried in their chief to where I was playing. All he did was just look down and say just one word, 'Satchmo!' Man, they knew me even out there."

But ill health made progressive inroads on the ebullient artist with the unforgettable grimace and grin. He was in and out of hospitals during the past five years, as liver and kidney ailments took their toll on his heart.

Death Comes in Sleep

Early Tuesday at his home in Queens, Armstrong died peacefully in his sleep. A family spokesman said his tired heart simply gave out.

Survivors included Armstrong's third wife, Lucille Wilson Armstrong, whom he married in 1942, and a sister and two half-brothers.

Funeral services were scheduled for 1 p.m. Friday at the Corona Congregational Church at 34th Avenue and 103rd Street in Corona, Queens. Burial will be in a Flushing Cemetery.

Armstrong's last public appearance was at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel here, where he opened a two-week engagement March 1. From there, he went into Beth Israel Hospital for heart treatment.

At the time, he was described as frail, with halting gait, his 5-feet-6 figure wasted down from 226 pounds to 125.

June 23 Interview

To thank the many admirers who had relayed best wishes to him in the hospital, Armstrong gave an interview at his home June 23. He played his trumpet and promised, "I'm going back to work."

He never made it.

"I loved him, God bless him," said Duke Ellington, himself a towering figure in American jazz. "It is a great loss to all of us."

'A Champion'

Said pianist Earl "Fatha" Hines, who took his style from Armstrong's trumpet style. "The world has lost a champion. I don't know who is going to follow a man like that."

"I know all New Yorkers join Mrs. Lindsay and me in extending our heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Armstrong," said Mayor John V. Lindsay.

It was on the Fourth of July, 1900, that Armstrong was born in New Orleans.

His parents separated when he was 5 and he grew up on the streets of the city. Like many a jazz great before him, he started out entertaining for pennies in the red-light section of New Orleans.

Year In Waifs Home

Cornetist Bunk Johnson gave Armstrong his first real musical training. But Satchmo's development as trumpeter without peer began during a year's incarceration in the New Orleans Waifs Home. He was sent there after shooting off some blank cartridges on New Year's Eve, 1913.

In the home, Armstrong was encouraged to play the bugle and cornet and after his release he gained a further musical education from the famed King Oliver.

There followed engagements on Mississippi excursion boats, and dance halls, with Armstrong eventually abandoning the cornet for the trumpet.

Gateway To World

Then, at the age of 22, Armstrong was called to Chicago to join the band of his onetime mentor, Oliver. The Windy City proved Armstrong's gateway to the world.

Before a performance, Armstrong would gargle and salve his lips. Then, beautifully tailored, he would move into the spotlight grinning, rolling his eyes and coaxing notes of crystal beauty from his horn.

One of his greatest hits was "Sleepy Time Down South." And in later years, he appropriated the theme song from the Broadway smash, "Hello, Dolly! He made it his own gravelly vocal trademark, and it sold over a million records.

Armstrong first went abroad in 1932 and before his travels ended he had performed in Europe, Africa, Asia and Australia. In 1934, he played for King George V of Britain, and broke up the audience by dedicating a number to the king with the breezy remark: "This one's for you, Rex."

Not A Militant

Never a militant type, Armstrong was performing abroad during the Selma, Ala., march in the mid-1960s. He said at the time:

"Maybe I'm not in the front line, but I support them with my donations. But maybe that is not enough now. My life is music. They would beat me in the mouth if I marched and without my mouth I would not be able to blow my horn."

As the years rolled by, Armstrong became one of the U.S. State Department's most valuable assets. The department was to be represented at his funeral.

"His death is a loss to millions of people throughout the world," State Department press officer Charles Bray said.

"Cats are the same everywhere — all over the world," he observed.

"They all talk the same language. They all dig me and my horn."

VC Delegate Indicates Plan Is Flexible

Paris (UPI) — Mme Nguyen Thi Binh indicated Tuesday that the Viet Cong July 1 peace proposls to the United States were not an inflexible take-it-or-leave-it package.

In an interview with United Press International, the foreign minister of the South Vietnamese National Liberation Front called on President Nixon to give his negotiators the go-ahead to discuss with the Communist delegates the plan of which she is chief author.

Mme. Binh heads the Viet Cong delegation at the Paris peace talks. She said that if need be, she was ready to enter private talks on the plan with the chief American negotiator, Ambassador David K. E. Bruce.

Mme. Binh insisted repeatedly that "it is in the interest of the Nixon administration and the United States itself to declare their readiness to withdraw from South Vietnam."

She hinted on several occasions that some key parts of the package were negotiable. She did not turn down outright questions about a possible international guarantee of free general elections.

A "national concord" cabinet formed after a U.S. pullout, she said, was envisaged as containing members of the present administration, her own movement, and social, political, and religious forces standing in between. She nodded when asked whether this meant the Viet Cong would accept a minority status on the cabinet.

Steel Men Hear Nixon

Washington (AP) — President Nixon urged the steel industry's union and management negotiators Tuesday to reach a constructive settlement harming neither the industry's competitive position nor the U.S. economy.

In a low-key attempt to impress on the negotiators the need for a noninflationary wage settlement, Nixon avoided setting a percentage pay boost the Whitet House would consider acceptable.

Instead, said George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, the President told both sides they should keep the industry's self-interest uppermost in mind in the contract talks.

Union and management negotiators begin talks Wednesday on the vital money aspects of a contract to replace the one expiring Aug. 1. Speculation on a strike in the industry this year has been high.

Shultz said the President first emphasized his concern there will be hard bargaining and that out of it will come an atmosphere e that will help avoid a strike and its depressing impact on the economy.

He said Nixon hopes the negotiators will conclude that the "interests of the parties and the national interests coincide with the need for a constructive settlement."

©The New York Times

Beirut, Lebanon — Syria announced Tuesday that the Western-owned Iraq Petroleum Co. has agreed to increase by more than 50% its payments for the rights to pipe oil across Syrian soil to the Mediterranean.

The agreement appeared to forestall a repetition of the crisis of four years ago, when Syria closed IPC's pipelines.

Damascus radio, in announcing its terms, said the IPC would pay Syria a lump sum of $34 million, in addition to $29 million more a year in pipeline royalties.

Standard Oil of New Jersey and British, Dutch and French oil companies are joint owners of the IPC.

Holiday Traffic Deaths Climb To Eight In State

By the Associated Press

Eight deaths were recorded on Nebraska roads over the Fourth of July holiday weekend.

Arden E. Kuhlmann, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Kuhlmann of Grand Island, died Monday night in the collision of his motorcycle and a car about two miles south of Palmer on a gravel road.

Merrick County Sheriff Dan Schneiderheinz said the car was driven by Mrs. Marie Reynolds, 64, of Palmer. She was not injured seriously.

A two-car collision on U.S. 73 and a county road south of Omaha Monday claimed the life of August E. Johnson, 76, of Plattsmouth. The driver of the second car was Stuart Stern, 19, of Shawnee Mission, Kan.

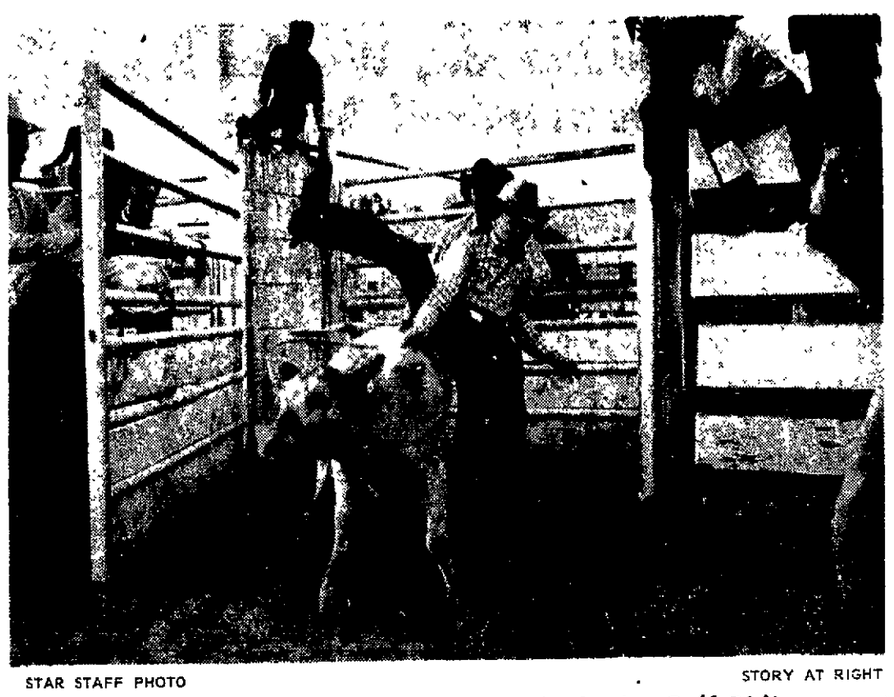

A motorcycle accident Sunday took the life of Mrs. Merry Lynn Buss, DeWitt. The cycle went out of control about three miles west of Wilber. Her husband was seriously hurt.

The Knox County sheriff's office said Stanla M. Johnson, 38, of Central City was killed early Monday in a two-car collision on Nebraska 14 about four miles south of Verdigre. Her car was in collision with a vehicle driven by Joseph Kluthe, 59, of Elgin, who escaped serious injury.

Raymond Henderson, 21, of rural Union was killed near Nebraska City in a one-car mishap. A passenger, Robert Morton of Union was hospitalized.

An accident involving three cars resulted in the death of three persons earlier during the weekend on U.S. 6 near Inland. Killed were Dennis C. Hoeft, 20, of York, Frank Morgan, 42, of Sutton, and Danielle Bivins, 8 months, of Sutton. Nine persons were injured in that accident.

Crowd Of Over 2,000 Sees Crawford Rodeo

By SAM THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Crawford — "This is rodeo country, obviously," said Crawford Mayor Dick Groft after this Pine Ridge town's 28th annual Junior Gymkana and Professional Rodeo.

Rain didn't prevent more than 2,000 spectators from attending the Crawford rodeo, a three-day event which is one of Dawes County's biggest celebrations of the year. "That's quite a few for a town of 1,400," Groft said.

Spectators came from "eight to 10 states," Groft said. Many from South Dakota. This year Lincoln's Boy Scout Troop 50 was announced over the public address system and stood for recognition.

The Crawford Rodeo is one of the few in the state which is sanctioned by the professional Rodeo Cowboys' Association. Some 165 rodeo riders from all over the country showed up this year to compete for points in the national point standings. Local youngsters practiced for weeks to compete in the Junior Gymkana.

The Junior event, sponsored by the Crawford High School Rodeo Club is a prelude to the two-day professional meet, at which prizes totaling more than $5,000 are paid to winners in bare-back riding, saddle bronc riding, calf roping, bull wrestling and steer riding.

The event is held in conjunction with Crawford's Fourth of July celebration, capped by a parade and sky show the night of the Fourth.

Corn Crop Growth Is 'Very Good'

By the Associated Press

Development of the state's corn crop is very good with reports of the crop's condition ranging from good to excellent, the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics reported Tuesday.

The report said many farmers are finishing cultivation and ditching operation on their corn and some have already begun irrigation.

Corn leaf blight has been found in five more counties, bringing to 38 the number of counties in which it has been reported.

The wheat crop continues to make good development, the report said, and about half the crop has ripened.

Recent showers have slowed some of the wheat harvesting and 20% of the acreage has been combined to 24% normally.

Sorghum and soybeans are also reported in good to excellent condition and sugar beets and dry beans are reported making good growth although heavy rains and hail in a few Panhandle areas have caused some damage.

Most of the first alfalfa crop has been cut and about 15% of the second crop has also been cut.

Livestock conditions are reported to be generally good.

Package Delivery Firm Widens State Service

United Parcel Service, a national package delivery company which has been operating in portions of the state for several years, opened interstate service to Nebraska residents everywhere in the state on Tuesday.

The new service, which will handle packages that weigh up to 50 pounds and have a maximum combined length and girth of 108 inches, connects Nebraska to a package network covering 33 other states.

The network includes the entire area east of the Mississippi River, and the states of Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, North Dakota and South Dakota.

The new service was instituted as a result of a grant of authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission which, when fully implemented, will add the states of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas to the network.

However, under the new authority Nebraska shippers located generally south of U.S. 30 are prohibited from shipping packages interstate into an area consisting of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, western Arkansas and western Missouri.

Files Application

The company has filed applications for operating authority which, if granted, would permit Nebraska shippers of small packages to reach any address in the 47 other states. It also has filed an application with the Nebraska State Railway Commission for authority to provide intrastate service throughout the entire state.

Since 1965 United Parcel Service has been providing interstate service to the Omaha area. In 1970 the company began providing intrastate service between points in the southeastern quarter of the state as well as some interstate service. The new interstate service will be available to any address in Nebraska.

United Parcel Service has been in the package delivery business since 1907 and presently offers its service in 35 entire states and parts of nine others. Charges for the service are comparable to rates for uninsured parcel post.

In order to provide service to any address in Nebraska, the company has established operating centers in Alliance, Sidney, McCook, North Platte, O'Neill, Norfolk, Grand Island, Lincoln, Beatrice, Omaha and Valentine.

Approximately 145 employes and 90 vehicles will work out of these operating centers, giving the company the capability to pick up or deliver a package at any address in the state.

The new service contains several unique features, including:

—A driver calls at a shipper's place of business each day to pick up packages. For a small weekly service charge he appears automatically without regard to the size of the shipper's business or the volume of packages that can be expected from the account.

—Deliveries are made directly to the premises of the consignee whether he is located on the upper floor of an office building or at street level.

—If for any reason a delivery cannot be completed on first call, the dirver will make a second, and if necessary, a third attempt at delivery without extra charge. If the package still cannot be delivered, or if it is refused by the receiver, it will be returned to the shipper, also without additional charge.

—All packages sent via United Parcel Service are protected automatically for up to $100 against loss or damage without extra charge. Additional protection can be purchased at nominal cost.

—Signatures are obtained for each package delivered and specially designed records will permit prompt answering of queries about delivery of a package.

—United Parcel Service provides an address search service to minimize delivery delays for incorrectly addressed parcels, and also offers a C.O.D. service.

—All drivers are neatly uniformed and delivery vehicles are maintained at high levels of appearance. It is company policy to wash or clean each vehicle daily and to repaint vehicles at regular intervals.

Fund Release Affects State Water Plans

Washington (AP)—Several projects in Nebraska and Iowa are affected by release Tuesday of $67 million in congressional appropriations that had been frozen as an anti-inflationary move.

The Army Corps of Engineers will receive $40.8 million and the Reclamation Bureau $26 million. The project name is followed by the amount and type of work to be done.

Included are:

Nebraska: Papillion Creek and tributaries, $1,310,000, land acquisition, Nebraska Mid-state $200,000, planning; general investigations: Gavin Point Dam and Lewis and Clark, Nebraska and South Dakota; and relocation of Niobrara, Neb. $200,000.

Iowa: Amaes Lake, $100,000, construction; Big Sioux River at Sioux City, Iowa and South Dakota, $70.000, planning; Missouri River, Sioux City to mouth. $400.000, construction; Waterloo, $100,000, construction.

Seed Believed Secret Of Big Wheat Yield

Holmesville (AP) — Delmar Schnoneweis raised some 82 bushel-per-acre wheat for a record in his area and now is checking to learn his secret. It may have been the seed.

The farmer living northwest of Holmesville averaged 69 bushels an acre on 40 acres, but just west of that plot he raised 497 bushels, or a little over 82 bushels per acre on six acres. The test weight was 62 pounds at 11.4% moisture.

Both fields received the same fertilizer and the land is nearly identical.

Schnoneweis figures it was the seed, as the more productive plot was planted from a new type of University of Nebraska Foundation seed which was used last year by Schnoneweis' brother, Eldean, of Adams.

Man Helping Solve Kidnap Case Receives 'Eyes' Award

The Nebraska Optometric Association announced its latest "Eyes on Nebraska" award will go to Joseph W. Gibbs of Omaha.

In announcing the award, Dr. L. R. Whitaker of Gering, association president, said Gibbs was being honored "for using his vision to the best advantage" in helping solve a recent Omaha kidnaping case.

Dr. Whitaker explained that the "Eyes" award is made for those who "contribute to the betterment of Nebraska. We feel that Gibbs contributed to the betterment of mankind."

Gibbs, 38, is custodian at Hillside Elementary School in West Omaha. He also is president of Omaha's Centennial Model T Club.

On the night of June 17th, Gibbs had visited his wife, Marilyn, who was undergoing a checkup at Clarkson Memorial Hospital.

Noticed Woman

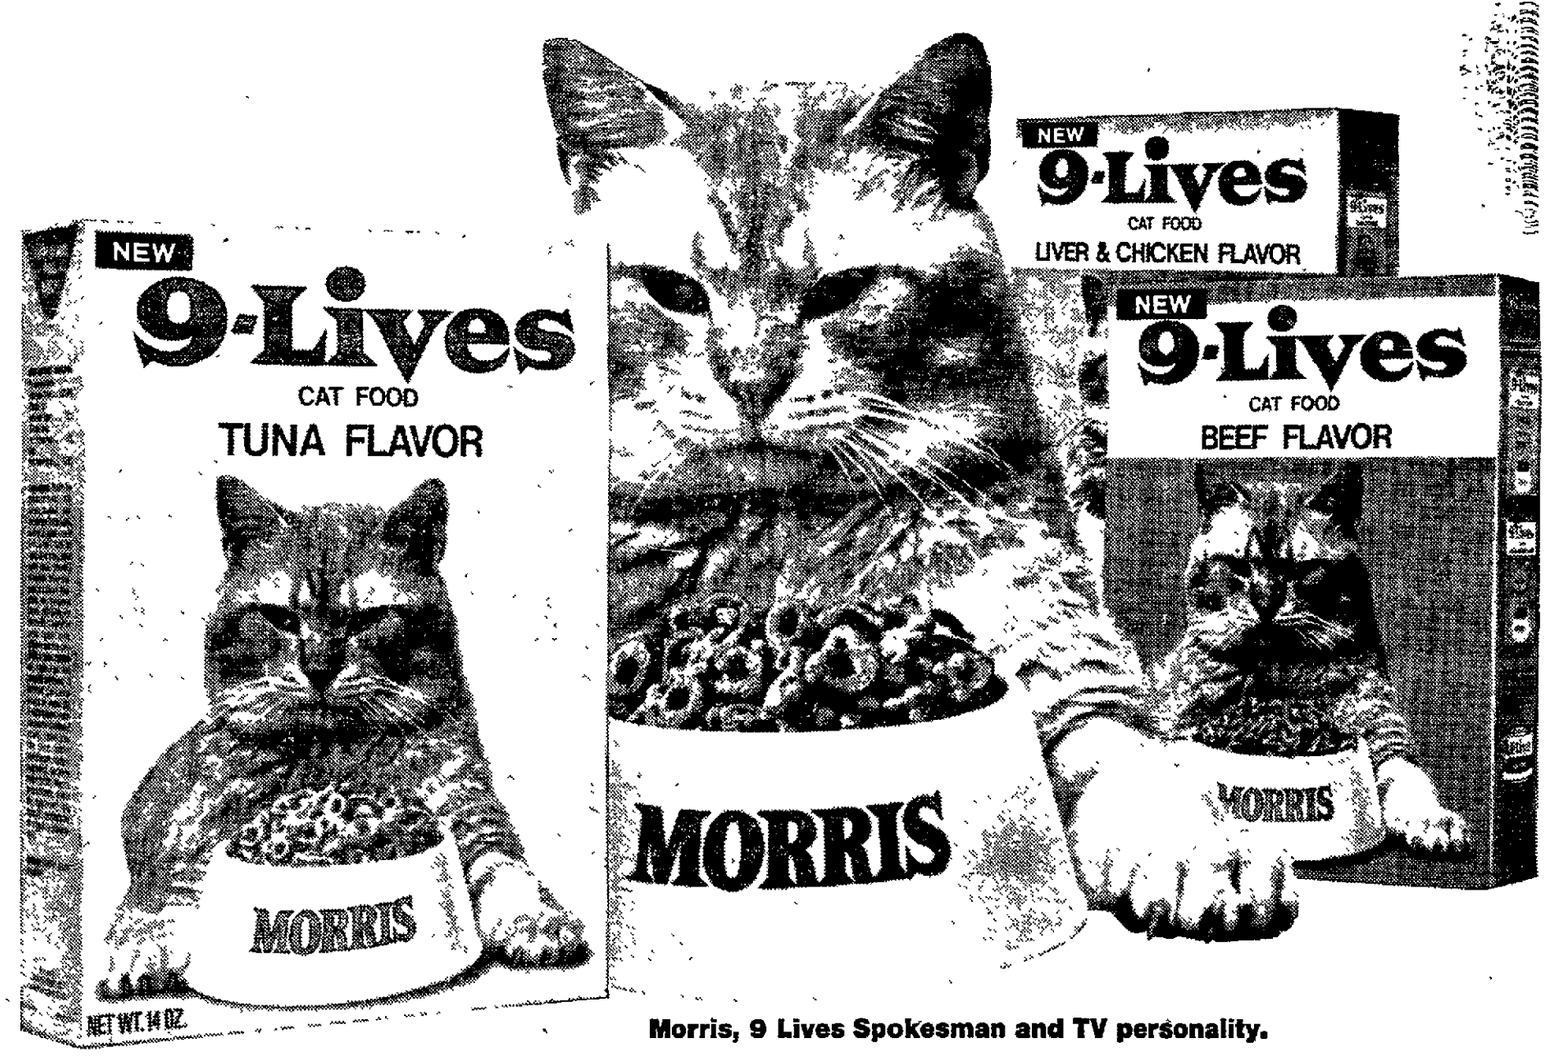

"On my way out of the hospital," he said, "I heard a clatter of steps behind me, when I noticed this woman pass in a hurry with a baby in her arms.

"I thought she might be a nurse taking it to University Hospital across the street. Then I noticed that she was headed for the same parking lot where my car was located. I saw the number on her car — 1-BJ58, I made a mental note of it and then went back home."

The next morning before heading to Hillside School, Gibbs heard the kidnaping report on the radio. Telling his son, Todd, "I think I may know something about this" — he immediately called the police. The report aided in recovery of the infant and apprehension of chief suspects in the case.

Gibbs said that as a longtime Model T enthusiast, "I probably have a more than passing interst in all autos. When we (his family) go on vacation, I always look at license plates and I guess numbers have always been easy for me to remember."

Package Delivery Firm Widens State Service

United Parcel Service, a national package delivery company which has been operating in portions of the state for several years, opened interstate service to Nebraska residents everywhere in the state on Tuesday.

The new service, which will handle packages that weigh up to 50 pounds and have a maximum combined length and girth of 108 inches, connects Nebraska to a package network covering 33 other states.

The network includes the entire area east of the Mississippi River, and the states of Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, North Dakota and South Dakota.

The new service was instituted as a result of a grant of authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission which, when fully implemented, will add the states of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas to the network.

However, under the new authority Nebraska shippers located generally south of U.S. 30 are prohibited from shipping packages interstate into an area consisting of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, western Arkansas and western Missouri.

Files Application

The company has filed applications for operating authority which, if granted, would permit Nebraska shippers of small packages to reach any address in the 47 other states. It also has filed an application with the Nebraska State Railway Commission for authority to provide intrastate service throughout the entire state.

Since 1965 United Parcel Service has been providing interstate service to the Omaha area. In 1970 the company began providing intrastate service between points in the southeastern quarter of the state as well as some interstate service. The new interstate service will be available to any address in Nebraska.

United Parcel Service has been in the package delivery business since 1907 and presently offers its service in 35 entire states and parts of nine others. Charges for the service are comparable to rates for uninsured parcel post.

In order to provide service to any address in Nebraska, the company has established operating centers in Alliance, Sidney, McCook, North Platte, O'Neill, Norfolk, Grand Island, Lincoln, Beatrice, Omaha and Valentine.

Approximately 145 employes and 90 vehicles will work out of these operating centers, giving the company the capability to pick up or deliver a package at any address in the state.

The new service contains several unique features, including:

—A driver calls at a shipper's place of business each day to pick up packages. For a small weekly service charge he appears automatically without regard to the size of the shipper's business or the volume of packages that can be expected from the account.

—Deliveries are made directly to the premises of the consignee whether he is located on the upper floor of an office building or at street level.

—If for any reason a delivery cannot be completed on first call, the dirver will make a second, and if necessary, a third attempt at delivery without extra charge. If the package still cannot be delivered, or if it is refused by the receiver, it will be returned to the shipper, also without additional charge.

—All packages sent via United Parcel Service are protected automatically for up to $100 against loss or damage without extra charge. Additional protection can be purchased at nominal cost.

—Signatures are obtained for each package delivered and specially designed records will permit prompt answering of queries about delivery of a package.

—United Parcel Service provides an address search service to minimize delivery delays for incorrectly addressed parcels, and also offers a C.O.D. service.

—All drivers are neatly uniformed and delivery vehicles are maintained at high levels of appearance. It is company policy to wash or clean each vehicle daily and to repaint vehicles at regular intervals.

Man Helping Solve Kidnap Case Receives 'Eyes' Award

The Nebraska Optometric Association announced its latest "Eyes on Nebraska" award will go to Joseph W. Gibbs of Omaha.

In announcing the award, Dr. L. R. Whitaker of Gering, association president, said Gibbs was being honored "for using his vision to the best advantage" in helping solve a recent Omaha kidnaping case.

Dr. Whitaker explained that the "Eyes" award is made for those who "contribute to the betterment of Nebraska. We feel that Gibbs contributed to the betterment of mankind."

Gibbs, 38, is custodian at Hillside Elementary School in West Omaha. He also is president of Omaha's Centennial Model T Club.

Noticed Woman

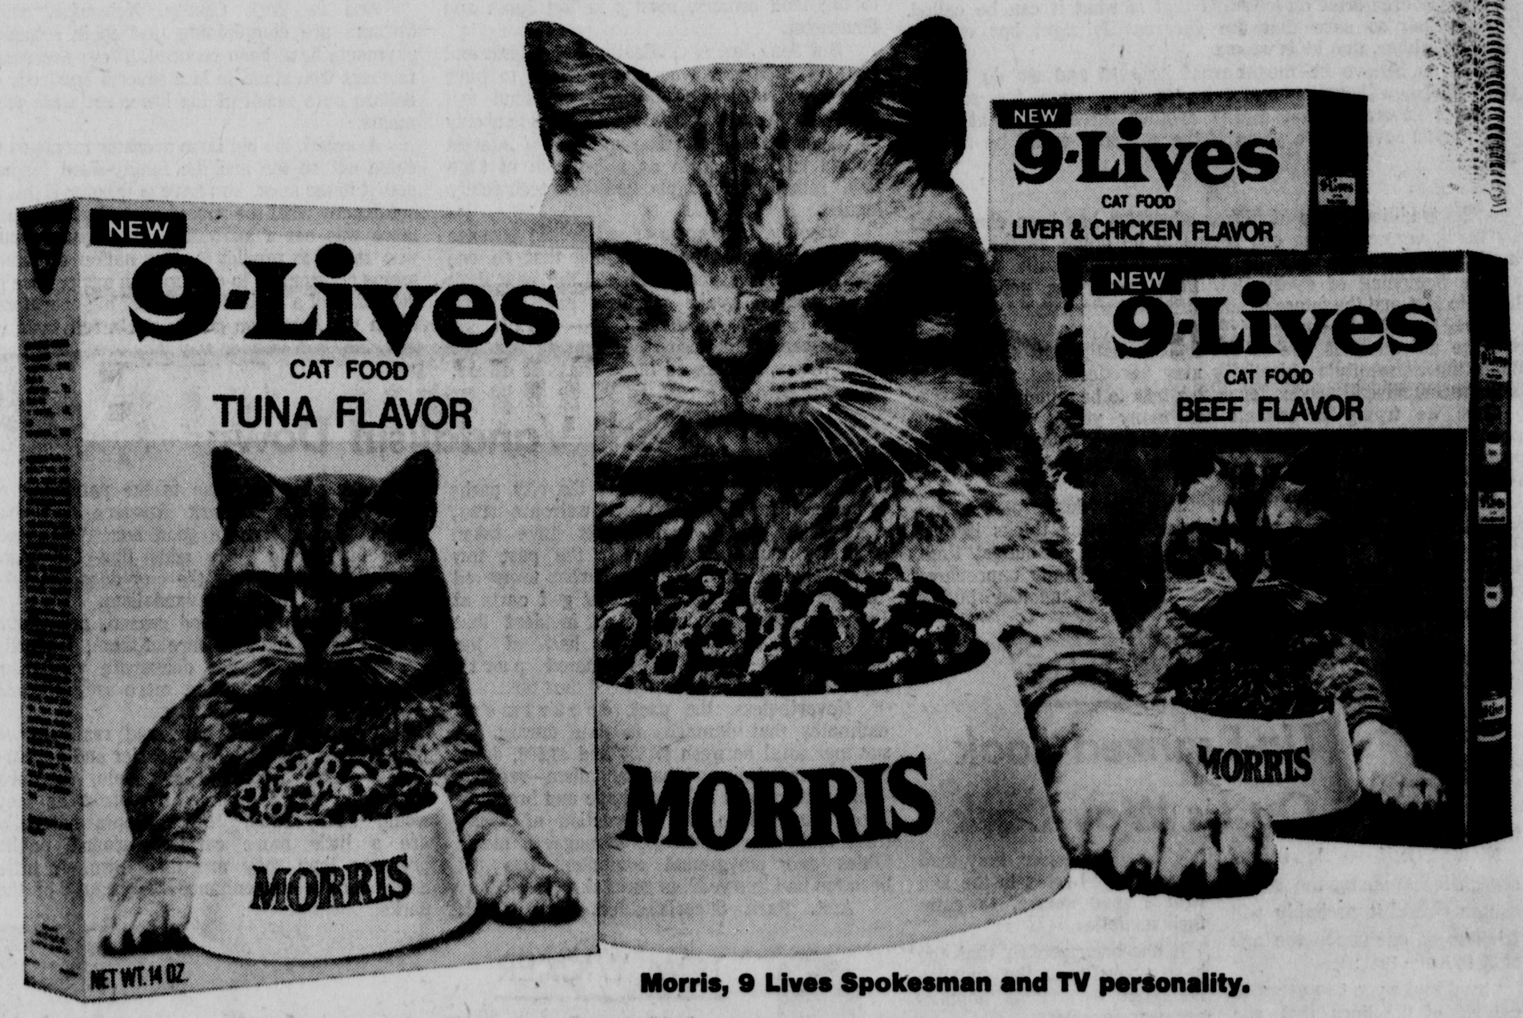

"On my way out of the hospital," he said, "I heard a clatter of steps behind me, when I noticed this woman pass in a hurry with a baby in her arms.

"I thought she might be a nurse taking it to University Hospital across the street. Then I noticed that she was headed for the same parking lot where my car was located. I saw the number on her car — 1-BJ58, I made a mental note of it and then went back home."

The next morning before heading to Hillside School, Gibbs heard the kidnaping report on the radio. Telling his son, Todd, "I think I may know something about this" — he immediately called the police. The report aided in recovery of the infant and apprehension of chief suspects in the case.

Gibbs said that as a longtime Model T enthusiast, "I probably have a more than passing interst in all autos. When we (his family) go on vacation, I always look at license plates and I guess numbers have always been easy for me to remember."

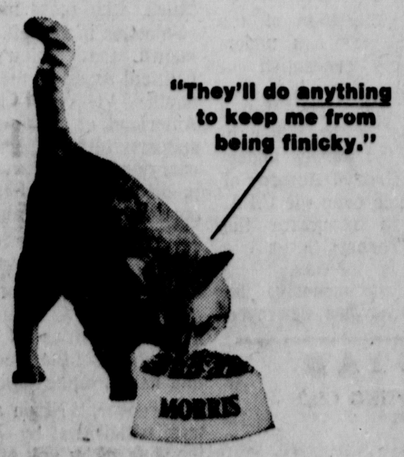

"Hey. Now 9-Lives comes out with a new Dry Cat Food!"

University of Nebraska Chancellor Durward B. Varner cannot be faulted in his dedication to the improvement of the cause to humanity as well as a place for the cultivation of young minds in all fields of knowledge.

In the past week, two new programs have been inaugurated by the chancellor. One is a two-pronged affair — the expansion of irrigation in Nebraska and the control of agricultural pollution. Certainly, both of them are laudable programs and they have an important bearing on the most important industry in the state.

Also, the university will be one of the first participants in the new federal program of volunteer service, combining the several divergent volunteer programs that have existed in the past. The NU program will be known as the Nebraska Opportunity for Volunteer Action.

Prior to the above two programs, the chancellor outlined a charge for the new committee whose job it will be to draft a new constitution or rules of operation for the university. In doing so, he placed the spotlight on some of the tough administrative problems that higher education must now deal with.

Also, there has been authorized a study of the administrative efficiency of the university, occasioned by the recent tight budget policies of the administration of Gov. J. James Exon. Gov. Exon has served notice that the second year of his administration will be no easier than the first in fiscal matters.

But to date, none of the things the university is doing seems to get to the real heart of the problem. What is the overall future of the university, both in Nebraska and in its relationships to all of higher education across the land?

Nothing now being done gets down to the matter of academic reform in any substantive way. As things now stand, the university budget for 1972-73 will be much like the budget for 1971-72. It will be a hold-the-line budget that prevents any expansion of academic programs, the improvement of faculty and the establishment of a better physical plant.

To date, it seems that we are doing many things in many areas but nothing in the most fundamental area of all — the education of our young people. When Governor Exon made his last budget recommendations, he spoke of reforms in education that would improve the quality of the product and at less cost.

He was speaking in terms of radical changes in our approach to higher education, in the formalized structure we have devised for the pursuit of academic excellence. He was speaking in terms of a new evaluation of who should receive a higher education and what kind of an education it ought to be.

We know of nothing going on at the moment addressed to this gubernatorial directive, if that is what it can be called. We are not so sure that the governor is right but we are not sure, either, that he is wrong.

We do believe he meant what he said and we do believe that things will never again be as they were for so long as he is governor. That means another three years, at least, and maybe seven more years if the governor would be re-elected.

The traditional role of higher education has been challenged by the governor but no one seems to be doing anything about it. If the challenge evolves into a political battle for funds at the beginning of every new fiscal year, the university is likely to lose and the cause of education will win nothing.

The governor's challenge for reform deserves to be met and the university is one of the logical institutions to meet it. While the university's objectivity may be questoned, where else is the technical skill needed for such a task to be found?

Are we trying to educate too many young people? Are we offering too broad a curriculum? Are we trying to educate people at the right time and with the right kind of academic superstructure?

Indeed, does the university have the dual role in the affairs of men that Chancellor Varner obviously thinks it has? We faced a lot of such questions last spring at budget time, didn't answer any of them and will soon be totally unprepared to answer them in the spring of 1972 when another budget session comes along.

'It's A Pricing Idea We Got From The International Air Lines'

No Big Surprise

It should come as a surprise to no one that big land holders in the country are dividing up their assets in order to qualify for higher government subsidies on wheat and feed grains. Congress recently enacted a subsidy limit of $55,000 per individual, aimed at cutting down the huge payments made to big land owners, mostly in the South and Southwest.

But Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi and actor John Wayne are reported to have split their properties up and the land will fall heir to about the same total subsidy as it has in the past. The splitting of interest in the land is known as a loophole in the law, something not planned but technically legal.

Actually, it is not a true loophole because a loophole should be something that no one anticipated. Everybody figured the new limit on subsidies would produce exactly what Eastland and Wayne have done.

Rather than lose the subsidy on the land, Wayne has leased large tracts to others. He will receive income from the lease and the lease-holder will get the federal subsidy for the crops involved. Eastland has reportedly done about the same thing, using family to form different operating companies, all of them entitled to a separate federal subsidy

And in York County, Nebraska, some farmers are complaining that their set-aside payments have been reduced. These are small farmers who stand to lose several hundreds of dollars as a result of the lower set-aside payments.

As usual, the big farm operator manages to come out on top and the family-sized farmer gets it in the neck. You have to wonder if this is not exactly what the government planned, since there was not a knowledgable person around who failed to predict it. The nation certainly seems determined to end up with agriculture in the hands of a limited number of big operators. When the American people get a full taste of that, they will wonder why they ever let it happen.

Park Vandalism Down

Reports that vandalism in the city parks is down so far this summer is welcome news, considering that Lincoln parks have taken a pretty tough beating over the past few years. Our enthusiasm is somewhat tempered by the senseless destruction of golf carts at Pioneers Park last week, an incident that has contributed to roughly half of the damages—in terms of estimated parts replacement and labor—incurred thus far.

Nevertheless, the park department estimates that damages to date during the summer total between $7,500 and $8,500, down from recent years and that vandalism—ranging from window and light breakage and breaking into restrooms to the destruction of young trees and other landscape damage to picnic tables and playground equipment—has not been too bad this year, in general.

Asst. Park Superintendent Herb Cords attributes the decrease to the patrolling of parks by Lincoln Park Rangers and that basically, "we have a good bunch of people here in Lincoln." He adds that the word is getting around that the city does not take lightly acts of deliberate vandalism.

Lincolnites, with good reason, are proud of their parks and take care of them, generally speaking. The acts of deliberate vandalism apparently are becoming more isolated and we hope that trend continues.

Beyond that, the care and maintenance of the parks would be made easier and appearances visibly improved if people, as Cord suggests, "would think of the parks as they would their lawns." Most people naturally are a little more careless around public property than they are their own. A little extra care would enhance the beauty of the parks.

MARQUIS CHILDS
Admiral Sharp Speaks Out

WASHINGTON — Not one in a hundred Americans could identify Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp Yet, as the Pentagon Papers showing, this four-star admiral held a key position during the escalation of the Vietnam war. As commander in chief, Pacific, and, therefore, in overall control of the largest American military command in the world, he fired off one telegram after another demanding an enlarged air war to wipe out all of North Vietnam's military and industrial potential.

Retired now and chairman of the advisory board of Teledyne-Ryan, manufacturers of a pilotless aircraft with extensive defense contracts, Sharp has lost none of his fire. Mild-mannered and courteous, he is nevertheless in the forefront of those who would put the blame for the failure to achieve victory in the Vietnam war on the civilians who shackled the military.

That is the heart of the backlash which many have feared would become an important political factor as the consequence of a war in which more than 45,000 Americans were killed in combat — a war so costly in dividing the country and feeding the upward spiral of inflaton. Thus far the backlash has been a small voice in the national chorus of dismay and distrust over the Indochina conflict.

It has come chiefly from organizations such as the American Security Council, heavily weighted with former generals and admirals. They agitate for larger defense budgets with a warning of the grave threat to America's security in the '70s from the Soviet Union.

Admiral Sharp is speaking on television and giving interviews attacking the newspapers for using the secret Pentagon Papers. In a telephone interview with this reporter, he contended that the newspapers should have submitted the documents to Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and abided by his judgment as to what could and could not be printed. The people who wrote the narrative purporting to be history, said Sharp, were disenchanted with war and slanted their account.

But his reputation rests on the strongly worded attack on former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, published in The Reader's Digest just after his retirement. McNamara repeatedly prevented the Air Force from hitting the targets that would have brought the North Vietnamese to their knees and ended the war. Sharp had urged mining Haiphong harbor, and bombing Haiphong docks and industrial installations in Hanoi.

"It may well be that our civilian leadership believed that to use our military tools properly to eliminate the enemy's ability to make war would have been to risk a nuclear confrontation with the Soviet Union," he wrote. "Personally, I believe the risk was minimal; in any case, a nation which is not willing to take calculated risks to achieve its objectives should never go to war in the first place.

"Further, I believe that once a political decision is made to commit American troops to battle, we are morally obligated to use our military power in such a way as to end the fighting as quickly as possible."

Besides the Digest circulation of 14 million copies, 252,740 reprints of the Sharp articles were sent out. President Nixon's closeness to the Digest may be merely a coincidence. After his defeat for the governorship of California in 1962 when he was counted out politically, the magazine paid him handsomely for a series of articles and for his travels around the world. After visiting Vietnam, he published in the December, 1965, Digest a passionately pro-war article in which he said:

"There can be no substitute for victory when the objective is the defeat of communist aggression."

The Congress by large majorities rejected cuts in the defense budget. For the viewers-with-alarm, that is no answer. They see the nation disarmed by pacifists and leftists.

ANTHONY LEWIS
Defining Presidential Power By Law

LONDON — Law has always pervaded American life. Lawyers dominate our politics and interpret our Constitution. Even the American Revolution was cast in the form of a return to legality — a revolt against a lawless king.

Not surprisingly, therefore, Americans have a more conscious concern than other peoples with constitutional order. They insist that the great decisions of public policy not only win political approval but accord with deeper national understandings, moral and historical.

A sense that something has gone wrong in this natural order, this deeper rhythm, must play a significant part in the present American mood. When polls show a shattering loss of national optimism, it is not just that we are in a war whose results distress the public but that we got there by irregular means — unnatural means, in the Shakespearean sense.

All this is in the background of the First Amendment cases just decided by the Supreme Court. When the self-congratulatory editorials have been forgotten, along with the hostility openly displayed toward the newspapers by two members of the court, the opinions in New York Times v. United States will be read for their view of the American political understanding.

For the clash within the court was not over the meaning of the First Amendment in some verbal sense. It was over the allocation of power in our democracy.

A majority of the court agreed that certain defense and diplomatic information ought to be kept confidential, and that publication of some of the documents involved in these cases would create risks to the national interset. But only for Chief Justice Burger, Justice Harlan and Justice Blackmun did it follow that the president had the power to prevent publication.

The dissenters' view of executive power was set out in Justice Harlan's opinion. It was a strikingly expansive view.

Justice Harlan said that the president, because of his constitutional primacy in foreign affairs, has absolute power to keep any matter affecting foreign or security policy secret. Further, even without the support of congressional legislation, he can call on the courts to enforce his decisions by injunction. Finally, the courts, in Justice Harlan's view, would have virtually no reviewing function: if the head of a cabinet department had declared the national security to be jeopardized by some proposed publication, the only judicial review would be to make sure that the material at issue was within the "compass of the president's foreign relations power."

Anyone would hesitate to say this of a judge as thoughtful and as concerned with history as John Marshall Harlan, but that conception of executive power is difficult to square with American premises. To say that the president has primacy in foreign affairs is one thing; it is another to say that he has absolute legal power to exclude the public from the formation of policy.

Of course no government can conduct its diplomatic relations on the basis of opinion polls.

As it happens, we have just had a test of presidential power in foreign affairs unrestrained by the normal process of public consultation—a practical, not a legal test. That was the process by which President Johnson expanded the American involvement in Vietnam into full-scale war

Put to one side the question of how far planning for an enlarged war had gone in 1964. It is beyond doubt that in 1965, when he had decided in favor of massive bombing and troop involvement, Johnson deliberately concealed the true measure of those decisions from the public. He pretended for months that American policy was not really changing, and he never brought to view the real debate about U.S. interests that underlay the decisions for war.

That way of carrying out the president's foreign affairs responsibility has been found constitutionally wrong, in the profoundest sense, by the American people. Their distress now, their distrust in the world of political leaders, stems to a great degree from President Johnson's calculated failure to take them into his confidence on the ultimate issue of war

Our constitutional order is not one of centralized power. It is a system of divided governmental authority checked by an open society. There are terrible risks, but after Vietnam, it is not at all clear that the alternative is less risky.

"You are now in the position of making demands on the First Amendment," Chief Justice Burger told counsel for the Washington Post in the argument of these cases. But the framers of the amendment wrote it into the Constitution for the benefit not of the press but of the country. They created the system they did, as Brandeis said, not because it was efficient but because they feared power.

PHYLLIS BATTELLE
Un-Bronzed Look On Its Way Back

NEW YORK — It is the season for attaining the status suntan — and it probably will frighten no one under the age of 30 to learn that:

"It will take you two years to get rid of the lines that one month's vacation in the sun will give you."

Mme. Helena Rubinstein warned me this, when I was 26 and still had an uncreased face, freshly bronzed by the tropical sun.

She added, in her infinite wisdom, "But of course you will not listen to me, my dear. Young women under 30 do not care when I say they are crazy to lie in the sun. When you are in your 40s and your skin is very leathery, very sallow, very wrinkled and very hideous, you will remember. Then it will be too late."

Now I remember. And now it is. Many seasons in the sun have left me with a complexion comparable to my son's catcher's mitt — heavily oiled but distinctly leathery. The family doesn't mind (they like anything associated with sports), but I cringe a bit when I remember Madame Rubinstein's pale, porclain-pure skin at the age of 80-plus.

A doctor of dermatology, Dr. J. Graham Smith, has predicted that the bronzed look is going out of style, and that within the space of a few years, Americans will find it more attractive to look pale.

Claiming that even women in their 20s showed some signs of skin cancer, Dr. Smith said good sense and medical awareness would make us sit up and take precautions.

But fear has not faded us. No more than the dread of lung cancer has banished the cigarette. When people are frightened of cancer, they tend to go out and relax in the sun with a good smoke, to calm their anxieties.

It has been proven that the health benefits of the sun are negligible — and its dangers are considerable.

"The only proven physiological benefit of sunlight on normal skin is the formation of vitamin D," warned the medical magazine "Today's Health." "And ordinary daylight and normal dietary sources insure adequate vitamin D to virtually all adults. So the contribution of sunbathing in this respect is of little significance."

It will continue to look creased and coarse. The lips will incline to become thickened and fissured.

"A single bad sunburn, which injures the living skin cells, can give the skin a mattled, blotched, piebald appearance which may be irreparable."

What's more, hair—once sunburned—becomes "so dry and unevenly colored and unhealthy that it will not curl, even with a good and costly permanent wave."

All this, and the threat of skin cancer too. Yet most Americans still grasp any opportunity to get out in the sun, and still consider it almost indecent for a person to return from a vacation looking pale-faced. The suntan remains the symbol of vigor, athletic prowess, beauty and success.

Hang the danger—full status ahead!

Viet Cong Proposals Put President On Spot; Offer Of Prisoners For Withdrawal The Crux

NEW YORK — Unless Dr. Henry Kissinger can bring back from Saigon better news about Vietnamization than the published reports suggest, the latest Viet Cong proposals appear to have put President Nixon in an excruciating dilemma.

If so, it will be to no small extent his own doom. In fact, a good many other knowledgeable Americans have welcomed the Viet Cong offer to release the prisoners of war if the United States removes its troops by the end of this year. As Nixon's former ambassador to the United Nations, Charles W. Yost, pointed out in an article in the New York Times, that kind of arrangement would both extricate the United States from the shooting war and make the Saigon regime face the necessity either of fighting alone or of negotiating a settlement with the Viet Cong.

But there is nothing in the record to suggest that that is what Nixon wants right now. Indeed, the rationale of the Vietnamization program, through which the war has been carried on for the last 2½ years, is to give the Saigon government "a chance" to survive. And the evidence suggests that Nixon's primary objective is to keep that government in power at least until after the 1972 American elections and for long enough after the substantial departure of American forces so that the Nixon administration cannot be charged with having "lost" South Vietnam to communism —or with having lost a war.

To help sustain this policy among war-weary Americans, Nixon has insisted (a) that he is fighting for a "generation of peace" that would be endangered if he pulled out of Vietnam too soon, and (b) that setting a date for withdrawal would ruin prospects for the return of the prisoners of war.

But the publication of the Pentagon Papers has undermined the "generation of peace" theme, since it is now confirmed that the United States played a direct role in bringing on the war by undercutting the Geneva Accords of 1954, and since even the C.I.A. is shown to repudiate the "Domino Theory" as a justification for the war.

Almost simultaneously, the Viet Cong offer has destroyed Nixon's P.O.W. thesis, since it is clear that if the war were being fought only to get the prisoners back, that could be accomplished quickly by withdrawal.

Thus, Nixon's own past arguments will make it exceptionally difficult for him to turn down the Viet Cong offer at least, the prisoners-for-withdrawal exchange — and retain domestic political belief in the necessity for his phased withdrawal program. But he will no doubt find a way to do so, because to accept the proposal would damage his own game plan.

To agree to total American withdrawal by the end of this year would probably be a political disaster for President Thieu, who must himself win re-election in the fall. It is well known that Thieu's biggest political asset is the belief in South Vietnam that the American establishment there supports him and his policy of carrying on the war, so that it is difficult to mount a strong opposition against him.

Setting a firm withdrawal date before Thieu's re-election would surely be interpreted in South Vietnam as an American repudiation of the Thieu regime and its hard-line policy.

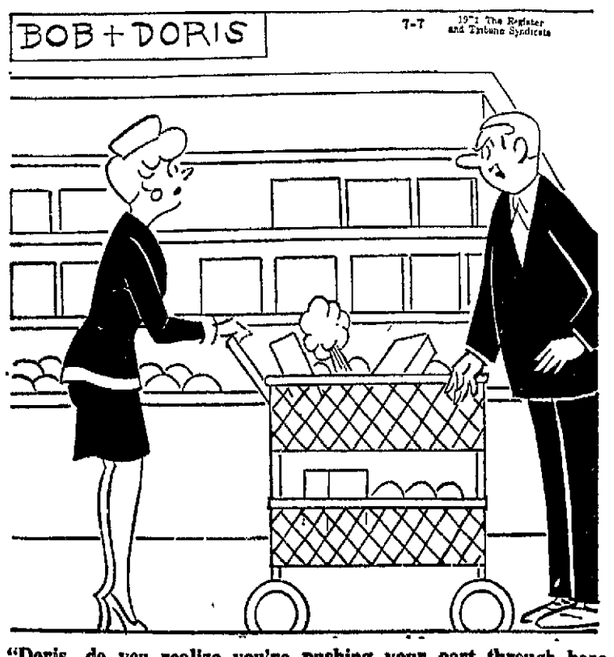

Moreover, if Nixon agreed to total withdrawal by the end of the year, or by any other date, he would sacrifice even the possibility of a "Korean solution" — keeping an American force in South Vietnam to guarantee a non-communist regime.

Recent battlefield developments also suggest that Vietnamization of the war is by no means a fact. Despite the Cambodian and Laotian invasions, the vastly expanded air war, the costly training programs and equipment deliveries, and the continuing American involvement, South Vietnam's ability to defend itself with its American-style million-man army — road-bound, sluggish, poorly led, and fire power-dependent — obviously does not much impress the Viet Cong, Hanoi or, one suspects, Washington.

These are strong reasons for rejecting or obfuscating the Viet Cong proposals, if Nixon is resolved at all costs to sustain the Thieu regime, either to the theoretical point where it may be able to defend itself, or to the practical point that he thinks will service his domestic political purposes. But in that case, it will be harder to persuade the American people, sick as they are of the misbegotten mess in Southeast Asia, that the President really wants either a negotiated political settlement, the early return of the prisoners, or total American disengagement.

It should come as a surprise to no one that big land holders in the country are dividing up their assets in order to qualify for higher government subsidies on wheat and feed grains. Congress recently enacted a subsidy limit of $55,000 per individual, aimed at cutting down the huge payments made to big land owners, mostly in the South and Southwest.

But Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi and actor John Wayne are reported to have split their properties up and the land will fall heir to about the same total subsidy as it has in the past. The splitting of interest in the land is known as a loophole in the law, something not planned but technically legal.

Actually, it is not a true loophole because a loophole should be something that no one anticipated. Everybody figured the new limit on subsidies would produce exactly what Eastland and Wayne have done.

Rather than lose the subsidy on the land, Wayne has leased large tracts to others. He will receive income from the lease and the lease-holder will get the federal subsidy for the crops involved. Eastland has reportedly done about the same thing, using family to form different operating companies, all of them entitled to a separate federal subsidy.

And in York County, Nebraska, some farmers are complaining that their set-aside payments have been reduced. These are small farmers who stand to lose several hundreds of dollars as a result of the lower set-aside payments.

As usual, the big farm operator manages to come out on top and the family-sized farmer gets it in the neck. You have to wonder if this is not exactly what the government planned, since there was not a knowledgable person around who failed to predict it. The nation certainly seems determined to end up with agriculture in the hands of a limited number of big operators. When the American people get a full taste of that, they will wonder why they ever let it happen.

Park Vandalism Down

Reports that vandalism in the city parks is down so far this summer is welcome news, considering that Lincoln parks have taken a pretty tough beating over the past few years. Our enthusiasm is somewhat tempered by the senseless destruction of golf carts at Pioneers Park last week, an incident that has contributed to roughly half of the damages—in terms of estimated parts replacement and labor—incurred thus far.

Nevertheless, the park department estimates that damages to date during the summer total between $7,500 and $8,500, down from recent years and that vandalism—ranging from window and light breakage and breaking into restrooms to the destruction of young trees and other landscape damage to picnic tables and playground equipment—has not been too bad this year, in general.

Asst. Park Superintendent Herb Cords attributes the decrease to the patrolling of parks by Lincoln Park Rangers and that basically, "we have a good bunch of people here in Lincoln." He adds that the word is getting around that the city does not take lightly acts of deliberate vandalism.

Lincolnites, with good reason, are proud of their parks and take care of them, generally speaking. The acts of deliberate vandalism apparently are becoming more isolated and we hope that trend continues.

Beyond that, the care and maintenance of the parks would be made easier and appearances visibly improved if people, as Cord suggests, "would think of the parks as they would their lawns." Most people naturally are a little more careless around public property than they are their own. A little extra care would enhance the beauty of the parks.

Admiral Sharp Speaks Out

WASHINGTON — Not one in a hundred Americans could identify Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp. Yet, as the Pentagon Papers showing, this four-star admiral held a key position during the escalation of the Vietnam war. As commander in chief, Pacific, and, therefore, in overall control of the largest American military command in the world, he fired off one telegram after another demanding an enlarged air war to wipe out all of North Vietnam's military and industrial potential.

Retired now and chairman of the advisory board of Teledyne-Ryan, manufacturers of a pilotless aircraft with extensive defense contracts, Sharp has lost none of his fire. Mild-mannered and courteous, he is nevertheless in the forefront of those who would put the blame for the failure to achieve victory in the Vietnam war on the civilians who shackled the military.

That is the heart of the backlash which many have feared would become an important political factor as the consequence of a war in which more than 45,000 Americans were killed in combat — a war so costly in dividing the country and feeding the upward spiral of inflaton. Thus far the backlash has been a small voice in the national chorus of dismay and distrust over the Indochina conflict.

It has come chiefly from organizations such as the American Security Council, heavily weighted with former generals and admirals. They agitate for larger defense budgets with a warning of the grave threat to America's security in the '70s from the Soviet Union.

Admiral Sharp is speaking on television and giving interviews attacking the newspapers for using the secret Pentagon Papers. In a telephone interview with this reporter, he contended that the newspapers should have submitted the documents to Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and abided by his judgment as to what could and could not be printed. The people who wrote the narrative purporting to be history, said Sharp, were disenchanted with war and slanted their account.

But his reputation rests on the strongly worded attack on former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, published in The Reader's Digest just after his retirement. McNamara repeatedly prevented the Air Force from hitting the targets that would have brought the North Vietnamese to their knees and ended the war. Sharp had urged mining Haiphong harbor, and bombing Haiphong docks and industrial installations in Hanoi.

"It may well be that our civilian leadership believed that to use our military tools properly to eliminate the enemy's ability to make war would have been to risk a nuclear confrontation with the Soviet Union," he wrote. "Personally, I believe the risk was minimal; in any case, a nation which is not willing to take calculated risks to achieve its objectives should never go to war in the first place.

"Further, I believe that once a political decision is made to commit American troops to battle, we are morally obligated to use our military power in such a way as to end the fighting as quickly as possible."

Besides the Digest circulation of 14 million copies, 252,740 reprints of the Sharp articles were sent out. President Nixon's closeness to the Digest may be merely a coincidence. After his defeat for the governorship of California in 1962 when he was counted out politically, the magazine paid him handsomely for a series of articles and for his travels around the world. After visiting Vietnam, he published in the December, 1965, Digest a passionately pro-war article in which he said:

"There can be no substitute for victory when the objective is the defeat of communist aggression."

The Congress by large majorities rejected cuts in the defense budget. For the viewers-with-alarm, that is no answer. They see the nation disarmed by pacifists and leftists.

Defining Presidential Power By Law

LONDON — Law has always pervaded American life. Lawyers dominate our politics and interpret our Constitution. Even the American Revolution was cast in the form of a return to legality — a revolt against a lawless king.

Not surprisingly, therefore, Americans have a more conscious concern than other peoples with constitutional order. They insist that the great decisions of public policy not only win political approval but accord with deeper national understandings, moral and historical.

A sense that something has gone wrong in this natural order, this deeper rhythm, must play a significant part in the present American mood. When polls show a shattering loss of national optimism, it is not just that we are in a war whose results distress the public but that we got there by irregular means — unnatural means, in the Shakespearean sense.

All this is in the background of the First Amendment cases just decided by the Supreme Court. When the self-congratulatory editorials have been forgotten, along with the hostility openly displayed toward the newspapers by two members of the court, the opinions in New York Times v. United States will be read for their view of the American political understanding.

For the clash within the court was not over the meaning of the First Amendment in some verbal sense. It was over the allocation of power in our democracy.

A majority of the court agreed that certain defense and diplomatic information ought to be kept confidential, and that publication of some of the documents involved in these cases would create risks to the national interset. But only for Chief Justice Burger, Justice Harlan and Justice Blackmun did it follow that the president had the power to prevent publication.

The dissenters' view of executive power was set out in Justice Harlan's opinion. It was a strikingly expansive view.

Justice Harlan said that the president, because of his constitutional primacy in foreign affairs, has absolute power to keep any matter affecting foreign or security policy secret. Further, even without the support of congressional legislation, he can call on the courts to enforce his decisions by injunction. Finally, the courts, in Justice Harlan's view, would have virtually no reviewing function: if the head of a cabinet department had declared the national security to be jeopardized by some proposed publication, the only judicial review would be to make sure that the material at issue was within the "compass of the president's foreign relations power."

Anyone would hesitate to say this of a judge as thoughtful and as concerned with history as John Marshall Harlan, but that conception of executive power is difficult to square with American premises. To say that the president has primacy in foreign affairs is one thing; it is another to say that he has absolute legal power to exclude the public from the formation of policy.

Of course no government can conduct its diplomatic relations on the basis of opinion polls.

As it happens, we have just had a test of presidential power in foreign affairs unrestrained by the normal process of public consultation—a practical, not a legal test. That was the process by which President Johnson expanded the American involvement in Vietnam into full-scale war.

Put to one side the question of how far planning for an enlarged war had gone in 1964. It is beyond doubt that in 1965, when he had decided in favor of massive bombing and troop involvement, Johnson deliberately concealed the true measure of those decisions from the public. He pretended for months that American policy was not really changing, and he never brought to view the real debate about U.S. interests that underlay the decisions for war.

That way of carrying out the president's foreign affairs responsibility has been found constitutionally wrong, in the profoundest sense, by the American people. Their distress now, their distrust in the world of political leaders, stems to a great degree from President Johnson's calculated failure to take them into his confidence on the ultimate issue of war.

Our constitutional order is not one of centralized power. It is a system of divided governmental authority checked by an open society. There are terrible risks, but after Vietnam, it is not at all clear that the alternative is less risky.

"You are now in the position of making demands on the First Amendment," Chief Justice Burger told counsel for the Washington Post in the argument of these cases. But the framers of the amendment wrote it into the Constitution for the benefit not of the press but of the country. They created the system they did, as Brandeis said, not because it was efficient but because they feared power.

Un-Bronzed Look On Its Way Back

NEW YORK — It is the season for attaining the status suntan — and it probably will frighten no one under the age of 30 to learn that:

"It will take you two years to get rid of the lines that one month's vacation in the sun will give you."

Mme. Helena Rubinstein warned me this, when I was 26 and still had an uncreased face, freshly bronzed by the tropical sun.

She added, in her infinite wisdom, "But of course you will not listen to me, my dear. Young women under 30 do not care when I say they are crazy to lie in the sun. When you are in your 40s and your skin is very leathery, very sallow, very wrinkled and very hideous, you will remember. Then it will be too late."

Now I remember. And now it is. Many seasons in the sun have left me with a complexion comparable to my son's catcher's mitt — heavily oiled but distinctly leathery. The family doesn't mind (they like anything associated with sports), but I cringe a bit when I remember Madame Rubinstein's pale, porclain-pure skin at the age of 80-plus.

A doctor of dermatology, Dr. J. Graham Smith, has predicted that the bronzed look is going out of style, and that within the space of a few years, Americans will find it more attractive to look pale.

Claiming that even women in their 20s showed some signs of skin cancer, Dr. Smith said good sense and medical awareness would make us sit up and take precautions.

But fear has not faded us. No more than the dread of lung cancer has banished the cigarette. When people are frightened of cancer, they tend to go out and relax in the sun with a good smoke, to calm their anxieties.

It has been proven that the health benefits of the sun are negligible — and its dangers are considerable.

"The only proven physiological benefit of sunlight on normal skin is the formation of vitamin D," warned the medical magazine "Today's Health." "And ordinary daylight and normal dietary sources insure adequate vitamin D to virtually all adults. So the contribution of sunbathing in this respect is of little significance."

It will continue to look creased and coarse. The lips will incline to become thickened and fissured.

"A single bad sunburn, which injures the living skin cells, can give the skin a mattled, blotched, piebald appearance which may be irreparable."

What's more, hair—once sunburned—becomes "so dry and unevenly colored and unhealthy that it will not curl, even with a good and costly permanent wave."

All this, and the threat of skin cancer too. Yet most Americans still grasp any opportunity to get out in the sun, and still consider it almost indecent for a person to return from a vacation looking pale-faced. The suntan remains the symbol of vigor, athletic prowess, beauty and success.

Hang the danger—full status ahead!

NEW YORK — Unless Dr. Henry Kissinger can bring back from Saigon better news about Vietnamization than the published reports suggest, the latest Viet Cong proposals appear to have put President Nixon in an excruciating dilemma.

If so, it will be to no small extent his own doom. In fact, a good many other knowledgeable Americans have welcomed the Viet Cong offer to release the prisoners of war if the United States removes its troops by the end of this year. As Nixon's former ambassador to the United Nations, Charles W. Yost, pointed out in an article in the New York Times, that kind of arrangement would both extricate the United States from the shooting war and make the Saigon regime face the necessity either of fighting alone or of negotiating a settlement with the Viet Cong.

But there is nothing in the record to suggest that that is what Nixon wants right now. Indeed, the rationale of the Vietnamization program, through which the war has been carried on for the last 2½ years, is to give the Saigon government "a chance" to survive. And the evidence suggests that Nixon's primary objective is to keep that government in power at least until after the 1972 American elections and for long enough after the substantial departure of American forces so that the Nixon administration cannot be charged with having "lost" South Vietnam to communism —or with having lost a war.

To help sustain this policy among war-weary Americans, Nixon has insisted (a) that he is fighting for a "generation of peace" that would be endangered if he pulled out of Vietnam too soon, and (b) that setting a date for withdrawal would ruin prospects for the return of the prisoners of war.

But the publication of the Pentagon Papers has undermined the "generation of peace" theme, since it is now confirmed that the United States played a direct role in bringing on the war by undercutting the Geneva Accords of 1954, and since even the C.I.A. is shown to repudiate the "Domino Theory" as a justification for the war.

Almost simultaneously, the Viet Cong offer has destroyed Nixon's P.O.W. thesis, since it is clear that if the war were being fought only to get the prisoners back, that could be accomplished quickly by withdrawal.

Thus, Nixon's own past arguments will make it exceptionally difficult for him to turn down the Viet Cong offer at least, the prisoners-for-withdrawal exchange — and retain domestic political belief in the necessity for his phased withdrawal program. But he will no doubt find a way to do so, because to accept the proposal would damage his own game plan.

To agree to total American withdrawal by the end of this year would probably be a political disaster for President Thieu, who must himself win re-election in the fall. It is well known that Thieu's biggest political asset is the belief in South Vietnam that the American establishment there supports him and his policy of carrying on the war, so that it is difficult to mount a strong opposition against him.

Setting a firm withdrawal date before Thieu's re-election would surely be interpreted in South Vietnam as an American repudiation of the Thieu regime and its hard-line policy.

Moreover, if Nixon agreed to total withdrawal by the end of the year, or by any other date, he would sacrifice even the possibility of a "Korean solution" — keeping an American force in South Vietnam to guarantee a non-communist regime.

Recent battlefield developments also suggest that Vietnamization of the war is by no means a fact. Despite the Cambodian and Laotian invasions, the vastly expanded air war, the costly training programs and equipment deliveries, and the continuing American involvement, South Vietnam's ability to defend itself with its American-style million-man army — road-bound, sluggish, poorly led, and fire power-dependent — obviously does not much impress the Viet Cong, Hanoi or, one suspects, Washington.

These are strong reasons for rejecting or obfuscating the Viet Cong proposals, if Nixon is resolved at all costs to sustain the Thieu regime, either to the theoretical point where it may be able to defend itself, or to the practical point that he thinks will service his domestic political purposes. But in that case, it will be harder to persuade the American people, sick as they are of the misbegotten mess in Southeast Asia, that the President really wants either a negotiated political settlement, the early return of the prisoners, or total American disengagement.

City Park Chief Quits Position With Koscot

City Parks and Recreation Director Don Smith will remain with the City of Lincoln and give up his association with Koscot Interplanetary Inc., Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said Tuesday.

City Councilman Bob Skyta last week had requested the mayor to check whether Smith's employment outside city time with the firm represented a conflict of interest.

Smith, who had approval for outside employment from City Personnel Director Walt Mitchell, had stated that he and his wife undertook the distributorship for Turner Enterprises as an investment opportunity.

Turner, an affiliate of Koscot Interplanetary Inc. of Orlando, Fla., reportedly has been the subject of considerable controversy over its practices throughout the nation.

The mayor said that Smith's wife will continue to sell the products.

Schwartzkopf said he didn't want directors to do outside work because he feels that a director's job is a full-time 24-hour position.

Lincoln Police To Continue Policy Of Bringing Juveniles To Station

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Police Chief Joe Carroll said Tuesday that juvenile offenders will continue to be brought to police headquarters before being released to their parents or guardians.

Carroll's comments were in regard to an announced policy by Omaha Police Chief Richard Anderson that most juveniles arrested for misdemeanors will be taken to their parents instead of Omaha police headquarters.

In Omaha, according to an Associated Press story, officers previously took juveniles to headquarters for booking before releasing them to parents or guardians or for detention in custody pending further investigation.

Lincoln juvenile offenders are held in a "waiting room" at headquarters until their parents can be asked to come to police headquarters, according to Carroll. Arrangements are made for further contact later — if needed — at that time.

"We don't have the manpower to deliver every juvenile offender to his home," the chief said. "We locate a juvenile's parents at quickly as we can and advise them to come to headquarters.

Lancaster County Juvenile Court Judge W. W. Nuernberger noted that no juvenile offender, even in a possible felony case, is detained overnight if his parents can be located and will accept responsibility for his later appearance at the summon of police or juvenile court officers.

Nuernberger said he understood that Omaha police used overnight detention facilities prior to the announced new policy.

'Overnight Stay Rare'

"It is a very rare case where overnight detention is authorized by my court," he said.

Lancaster County Sheriff Merle Karnopp said his office uses similar procedures to those of the Lincoln Police Department.

"We hold juvenile offenders at headquarters until their parents or guardian can be located," he said.

"I go along with Joe Carroll," Karnopp said in noting delivery of juveniles to their homes after being picked up for offenses would be a "wate of law enforcement manpower."

Anderson, according to a news account, said the Omaha police policy change was aimed at giving youthful offenders "a fairer shake."

Youths booked under the present system, the Omaha chief said, often do not get the opportunity to completely clear their records in juvenile court because less than half of the cases actually are referred to juvenile court.

Laborites Split On Market Entry

London (AP) — Lord George-Brown, foreign secretary in Harold Wilson's Labor government, assailed as "Mischievous" Tuesday party colleagues who oppose Britain's entry into the European Common Market.

George-Brown stated his view in a speech prepared for delivery to the European Movement Organization. He was speaking on the eve of publication of a government White Paper — policy statement — outlining the European community's terms of entry for Britain.

George-Brown's attack was regarded as certain to widen the Laborite split. Wilson has so far kept on the fince, saying he will make no decision until he has seen the terms in the White Paper. Labor's antimarketeers, however, claim he is leaning against entry.

County Board OKs Issuance Of $1 Million In IDA Bonds

Lancaster County commissioners Tuesday approved issuance of $1 million in Industrial Development Act (IDA) bonds for the Burlington Northern Railroad.

The railroad will use the funds, which are the first of a proposed $5 million total bond issue, for construction of a railroad car paint shop and certain railroad car transfer tables and scales.

The commissioners set Friday for signing of the bonds.

Under provisions of IDA passed by the 1961 Legislature, counties and municipalities have the power to issue revenue bonds of the acquisition or improvement of certain manufacturing or industrial projects.

Although the county will hold title to the Burlington Northern bonds, the project is subject to taxation.

Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Police Chief Joe Carroll said Tuesday that juvenile offenders will continue to be brought to police headquarters before being released to their parents or guardians.

Carroll's comments were in regard to an announced policy by Omaha Police Chief Richard Anderson that most juveniles arrested for misdemeanors will be taken to their parents instead of Omaha police headquarters.

In Omaha, according to an Associated Press story, officers previously took juveniles to headquarters for booking before releasing them to parents or guardians or for detention in custody pending further investigation.

Lincoln juvenile offenders are held in a "waiting room" at headquarters until their parents can be asked to come to police headquarters, according to Carroll. Arrangements are made for further contact later — if needed — at that time.

"We don't have the manpower to deliver every juvenile offender to his home," the chief said. "We locate a juvenile's parents at quickly as we can and advise them to come to headquarters.

Lancaster County Juvenile Court Judge W. W. Nuernberger noted that no juvenile offender, even in a possible felony case, is detained overnight if his parents can be located and will accept responsibility for his later appearance at the summon of police or juvenile court officers.

Nuernberger said he understood that Omaha police used overnight detention facilities prior to the announced new policy.

'Overnight Stay Rare'

"It is a very rare case where overnight detention is authorized by my court," he said.

Lancaster County Sheriff Merle Karnopp said his office uses similar procedures to those of the Lincoln Police Department.

"We hold juvenile offenders at headquarters until their parents or guardian can be located," he said.

"I go along with Joe Carroll," Karnopp said in noting delivery of juveniles to their homes after being picked up for offenses would be a "wate of law enforcement manpower."

Anderson, according to a news account, said the Omaha police policy change was aimed at giving youthful offenders "a fairer shake."

Youths booked under the present system, the Omaha chief said, often do not get the opportunity to completely clear their records in juvenile court because less than half of the cases actually are referred to juvenile court.

Laborites Split On Market Entry

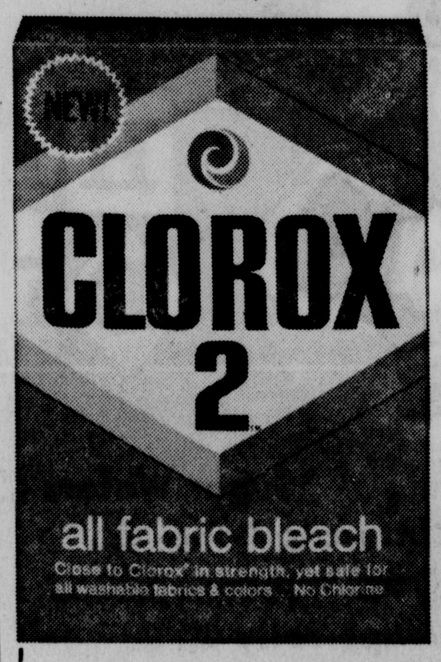

London (AP) — Lord George-Brown, foreign secretary in Harold Wilson's Labor government, assailed as "Mischievous" Tuesday party colleagues who oppose Britain's entry into the European Common Market.

George-Brown stated his view in a speech prepared for delivery to the European Movement Organization. He was speaking on the eve of publication of a government White Paper — policy statement — outlining the European community's terms of entry for Britain.

George-Brown's attack was regarded as certain to widen the Laborite split. Wilson has so far kept on the fince, saying he will make no decision until he has seen the terms in the White Paper. Labor's antimarketeers, however, claim he is leaning against entry.

With these bleaches you get more than you bargained for.

Polluting phosphates

More active bleaching ingredients – no phosphates

Why pay for phosphates that help pollute our waters when you can get more bleaching power in Dexol, than with any other safety bleach.

Yet, you can use it on the most fragile synthetics and permanent press.

Dexol Bleach. It gives you a lot more than you bargained for. It bleaches out those tough stains without polluting phosphates.

FRESHNESS EXPLAINED

Is Another Happy Difference at Hinky Dinky Supermarkets

Once again Hinky Dinky has listened to our customers and responds by introducing "Freshness Explained" Program to tell you how long Products will retain their freshness in your home.

For example: in the milk section of Hinky Dinky's dairy cases, you will see a sign which reads "Freshness Explained." It explains that "fresh milk is delivered to all Hinky Dinky supermarkets four or five times a week to guarantee you Maximum Freshness. Hinky Dinky checks the temperature in dairy cases 4 times daily to guarantee you only the freshest products when you buy them. Under normal home refrigeration, you will be able to keep the milk fresh from five to seven days."

The same type signs will explain how long you can keep other products fresh and usable in your home . . . products like eggs, potato chips, ground beef, cheeses, bread and bakery items. Look for the "FRESHNESS EXPLAINED" Signs the next time you shop at Hinky Dinky.

If you have any questions about Hinky Dinky's new Program to inform you about the freshness of products, please call Hinky Dinky's Home Economist, Helen Davis, on the Hinky Dinky Hotline, 112-800-642-9946, or drop her a card at Hinky Dinky, the supermarkets that listen to their customers.

Powder Puffers Pass Through Lincoln

Most of the 145 planes in the 25th annual Powder Puff Derby, the all-women transcontinental air race, logged in or out Tuesday at Lincoln Municipal Airport.

The 2,442-mile race started Monday from Calgary, Alberta, Canada, and will end Thursday at Baton Roug, La.

The first plane to arrive in Lincoln was a TAR 3, piloted by Romania Sloat and co-piloted by Charleen Poe, both of Ft. Smith, Ark.

Lincoln entries in the race are Miss Evelyn Sedivy and her co-pilot, Mrs. Frank Bartunek, and Mrs. Robert Heins, who is flying solo.

They spent the night in Billings and reached Lincoln Tuesday afternoon.

An official said Mrs. Heins touched down at Lincoln about 2 p.m., refueled and took-off about an hour later for Little Rock.

Miss Sedivy and Mrs. Bartunek elected to remain over night in Lincoln.

Mrs. Harold Harvey, public information officer for the Nebraska Chapter of the Ninety-Niners, an international organization of women pilots, said the winner of the race is determined by actual flying time and the manufacturer's specifications for the aircraft flown.

"It's a test of pilot ability rather than who has the fastest plane," Mrs. Harvey said. She also noted the aircraft are dispatched at timed intervals from the starting point and the first plane to reach Baton Rouge is not automatically the winner.

All flying must be done between sunrise and sunset — and a plane is disqualified for any violation of this rule.

According to the Nebraska 99ers, all proceeds from donations and program sales at the Lincoln stop will be placed in a fund for Brenda Griesman, a Spaulding high school student who was the only survivor of a crash in February involving two classmates and their instructor.

Miss Griesman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Griesman, has been hospitalized since.

Theft Causes Crash

Calcutta (UPI) — Two trains collided at Mograhat 27 miles from Calcutta after inter-station communications were disrupted by the theft of overhead electric wires. Official reports said 16 persons were killed, but unofficial sources placed the toll at 21 dead and 50 injured. A suburban train hit an electrically operated train in the rear, derailing two coaches.

University Study Committee Splits Into 3 Subcommittees

The University of Nebraska's study committee on university governance Tuesday divided itself into three subcommittees which will recommend broad policy guidelines for the NU system.

Subcommittees were designated to study faculty affairs, student affairs and administration.

Under the preliminary plan, the proposed policy guidelines for the ystem would be applied by each campus to its specific operations.

The 36-member committee has signed the task of drafting a new set of by-laws and administrative rules for the university.

It is tentatively scheduled to meet again Aug. 3 on the campus of the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Indians Climb Peak

New Delhi (UPI) — The 23,250-foot Kun Peak in the Ladakh area of Kashmir in the Himalayas has been conquered for the first time since 1913 by a 20-member Indian army mountaineering team. An Indian Defense Ministry spokesman said the team climbed to the summit of the western Himalyan peak June 25 but news of the feat was delayed because of the expedition's isolation.

Kissinger Arrives In India As Arms Sales Protested

New Delhi (AP) — Indians protesting U.S. arms sales to Pakistan shouted slogans and waved signs Tuesday as Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, arrived here for a two-day visit.

Other demonstrators turned out in Bombay where Vice President Spiro T. Agnew made a refueling stop en route to the Middle East.

Police cordoned off New Delhi airport and held back 50 demonstrators chanting, "Kissinger go home!" and carrying a huge banner reading, "Kissinger of death go back."

Protesters Dispersed

At the U.S. Embassy two miles away more demonstrators shouted slogans protesting the arms shipments are charged toward the walled compound. Police dispersed them.

In Bombay, 1,500 demonstrators were kept behind police lines.

Agnew, on a month-long, 10-nation goodwill tour, expressed sympathy for India's role in caring for millions of East Pakistani refugees and said Washington probably will seek to give New Delhi "the additional economic assistance to handle this matter."

To Meet Premier

Kissinger conferred with U.S. Embassy officials in New Delhi and is meeting Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and other high government officials Wednesday. He goes to Pakitan Thursday.

Indian Foreign Ministry sources said there was a "crisis of confidence" in India's attitude toward the United States as a result of disclosures two weeks ago that Pakistan was still receiving American military supplies.

Foreign Minister Swaran Singh has said he received a "clear assurance" while in Washington last month that no further arms shipments would be made to Pakistan.

The informatns said they believed Kissinger's main task now would be to restore New Delhi's trust in Washington.

"Dr. Kissinger would certainly like to mend fences with India," said a political commentator on the Indian government radio network a few hours after Kissinger's arrival. "But his words will have no value unless they are backed by action. In such critical times, what counts are not words but deeds."

Embargo Desired

Indian officials made clear they want the action to take the form of a tight embargo on future arms deliveries to Pakistan and a condemnation of the continued army action against separatists in East Pakistan.

American officials suggested that Kissinger's goal during his visits this week to India and Pakistan would be of a much larger scope: to see if the diplomatic and military confrontation between the two subcontinent neighbors could be eased.

Kissinger came to India from Thailand, where Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman said the White House adviser reaffirmed the U.S. government's intention to support Thailand's efforts to maintain peace and security.

Sources in Washington said earlier that Kissinger would assure Bankok that the U.S. program of military withdrawal from South Vietnam would not leave Thailand exposed to Communist attack.

There was also speculation he discussed arrangement for American air units to remain in Thailand as a protective umbrella for anti-Communist regimes in Southeast Asia. Kissinger did not meet with newsmen.

Two Resign At Lockheed

Burbank, Calif. (UPI) — Two top officers of financially troubled Lockheed Aircraft Co. resigned Tuesday because of what the company said were longstanding intentions.

The executives were Frank L. Frain, 58, a director and senior vice president of finance, and Rodgers Donaldson, 62, vice president and general counsel.

"Both resignations are part of their longstanding plans to retire from active management and both men will continue in an advisory capacity," the announcement said.

Frain, who will not be replaced immediately as a director, had a prominent role in Lockheed's credit and banking arrangements for many years.

The aerospace company currently is seeking a government guarantee of a $250 million loan so it can complete the development of the L1011, a jet airbus transport.

Indonesia's Regime Claims Landslide Win

Jakarta (AP) — The government said Tuesday its landslide victory in parliamentary elections will pave the way for accelerated political and economic development over the next 25 years.

Maj. Gen. Ali Murtopo, President Suharto's special assistant for political affairs, made the prediction following the victory of the government-backed Sekber Golkar coalition in Saturday's voting.

The group, set up to oppose Indonesia's nine major political parties, won nearly 300 of the 460 seats in the House of Representatives plus control of many provincial and local assemblies.

The plan for "accelerated modernization" is to include reducing the size of the armed forces, emphasizing economic expansion, and changing from legislation by "consensus" in the house to majority voting.

But Subchan, the chairman of the predominantly Moslem Nahatul Ulama Party, said his group and others planned to join protest over the conduct of the elections, which he called "rigged and manipulated."

Subchan charged there was no secret balloting in all of Sulawesi, that the counting of votes was faked in many areas, including central and east Java and Atjeh in north Sumatra, and that on the eve of the election armed soldiers in those areas went from house to house telling people to vote for Golkar "or else."

Baie St. Paul is a French-Canadian village, and we rented a log cabin chalet on a hilltop overlooking the broad St. Lawrence river.

The house wren looked at the modest kitchen—a four-burner vintage Hotpoint—and she said: "I don't know how I'll get along without my washer and dryer."

I looked in the refrigerator and said: "No icemaker in this one." I said: "And no garbage disposal. And no dishwasher."

I said: "We'll just have to rough it."

The children said: "Just like Indians! Goodie!"

Burning, itching agony

M.P.O. in many cases brings temporary relief for hours

When you have it, you feel you want to scream the walls down: that burning, insufferable itch of sore, swollen hemorrhoidal tissues. Now here's real help! Mentholatum laboratories have developed an exclusive doctor-tested formulation that in many cases gives you fast, temporary relief from that agonizing itching.

It's called M.P.O. (Medicated Pile Ointment). M.P.O. works fast to soothe sore sensitive tissues, give hours of relief in many cases from the pain and itching agony of hemorrhoidal tissues. At the same time M.P.O. is helping to shrink swollen, inflamed hemorrhoidal tissues caused by edema, inflammation or infection. It also lubricates to protect the sensitive area and aids in reduction of swelling in such tissue to permit more comfortable bowel movements. M.P.O. is temperature-stable to keep medication in place for soothing temporary relief in many cases of itching of hemorrhoidal tissues. It's not greasy and won't stain.

Stop trying to live with that burning, itching agony of swollen, inflamed and infected hemorrhoidal tissues. Get M.P.O. and get more comfortable again. Available at drug counters in Ointment and Suppository form.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Wednesday

Where money is concerned, Taurus and Cancer individuals often show unique abilities to accumulate funds. But when it comes to spending, Leo can do it with a flourish. Gemini can be nervous about budgets; Aries can be domineering where cash is concerned. Pisces can exhibit an I-don't-care attitude. It is difficult to fathom Virgo's view toward savings. Trying to figure Aquarius in this area is akin to doing mental gymnastics.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent is on ambitions, basic goals. You are able to make room for yourself at the top. One you considered indifferent shows otherwise. Gift of appreciation is in order.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Good lunar aspect now coincides with opportunity for higher education. Special summer study course would be in order. Look within. Spritual involvement with Pisces indicated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Concern with hidden or occult matters emphasized. Study Taurus message. There is added responsibility, but there are also greater rewards. Member of opposite sex is involved.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accent now is on partnership, relationships of permanent nature. Finish rather than begin projects. Spread influence. Advertise and publicize. Get on with matters at hand. You can do it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Postponing what appears to be unpleasant task would be an error. Seek fresh viewpoint. Highlight original methods. Social affair with co-workers may be on agenda. Be amiable.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Affairs of heart dominate. Young person could lead the way. Remember recent resolutions. Accept changes. If progressive, you will show definite gain. Your hunch hits mark.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Definite change indicated where domestic situation is concerned. There will be greater degree of flexibility. Combine forces with Cancer-born individual. Basic issue is settled.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): What might appear a mass of confusion will fall into place. Know this and exhibit attitude of confidence. Close relative leans on you for reassurance. Puzzle will be solved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accent on paying, collecting debts. Review personal needs. Refuse to be possessed by possessions. Be ready for change, travel, variety. Genuine bargain is available.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What you have been waiting for now is in sight. You can see light at end of tunnel. Lunar cycle is high; circumstances turn in your favor. Libra individual plays key role.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your love of mystery becomes evident. You express desire to break shackles of confinement, imaginary or otherwise. Clandestine affairs appear to dominate. Promise made in past is fulfilled.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Solid response greets your efforts. A friend plays quiet, but important role. Concentrate on hard news — leave sentimentality to others. Libra and Capricorn persons are present.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you often display interest in law and religion. You are a natural teacher. You require creative outlets. Those who don't really know you often mistake introspection for lack of knowledge. In actuality, you are progressive, aware and learned.

ABA Gets Views On Legal Role

New York (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, the Arkansas Democrat who may have White House ambitions, condemned Tuesday night lawyers who foster "a growing disrespect for law and order."

He called on the American Bar Association to enforce "appropriate standards of decorum and decent behavior" against this "tiny minority" of the legal profession.

The House Ways and Means Committee chairman did not identify in his speech any of the lawyers he described as "unloving critics within our midst."

No Substitute Offered

He said they were driven by a passion "to deride, denigrate, vilify and destroy the courts and all other institutions that constitute our present legal system. They deify change. They have no substitute to offer for a lawful society, but that neither dampens their ardor nor tempers their raucous outcries and destructive arts in persuance of their goal to bring the system to its knees."

At the same time, Mills said, courts should "appraise their actions and decisions to see what part of the responsibility for present-day public attitudes may rest on their doorstep."

Mills added: "I, for one, do not absolve our judges from some part of this responsibility."

A lawyer and a member of the ABA, the congrssman also criticized what he called "blindly uncritical lovers of the status quo." He said they "are so enraptured and comfortable with present substantive rules and legal procedures that they will fight even a hint of needed change."

Mills said he is lined up with a third group, "critical lovers of the law" who promote change within continuity.

McClosky Hits Burger

Earlier Tuesday Rep. Pete McCloskey, R-Calif., criticized Chief Justice Warren E. Burger for asserting that the nation's courts should play only a minor role in affecting social change in the country.

Lawyers working through the court system have done more to preserve the environment than either the President or Congress, McCloskey told the association.

"The first great breakthroughs in this area have occurred in the courts," he said.

Disappointment Seen

In an interview, Burgtr said young lawyers would be disappointed if they entered the profession "on the theory that they can change the world by litigation."

"That is not the route by which basic changes in a country like ours should be made," the chief justice said. "That is a legislative and policy process — part of the political process. There is a very limited role for the courts in this respect."

In other developments, the ABA urged North Vietnam to permit internment in a neutral country of all sick and seriously wounded American prisoners held more than 18 months.

The resolution also asked North Vietnam "in the name of humanity and to relieve the anxiety of the next-of-kin" to give the International Red Cross a complete list of prisoners as well as any information it may have on deaths.

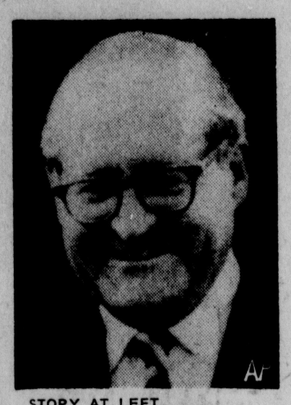

Smith Hopes For Pact

Helsinki, Finland (AP) — Ambassador Gerard Smith, U.S. delegation chief, arrived Tuesday for the fifth round of the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) and said he hoped for a concrete agreement with the Soviet Union.

"We hope to transform the understanding reached between our governments on the highest level to a concrete agreement," Smith said.

The U.S. and Soviet governments announced in May that they had reached what President Nixon called "a commitment to agree" to limit antiballistic missiles and some offensive weapons systems which were not specified.

It was this understanding that Smith said he was hoping to turn into a firm agreement. The fifth round of talks is scheduled to being Thursday.

Rollback Of Interest Rates Urged

Washington (UPI) — Several of the nation's largest banks raised their interest rates for business loans Tuesday, triggering a demand in Congress that President Nixon cancel the increases under his standby credit authority.

Following the example of some small and middle-sized banks last Friday, the big financial houses Tuesday raised the interest rates for business loans (prime rates) from 5½ to 6%.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking Committee immediately urged Nixon to roll back the rates.

"Under today's economic conditions, the President cannot afford to allow the prime rate increase to stand unless he is willing to see the country slip into a greater recession, more unemployment and more business failures," Patman said.

He charged that the increase, first announced Tuesday by Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. of New York City, was "totally unnecessary and inconsistent with the economic conditions of the nation."

Banks, said Patman, always contend that they change interest rates because of fluctuations in the supply and demand for money. ". . . If this is the case, then the trend should be downward instead of upward," said Patman.

In announcing its increase, Manufacturers Hanover Trust said rising demand for short term loans and generally increasing cost of funds to the big bank forced the increase.

Patman, however, said, "The banks have reaped huge profits over the past several years and they have plenty of cushion to absorb any short-term fluctuations in their earnings."

Under standby credit authority approved by Congress, in December, 1969, Nixon could order the increases canceled. Nixon has expressed opposition to earlier increases, but he has not chosen to use his standby authority.

Other big banks which raised their prime rate to 6% Tuesday included Bank of New York and Marine Midland of New York, First National of Chicago, American National Marine Midland of Chicago, First National Bank and State Street Bank of Boston, First National Bank of Miami, First National of Philadelphia and the Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis.

Economist: Black Job Outlook Bleak

©The New York Times

By EARL CALDWELL

Minneapolis — Dr. Andrew F. Brimmer predicted Tuesday that it would be "quite some time" before there would be any significant improvement in the employment situation for black Americans.

Brimmer, an economist and member of the Federal Reserve Board, said the situation is now so bleak that many blacks have "given up" and are not even bothering to enter the labor force.

He called on the government to take immediate action and suggested the use of the public payroll to provide the needed jobs.

"Tha main thing," he said, "is that they do something."

May Be Schism

Brimmer, who was here to address the annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, warned that serious problems are built into the depression-level unemployment now faced by blacks.

He pointed out that while unemployment among the black masses persists, at the same time a small number have been able to succeed.

He said he was afraid that a schism among blacks would develop and added that the threat was "substantial enough to pose a serious problem."

"We may end up in black communities with a large body of underclass people — people on the fringe, people simply left out," he declared, adding that "long, perpetual poverty" could "lead disillusioned people into blind alleys."

Brimmer, who was nominated to the board by President Johnson in 1966, said, "Unemployment among Negroes climbed relatively more slowly than it did for all workers during the recent recession, but the level for blacks is still almost double that for the total labor force.'

Boost Needed

He added that "reflecting the uncertain prospects for the total economy, I believe we should not expect to see a significant improvement in the employment situation for blacks — or for the total labor force — for quite some time."

Brimmer said that in view of the situation he personally saw "a good deal of merit in the suggestions which hold that the economy does require an extra boost at this time."

He suggested some kind of wage and price restraints, saying that "at the federal level the main thing is that we do something and do it now."

Long-Range Outlook

"As I look ahead to the Negro's employment prospects in the current decade, I am barely optimistic," he said. He predicted that by 1980 there should be about 12 million Negroes in the labor force, constituting 12% of the total.

"The projection for the national economy as a whole suggests that the outlook for blacks will brighten considerably," he said, "if they can prepare themselves to take advantage of the emerging openings."

Fitzsimmons Says He Won't Be Figurehead

Miami Beach (AP) — The Teamster Union's new president, Frank E. Fitzsimmons, said Tuesday he hoped James R. Hoffa soon will be freed from prison but rejected any idea that Hoffa might run the huge labor organization from behind the scenes.

"I don't know the anticipation of Hoffa, but if I'm elected, the power remains with me," Fitzsimmons said.

Hoffa resigned the Teamsters presidency two weeks ago, automatically elevating Fitzsimmons to the job. Fitzsimmons will run for a new five-year presidential term at the union convention this week.

"I can't speak for Jimmy Hoffa and his ambitions," Fitzsimmons said in emphasizing he intends to be the boss of the two-million-member union.

Hoffa, president of the union for 10 years, began a term at the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary four years ago on convictions of jury tampering and mail fraud.

Fitzsimmons at a news conference also denied charges of two opponents that the union is run as a dictatorship.

"We have the most democratic labor organization that there is in the world today," he said.

He added that the union will obey a federal court order to write in a constitutional provision to allow rank-and-file members to petition for changes in union affairs.

"We always obey any court order. This doesn't say we agree with the judge," Fitzsimmons said. Union attorneys have indicated they will appeal the order of Judge June Green.

GERALD GALLINGHOUSE

Garrison Counters Charges

New Orleans (AP) — Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison filed criminal mischief and malfeasance charges Tuesday against the two government officials who filed federal charges against him last week — U.S. Atty. Gerald Gallinghouse and John Wall, head of the federal anticrime strike force here.

Gallinghouse then secured an order from U.S. District Judge Herbert Christenberry, blocking Garrison from arresting him and Wall.

He also filed a petition which removed the case to federal court from Criminal District Court, where Garrison filed his charges.

It will remain in federal court unless Garrison contests the action.

Christenberry set a hearing for Thursday on whether to bar Garrison permanently from arresting Gallinghouse and Wall.

The text, filed with the government's charges against Garrison, is being printed by the New orleans Times Picayune and the States-Item.

Garrison was charged last Wednesday with accepting payoffs to protect illegal gambling in connection with pinball machines in the area. In a statement Monday he called the charges a frameup and called the government's case a "pollution of prejudice."

His charges against the federal officials included criminal mischief, threatening a witness, malfeasance and inciting a felony. Most centered around Pershing U. Gervais, who was quoted at length in a 113-page affidavit which the government appended to its charges aganst Garrison.

According to the affidavit, Gervais was the payoff man who carried marked payoff money, which the government says was recovered when Garrison was arrested.

Garrison's charges cited Gallinghouse and Wall for allegedly threatening Gervais "in order to obtain advantages from him so as to do harm to the district attorney of New Orleans, Jim Garrison, and in order to impute disgrace to the said attorney.

Baseball Diamond Plans Stir Hassle In Beatrice

By Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice —The Beatrice City Council looked a gift horse in the mouth long and hard here Tuesday night.

Nearly an hour's discussion was provoked by a requested zoning change for land which has been offered for a Legion-Eagles baseball field. First-round approval was given the change, but it was obvious the measure faces further controversy before the next two votes.

Six residents of Glenover, the west Beatrice area where the field is proposed, spoke against the plan. Noise, dust and traffic were cited as undesirable, but the possible opening of a street or two in the area seemed to be the strongest objection.

Roger Howe said persons near the proposed field fear they will be forced to pay for street improvements later if the plan becomes reality. He submitted a petition of protest signed by 35 residents.

"We need another ball diamond in the city, sure, but why put it where it will create hardships?" said Howe.

Mayor Bob Sargent also urged Legion-Eagles representatives to seek another location already served by pavement. Spokesman A. R. Thies pointed out the high cost of obtaining such a site, however, which would have to be at least five acres in size.

"This has already been in the mill four or five months and we have only a year altogether to complete the field or the land reverts to the donor," said Thies. He noted that city funds would not be involved in constructing the diamond.

Attorney Ron Sutter and two other individuals also spoke in behalf of the zoning request, which asks that the land be designated "light industrial" rather than "agricultural." They said the town's one field at Riverside Park cannot accommodate all the baseball scheduling which is needed.

On another matter, the council finalized for public hearing the proposed 1971-72 budget. The total, scheduled for discussion at a July 19 hearing, stands at $1,482,702.

An increase over last year of .83 mill had been anticipated, but the council added $50,000 Tuesday night for storm sewer construction scheduled for 1972-73. Another .7 mill for airport improvement also was incorporated.

No estimate was given of the new total, but prior to the additions it had stood at 26.51 mills. Last year the figure, including bonds not considered in a 25-mill ceiling, was 25.68 mills.

The council also:

—Appointed H. Eldon Trauernicht as Civil Defense director replacing the late William Bronnenberg.

—Passed ordinance providing for two additional holidays for city employes, Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays.

—accepted bid of H and H Sinclair, only one submitted, for gasoline and oil for police and fire departments for coming year.

—passed resolution waiving setback requirements for construction of residence for Louie Wiebe at 1025 No. 12th St.

—approved retail off-sale beer license for Sportsland, Inc. at 2205 No. 6th St.

—Reappointed Allen Davison to five-year term on Board of Public Works.

Laird Views Japan's Army

Tokyo (UPI) — U. S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird flew to Hokkaido from Tokyo Tuesday for a one-day tour which included inspection of Japanese self-defense ground force on Japan's northernmost island.

About 3,000 soldiers of the 7th and 11th Divisions, an artillery regiment, 400 tanks and other military vehicles staged a special parade for Laird shortly after his arrival at Chotose, an airbase just south of Sapporo.

Later he was the guest of honor at a lunch given by the Hokkaido governor and Sapporo mayor at the Sapporo hotel.

At the lunch, Laird expressed hope that Japanese and U.S. troops would continue to cooperate in security matters and exchanged views on a number of issues, a Japanese official said.

Weather Is Protested

Alamosa, Colo. (UPI) — A group of southern Colorado residents meet with Gov. John Love Friday to discuss the possibility of going to court to change the weather. The San Luis Valley Citizens Concerned about Weather Modification group says scientific cloud-seeding programs have resulted in too little rain in the valley and too much rain in the western mountains. They want rain patterns back the way they used to be.

July 4th Traffic Toll Is New High

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents on the nation's streets and highways claimed 638 lives during the Independence Day holiday weekend, making it the most disastrous three-day July 4th holiday since the advent of the automobile.

The previous record for the holiday was 611 in 1969. The death toll last year, also a three-day period, was 540.

The National Safety Council had estimated before the start of the holiday that between 520 and 620 might be killed in traffic accidents during the holiday period.

Economist: Black Job Outlook Bleak

©The New York Times

By EARL CALDWELL

Minneapolis — Dr. Andrew F. Brimmer predicted Tuesday that it would be "quite some time" before there would be any significant improvement in the employment situation for black Americans.

Brimmer, an economist and member of the Federal Reserve Board, said the situation is now so bleak that many blacks have "given up" and are not even bothering to enter the labor force.

He called on the government to take immediate action and suggested the use of the public payroll to provide the needed jobs.

"Tha main thing," he said, "is that they do something."

Brimmer, who was here to address the annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, warned that serious problems are built into the depression-level unemployment now faced by blacks.

Hearing Held On $120,123 Rail District Budget

The Railroad Transportation Safety District (RTSD) held a public hearing Tuesday morning to finalize its budget proposal for the year ending June 30, 1972.

The budget calls for a total of $230,123 for the district that will be gotten from a .475 mill tax assessment.

Salaries—$26,000.
Professional fees—$30,000.
Administration and office expenses—$6,200.
Travel-transportation expense—$9,000.
Meeting expense—$1,100.
Interest—$1,750.
Capital improvements-land acquisition—$75,000.
Capital improvements-construction contracts—$60,000.
Cash reserve—$20,000.
County treasurer's collection fee—$1,073 .

Salaries will be divided between about $20,000 for a director and the remainder for a secretarial staff. Professional fees, as originally proposed, had covered $5,000 for legal expenses, $7,500 for engineering services, $2,500 for appraisals, 200 for filing fees and $500 for fiscal expenses.

Joe R. Seacrest, appearing before the board, made a motion that the over-all figure for professional fees be increased to $30,000 instead of the original $15,700 proposal.

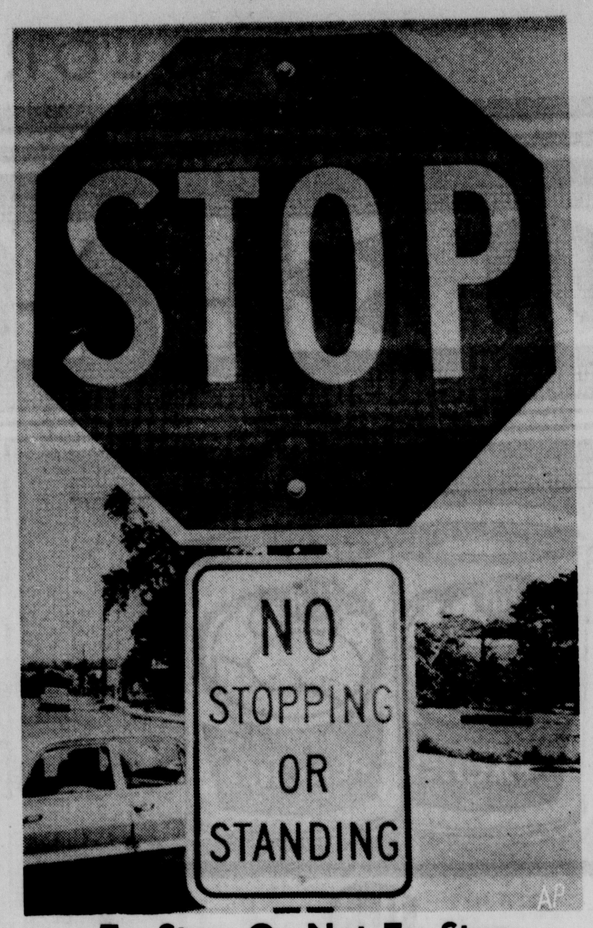

The district said no particular land was as yet designated for purchase under the land acquisition category.

The safety district was organized as the result of efforts of a group of interested citizens and governmental agencies to relocate railroad lines out of the downtown area and improve safety at railroad crossings.

Six Members

The present chairman of the group, Dick Hartsock, said the district presently has six members, three county commissioners and three city councilmen.

Hartsock said the group has the power to negotiate with railroads and will be submitting to the Legislature for their consideration in January a statute that will define the limits of the board's power of eminent domain.

To Stop Or Not To Stop

Ypsilanti, Mich., drivers were confused by a combination of do's and don'ts at a traffic intersection recently. The contradiction resulted from State Highway department construction. Temporary signs were used to reroute city traffic.

Lincoln Fireman Named Winner Of 'Hero Award'

In giving the citation, the sponsoring Nebraska Funeral Directors Association said Boswell, a Lincoln city fireman, is to be commended for his role in saving the life of William Schenk, a Lincoln Young Men's Christian Association Director.

The life-saving effort occurred May 30 when Boswell, off-duty at home, heard over his Fire Department radio that a Lincoln man was pinned beneath an overturned tractor.

Living only a few blocks from the accident scene, Boswell hurried to offer his help. He found a small gathering of bystanders, some of whom claimed the tractor would be impossible to move. A nurse, after examining Schenk, said she could feel no pulse.

At Boswell's insistence, and with the help of others, the tractor was lifted freeing Schenk, who was pinned on his back with legs pressed backwards over chest and head.

Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation could not be applied because the victim's mouth had been crushed. So Fireman Boswell began heart massage and continued until a Fire Department resuscitator arrived.

Gordon Wisda of Ainsworth, the president of the Nebraska Funeral Directors, said "this nation has always been proud of its firemen for their answer to the call of duty. Fireman Boswell is saluted for going beyond the call of duty.

Boswell, along with other hero award recipients, will be honored at a banquet in Omaha next April.

Police Auction Nets About $900 For City Coffers

The semi-annual Lincoln Police Department auction sale of unclaimed bicycles and other items netted the city's general fund approximately $900, Lt. R. J. McMeen estimated Tuesday.

McMeen said 1,500 persons, one of the largest crowds in recent years, were on hand for the auction held on the north steps of the County-City Building.

McMeen said 42 bicycles were auctioned along with other items, such as tools, in the semi-annual sale.

All items auctioned had been held as unclaimed for at least six months by the department.

Astronauts Slated For Launch Test

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 15 launch team Wednesday starts a week-long countdown demonstration test, the last major rehearsal for the July 26 launching to the moon.

The exercise, will duplicate all phases of the actual countdown. It is to conclude July 14 with astronauts David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden in the spacecraft for a simulated blastoff.

Charges Filed Against Participant In Shooting

Charges were filed in Lancaster County District Court Wednesday against Gary L. Dandridge, 22, of Omaha, who was involved in a fatal shooting Sunday.

Dandridge sustained five bullet wounds in a shooting incident that resulted in the death of Robert Banks, 19, of the Crescent Apartments, 2222 Vine.

Dandridge was charged with failing to report for probation, leaving Douglas County without notification to the probation officer, failing to report a change of address and carrying a weapon with less than twelve inches of barrel.

Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas said investigation into the shootout indicated that further charges were not warranted. Douglas said he felt that "the shooting had a lot of self defense elements to it."

Police said they had received a call Sunday night regarding gunshots being fired in the vicinity of 22nd and Vine. Police found Banks lying in the west parking lot of the Crescent Apartments, approximately one block from the shooting scene.

Dandridge was reportedly found lying in a vacant lot south of the apartments. Banks died Monday morning after undergoing surgery for a small caliber gunshot wound in the abdomen.

Trial for Dandridge was set for July 13. He is being held under $2,500 bond.

Clyde Irons Killed While Razing House

The victim was indentified as Clyde E. Irons Jr. of 2840 So. 33rd.

Mr. Irons was operating a bulldozer in the demolition of a house at the southeast corner of 15th and M when a portion of the building caved in on him, according to the sheriff's office.

The sheriff's office said Mr. Irons was employed by the Bud Irons Excavating Co., which is operated by his brother.

Surviving Mr. Irons are his wife, Harriet; two daughters, Mrs. Gary A. (Barbara Jean) Jones of Lincoln and Mrs. Carl (Deborah) Doeden of Walton; one grandson; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Irons Sr. of Lincoln; five brothers, Bud, Pete, Raymond, James and LeRoy, all of Lincoln, and three sisters, Mrs. Louise Hatfield, Mrs. L. M. (Beverly) Hansen, both of Lincoln and Mrs. Eileen Klopfentstein of Early Iowa.

Rites Wednesday For Cecil Drew

Fullerton (AP) — Funeral services will be at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday for Cecil L. Drew, 71, of Fullerton, a gravel contractor who became widely known for showing ponies and carts over the state.

Mr. Drew died Monday at Stuart where his ponies and hitch were a part of the Independence Holiday weekend celebration.

He was born at St. Charles, Minn., and moved to Fullerton in the 1940s.

Survivors include his wife, a son, one daughter and a brother. Burial will be at Tilden, Neb.

Poultry Inspection To Be Turned Over To USDA

By The Associated Press

State Agriculture Director Glenn Kreuscher reported Tuesday he has asked the federal government to take over inspection of Nebraska's intrastate poultry plants.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has agreed to the takeover, said Kreuscher, and the federal inspection program should "be in full gear by Sept. 1."

The state's poultry inspection program is different from the controversial red meat inspection program, Kreuscher explained.

A congressional act gave each state until Aug. 18, 1970, to develop a poultry inspection program at least equal to that of the federal government.

"We talked to some of the people in the industry and they were of the opinion that the program could best be run by the federal government," Kreuscher said. "We asked them to take it over as of July 1."

Inspection of Nebraska's 15 poultry plants under the federal program will mean a savings of about $50,000 annually, according to some monetary estimates of the state program.

"The state program never really got underway," Kreuscher said.

He said the request that the federal government take over was made by Gov. J. James Exon last month.

"We're going to help them out in the transition period," Kreuscher said. "The USDA will appraise the plants and decide what they need in terms of personnel and the like and then they will move in."

Damages Sought By Woman Hit By Auto In 1969

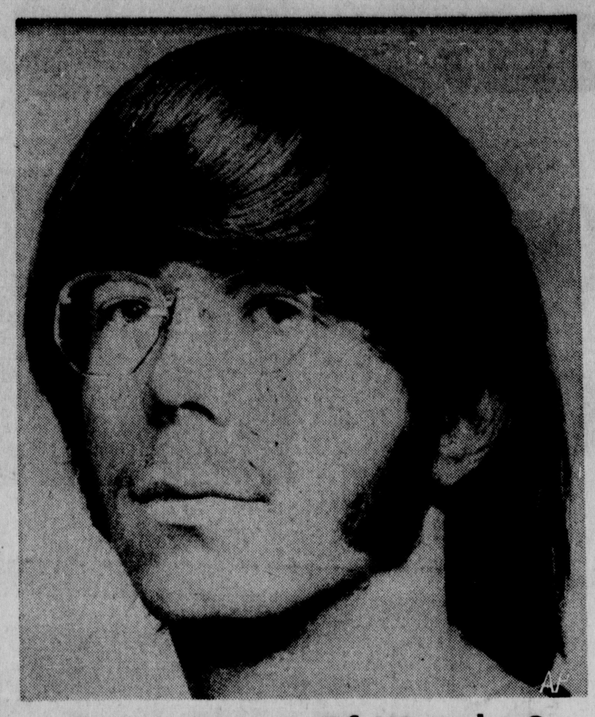

A $75,000 suit was filed in Lancaster County District Court Tuesday by Gloria J. Walters against Dawn K. Booth for injuries allegedly suffered as the result of a car-pedestrian accident at 9th and M on December 15, 1969.

Miss Walters alleges that as a result of the accident she suffered injuries to her left leg and lower back into the pelvis, resulting in back strain and loss of thigh tissue.

Since that time, she claims, she has suffered muscle spasms in the area and pain in the back that has forced her to give up her career in music.

The suit contends Booth failed to keep a proper lookout for pedestrians, failed to yield the right of way, failed to have her vehicle under proper conrtol and was driving at a high and dangerous rate of speed under the circumtances.

Future Mayor Of Waterloo?

Vehicle Inspection Stations To Be Closely Supervised

Service stations requesting vehicle inspection station licenses may find the licenses difficult to get in the future if their performances are not up to state standards, according to John W. Kissack, director of motor vehicles.

Kissack said Tuesday that all new applications for inspection licenses will be personally reviewed and approved by him.

Kissack said the step was taken in an effort to insure that all stations are willing to meet the high standards which the division is striving to attain.

The process of revoking the licenses of those stations not performing to the proper standards, he noted, has resulted in a net gain of zero in the number of licensed inspection stations over the last year.

Due to the refusal of the legislature to approve the additional staff requested by his office, Kissack said that an actual reduction in the number of inspection stations "would be beneficial to the operation of the division."

Contaminated Soup May Be In Nebraska

W. G. McCubbin of the State Bureau of Dairies, Foods and Drugs said Tuesday that it is "possible" that some cans of the contaminated Bon Vivant Brand Vichy-ssoise Soup may have reached Nebraska grocery stores and announced an FDA recall of the soup.

The FDA said that the presence of botulism had been tentatively confirmed in one can of this soup. One death has resulted, and another patient is seriously ill after consuming the soup in Westchester County, New York. Botulism is a deadly bacteria which has a 65% mortality rate.

Concumers are warned that clinical symptoms of nausea, vomiting and blurring of vision may not occur for as long as 36 hours.

McCubbin said the Department of Agriculture cannot check all the grocery stores in the state, so it is relying on grocers and consumers to bring reports concerning any cans in Nebraska to them.

"I doubt there is any here, since it is a gourmet product and isn't carried by your normal grocery stores," he said.

Any store or consumer who may have some of the soup should contact Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Dairies and Foods, Lincoln, Nebraska 68509.

Hearing Held On $120,123 Rail District Budget

The Railroad Transportation Safety District (RTSD) held a public hearing Tuesday morning to finalize its budget proposal for the year ending June 30, 1972.

The budget calls for a total of $230,123 for the district that will be gotten from a .475 mill tax assessment.

Salaries—$26,000
Professional fees—$30,000.
Administration and office expenses—$6,200.
Travel-transportation expense—$9,000.
Meeting expense—$1,100.
Interest—$1,750.
Capital improvements-land acquisition—$75,000
Capital improvements-construction contracts—$60,000
Cash reserve—$20,000.
County treasurer's collection fee—$1,073.

Salaries will be divided between about $20,000 for a director and the remainder for a secretarial staff. Professional fees, as originally proposed, had covered $5,000 for legal expenses, $7,500 for engineering services, $2,500 for appraisals, 200 for filing fees and $500 for fiscal expenses.

Joe R. Seacrest, appearing before the board, made a motion that the over-all figure for professional fees be increased to $30,000 instead of the original $15,700 proposal.

The district said no particular land was as yet designated for purchase under the land acquisition category.

The safety district was organized as the result of efforts of a group of interested citizens and governmental agencies to relocate railroad lines out of the downtown area and improve safety at railroad crossings.

Six Members

The present chairman of the group, Dick Hartsock, said the district presently has six members, three county commissioners and three city councilmen.

Hartsock said the group has the power to negotiate with railroads and will be submitting to the Legislature for their consideration in January a statute that will define the limits of the board's power of eminent domain.

Charges Filed Against Participant In Shooting

Charges were filed in Lancaster County District Court Wednesday against Gary L. Dandridge, 22, of Omaha, who was involved in a fatal shooting Sunday.

Dandridge sustained five bullet wounds in a shooting incident that resulted in the death of Robert Banks, 19, of the Crescent Apartments, 2222 Vine.

Dandridge was charged with failing to report for probation, leaving Douglas County without notification to the probation officer, failing to report a change of address and carrying a weapon with less than twelve inches of barrel.

Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas said investigation into the shootout indicated that further charges were not warranted. Douglas said he felt that "the shooting had a lot of self defense elements to it."

Police said they had received a call Sunday night regarding gunshots being fired in the vicinity of 22nd and Vine. Police found Banks lying in the west parking lot of the Crescent Apartments, approximately one block from the shooting scene

Dandridge was reportedly found lying in a vacant lot south of the apartments. Banks died Monday morning after undergoing surgery for a small caliber gunshot wound in the abdomen.

Trial for Dandridge was set for July 13 He is being held under $2.500 bond

Clyde Irons Killed While Razing House

The victim was indentified as Clyde E. Irons Jr. of 2840 So 33rd.

Mr. Irons was operating a bulldozer in the demolition of a house at the southeast corner of 15th and M when a portion of the building caved in on him, according to the sheriff's office.

The sheriff's office said Mr. Irons was employed by the Bud Irons Excavating Co, which is operated by his brother.

Surviving Mr. Irons are his wife, Harriet; two daughters, Mrs. Gary A. (Barbara Jean) Jones of Lincoln and Mrs. Carl (Deborah) Doeden of Walton; one grandson; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Irons Sr. of Lincoln; five brothers, Bud, Pete, Raymond, James and LeRoy, all of Lincoln, and three sisters, Mrs. Louise Hatfield, Mrs. L. M. (Beverly) Hansen, both of Lincoln and Mrs. Eileen Klopfentstein of Early Iowa.

Rites Wednesday For Cecil Drew

Fullerton (AP) — Funeral services will be at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday for Cecil L. Drew, 71, of Fullerton, a gravel contractor who became widely known for showing ponies and carts over the state.

Mr. Drew died Monday at Stuart where his ponies and hitch were a part of the Independence Holiday weekend celebration.

He was born at St. Charles, Minn., and moved to Fullerton in the 1940s.

Lincoln Fireman Named Winner Of 'Hero Award'

In giving the citation, the sponsoring Nebraska Funeral Directors Association said Boswell, a Lincoln city fireman, is to be commended for his role in saving the life of William Schenk, a Lincoln Young Men's Christian Association Director.

The life-saving effort occurred May 30 when Boswell, off-duty at home, heard over his Fire Department radio that a Lincoln man was pinned beneath an overturned tractor.

Living only a few blocks from the accident scene, Boswell hurried to offer his help. He found a small gathering of bystanders, some of whom claimed the tractor would be impossible to move. A nurse, after examining Schenk, said she could feel no pulse.

At Boswell's insistence, and with the help of others, the tractor was lifted freeing Schenk, who was pinned on his back with legs pressed backwards over chest and head.

Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation could not be applied because the victim's mouth had been crushed. So Fireman Boswell began heart massage and continued until a Fire Department resuscitator arrived.

Gordon Wisda of Ainsworth, the president of the Nebraska Funeral Directors, said "this nation has always been proud of its firemen for their answer to the call of duty. Fireman Boswell is saluted for going beyond the call of duty.

Boswell, along with other hero award recipients, will be honored at a banquet in Omaha next April.

Astronauts Slated For Launch Test

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 15 launch team Wednesday starts a week-long countdown demonstration test, the last major rehearsal for the July 26 launching to the moon.

The exercise, will duplicate all phases of the actual countdown. It is to conclude July 14 with astronauts David R Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden in the spacecraft for a simulated blastoff.

The semi-annual Lincoln Police Department auction sale of unclaimed bicycles and other items netted the city's general fund approximately $900. Lt. R. J. McMeen estimated Tuesday.

McMeen said 1,500 persons, one of the largest crowds in recent years, were on hand for the auction held on the north steps of the County-City Building.

McMeen said 42 bicycles were auctioned along with other items, such as tools, in the semi-annual sale.

All items auctioned had been held as unclaimed for at least six months by the department

Poultry Inspection To Be Turned Over To USDA

By The Associated Press

State Agriculture Director Glenn Kreuscher reported Tuesday he has asked the federal government to take over inspection of Nebraska's intrastate poultry plants.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has agreed to the takeover, said Kreuscher, and the federal inspection program should "be in full gear by Sept. 1."

The state's poultry inspection program is different from the controversial red meat inspection program, Kreuscher explained.

A congressional act gave each state until Aug. 18, 1970, to develop a poultry inspection program at least equal to that of the federal government.

"We talked to some of the people in the industry and they were of the opinion that the program could best be run by the federal government," Kreuscher said. "We asked them to take it over as of July 1."

Inspection of Nebraska's 15 poultry plants under the federal program will mean a savings of about $50,000 annually, according to some monetary estimates of the state program.

"The state program never really got underway" Kreuscher said.

He said the request that the federal government take over was made by Gov. J. James Exon last month.

"We're going to help them out in the transition period," Kreuscher said. "The USDA will appraise the plants and decide what they need in terms of personnel and the like and then they will move in."

Damages Sought By Woman Hit By Auto In 1969

A $75,000 suit was filed in Lancaster County District Court Tuesday by Gloria J. Walters against Dawn K. Booth for injuries allegedly suffered as the result of a car-pedestrian accident at 9th and M on December 15, 1969.

Miss Walters alleges that as a result of the accident she suffered injuries to her left leg and lower back into the pelvis, resulting in back strain and loss of thigh tissue.

Since that time, she claims, she has suffered muscle spasms in the area and pain in the back that has forced her to give up her career in music.

The suit contends Booth failed to keep a proper lookout for pedestrians, failed to yield the right of way, failed to have her vehicle under proper conrtol and was driving at a high and dangerous rate of speed under the circumtances.

Dwight D. Coburn Jr., of Waterloo, Iowa, Tuesday announced his candidacy for mayor. He took out nomination papers for the post just one day after President Nixon certified the 26th Amendment giving 18-year-olds the right to vote in all elections.

Vehicle Inspection Stations To Be Closely Supervised

Service stations requesting vehicle inspection station licenses may find the licenses difficult to get in the future if their performances are not up to state standards, according to John W. Kissack, director of motor vehicles.

Kissack said Tuesday that all new applications for inspection licenses will be personally reviewed and approved by him.

Kissack said the step was taken in an effort to insure that all stations are willing to meet the high standards which the division is striving to attain.

The process of revoking the licenses of those stations not performing to the proper standards, he noted, has resulted in a net gain of zero in the number of licensed inspection stations over the last year.

Due to the refusal of the legislature to approve the additional staff requested by his office, Kissack said that an actual reduction in the number of inspection stations "would be beneficial to the operation of the division."

New official staff of the Venture Club who were installed at a recent dinner meeting the club held at The Knolls. As club ages go, Venture is one of the younger organizations for women. It is, as you may know, a service club which is sponsored by Soroptimist Clubs throughout the country. And just in case the whole idea of 'Venture' appeals to you, take a look at your birth certificate — you have to be under 35.

A group of delegates that represented a women's organization that is far from new — and therefore far from young. Pictured are delegates from Nebraska who attended the national convention of the American Association of University Women in Dallas, Tex. The national meeting closed on Thursday, July 1, after a four day session.

New Soroptimist Officers At Helm

New officers of Lincoln's Venture Club recently were installed at a dinner meeting which was held at The Knolls.

The club is a service club sponsored by the Soroptimist Clubs. The membership is composed of working women under the age of 35.

Mrs. Paul Myers is the newly-installed Venture Club president — and the other officers include Mrs. Arlo Frieling, vice president; Miss Jacki Ludwig, secretary; Mrs. Leon Bristley, treasurer; and Miss Becky Diers, board member.

Thursday, July 1, marked the beginning of a new club year for the Soroptimist Club of Lincoln—for on that day the new officers officially took charge. charge.

Quota Clubs Hold Annual Convention

Mrs. Emil Brodecky, president of the Quota Club of Lincoln, will represent her group as official delegate to the annual Quota International Convention which will be held in San Francisco, Calif., from Wednesday, July 7, through Saturday, July 10.

The Lincoln woman will join some 700 executive business and professional women from 400 Quota Clubs, in the United States, Canada, and Australia, in exchanging ideas and planning to improve and expand the service programs.

The principal guest speaker at the convention will be Miss Nanette Fabray, the stage, screen and television personality whose contributions on behalf of the hearing and speech handicapped — one of Quota's service projects — is widely recognized.

Other programs at the convention will include "Sights and Sounds of San Francisco," a production that captures the cosmopolitan atmosphere of the city; and "Musical Paintings," a performance by artist John Mosiman, who will blend painting and music to create scenes. A special program for men only will feature a visit to a winery and a trip to Muir Woods to view the giant redwoods.

The biennial convention of the American Association of University Women was held in Dallas, Tex., from Sunday, June 27, through Thursday, July 1.

Representing Nebraska at the four-day convention were 13 AAUW members who helped to adopt a proposed $10 million goal for new endowments to mark the Association's centennial which will be observed in 1982.

More than 1500 college-educated women from every state heard speakers discuss the convention's theme, "Reform—Revolution—Status Quo?" and debated and voted on a series of controversial resolutions and a legislative program for the Association.

Look Your Best

The following exercise is contouring to your legs and will flatten your abdomen. Assume a shoulder-stand position with your elbows resting on the floor and your hands supporting your hips, legs stretched toward the ceiling (1). While in this position lower your left leg overhead toward the floor (2). Go as far as you can. Raise the leg back to position. This time lower your right leg. Raise it and alternate. The legs are straight throughout this exercise.

Are you going to be one of the thousands of young women looking for a summer job? If so, here is a list of DOS AND DON'TS to help you win out over the competition.

Be sure that your grooming is perfect from the top of your head to the tips of your shoes. Naturally this means well manicured nails and well polished shoes as well as well pressed clothes. I think you are less apt to land a job if you have extremely long hair flopping about. It is difficult to made it look neat and hair stringing down in front of the eyes does not give the impression of efficiency. I suggest that you arrange it in some fashion or tie it back in a barette if you wish to keep it that long.

Do not wear sloppy or extreme shoes.

Pants and minis have been accepted in most offices, but just in case the one to which you are applying might be an exception, it is safer to wear a short dress or a conservative mini for the interview. Don't try your luck with hot pants — not yet anyway. Wear something that is smart and attractive but not fussy or dressy.

By all means use make-up that is flattering but calm it down. Do not look theatrical. If you wear false eyelashes use the ones which look natural, not the extreme variety. Wear one of the lighter shades of lipstick.

Your posture and the way you move about will have a tremendous impact on the impression you make. Straighten your back and do not duck your head. Walk in fairly briskly like you are alive. When you sit down in the chair do not slump. Sit with your back straight and your hips touching the back of the chair.

Cook's Nook

What continues to sweep the country as America's favorite food for informal entertaining? The fondue, of course.

The newest version to appear on the scene is the Brunch Fondue. It calls for dipping crunchy, over-toasted bread cubes in jam and jelly sauces — each kept warm in a separate fondue pot.

Any favorite jam, jelly or preserves may be used for the sauces, but you will want to select them for pleasing variation in color and flavor. Just heat the fruit spreads until melted with a little water or fruit juice, adding only enough liquid to make the sauces the consistency desired.

JAM AND JELLY FONDUE

- 1 loaf (1 pound) brown-and serve French bread
- 4 Cups over-toasted rice cereal
- 2 Eggs, separated
- 2/3 cup flour
- 2/3 cup milk
- Dash salt
- ½ teaspoon vanilla flavoring
- ½ cup (1 stick) butter or margarine, melted

Cut French bread into 1-inch slices. Cut each slice into quarters. Beat egg white until stiff. Beat egg yolk with flour, milk, salt and vanilla; fold in beaten white. Dip bread cubes in egg mixture, then roll in crushed cereal until evenly coated. Arrange in single layer on well-greased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) for 10 minutes or until browned. Drizzle with melted butter. Serve from a napkin-lined basket with one or more of the following sauces.

GRAPE-NUT SAUCE: Combine ½ cup grape jelly, ¼ cup creamy or chunk-style peanut butter and 2 tablespoons orange juice. Cook, stirring, over low heat until melted. Serve warm. Makes ¾ cup.

PEACH MELBA SAUCE: Combine ¼ cup peach preserves, ¼ cup red raspberry jelly, ¼ cup currant jelly and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Cook, stirring, over low heat until melted. Serve warm. Makes ½ cup.

"You've Come A Long Way, Baby"

Mrs. Robert (Jan) Heins (center) was warmly greeted by her daughter, Kathy (right) at her arrival in Lincoln for one of the "must stops" of the Powder Puff Derby air race. Mrs. D. R. Haworth (left), the assistant operations chairman, checked with Mrs. Heins for general repairs that may be needed.

"You've come a long way, baby," is the theme of the 25th Annual Powder Puff Derby, the All-Woman Transcontinental Air Race which began on Monday, July 5, at Calgary, Can.

Competing with some 300 other women and 150 single and multi-engine planes for the $10,000 first prize and a share in the $22,500 purse, are three Lincoln women, Mrs. Robert (Jan) Heins, flying solo in a Piper Comanche 260 (TAR No. 78), and Evelyn Sedivy with co-pilot Mrs. Frank Bartunek (TAR No. 30) in a Piper Arrow.

Touching down in Lincoln for one of the five "must stops" yesterday afternoon was Mrs. Heins. Waiting anxiously to greet her at the general aviation field were her husband, Dr. Robert Heins, and one of their four children, Kathy, a junior at East High School, who was both nervous and excited.

"I think the contest is almost harder on the family than on the pilot," Dr. Heins reported as he waited his wife's arrival which had been delayed. Mrs. Heins had needed to refuel, and landed at McCook Field in Omaha before her stop in Lincoln.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Heins began taking flying lessons about 8 years ago, "just for the fun of it," Mrs. Heins reflects. Dr. Heins found that his medical practice did not allow him the necessary time to continue his instructions, but Mrs. Heins continued to pursue her study. This marks her second TAR entry.

Mrs. Heins reports that she enjoys flying by herself, and that more often she takes her family on short trips.

The Powder Puff Derby will terminate on July 8, in Baton Rouge, La. Each entrant is given a handicap according to her type of plane. Winners will be announced at a banquet the evening of Saturday, July 10.

Know Your Antiques

by RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Patriotism was more flamboyant during the 19th century. Posters, fabrics, and even furniture and dishes pictured citizens saluting the flag and telling of their love of country. An unusual handkerchief depicting politically minded citizens and the flag was made about 1859. It was made of a poor quality coarse cotton fabric. A sailor, farmer, building mechanic, 1776 soldier, and several other men were pictured. They are hailing a rock called "the Constitution and Laws" which was the base of the "Temple of Liberty." An eagle and the words "E pluribus Unum" are above all. It is believed that this was the emblem of the American Party. They were a political group that was also known as the Know-Nothing party. A similar design was used by a nominee of the party in 1857. The flag, the eagle, and the figure of Liberty were all popular decorative motifs during the 18th and 19th century.

Patriotism flowered in the 19th century and many decorative items featured the flag, liberty, or an eagle. This printed cotton kerchief was made about 1859 by the Boston Chemical Printing Company. It promoted a political campaign. (Index of American Design, Washington, D.C.)

Q. How old are cigarette cards?

A. Cigarettes began to be packaged during the 1880s. The largest packer of the small leaf wrapped cigars and cigarettes was Allen and Ginter of Richmond, Va. The firm started packing 10 cigarettes in a box for 5 cents in 1885. A picture card was placed in each box. Almost every tobacco firm used the cards by the 1890s. English firms were using similar cards by 1887. W. D. and H. O. Wills actually put the cards into the package to stiffen it. You can still find all types of tobacco cards, the best of them in sets. Famous personalities, Indians, birds, city flags, fans, cars, planes, animals, medals, chickens, pirates, natives in costumes, and hundreds of other subjects were pictured.

Q. My husband hides behind the morning paper looking at ads for sales and auctions. For his birthday, the perfect gift would be an antique newspaper holder. Could I find such an item?

A. Reading husbands have been a problem dating back many centuries. The earliest stand that held reading matter was called Missal stand. French paper or book racks were made during the 17th century when printed newspapers were common. They were often made from carved and turned rods and were adjustable and collapsible. Nineteenth century English racks were similar to those in use today. A solid board was supported on an easel and it was adjustable for slant and height. Brass, inlaid wood, and elaborate carvings can be found on some stands.

Q. I collect glass shoes that were made to hold toothpicks, perfume, or just to decorate a whatnot shelf. Were any made before Victorian times?

A. According to legend, the glass shoe as a drinking glass was first made in England in the 1760s. It was a political joke. You drank to the Earl of Bute, a friend of King George III, with the toast "let's boot him out." The idea of a shoe to drink from became popular in all parts of Europe by the beginning of the 19th century. Early American glass factories made very similar blown glass shoes.

Abby: you'd better find out who is lying

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I recently married a widow I'll call Emma, whom I always thought to be a very sensible lady. I was a widower with a 14-year-old son. Emma had no children.

Before our marriage, Emma agreed to move into my house with my son and me. I work nights. Right after the wedding, Emma moved in, but two days later she moved out, saying the boy had made improper advances toward her. Now she refuses to come back until I get a daytime job, so I can stay home nights to "protect" her from my son.

I find it hard to believe that the boy ever made any improper advances to my bride. I asked him, and he denied it, saying Emma was crazy. Emma says the boy is not only a sex maniac, but a liar. I don't know what to believe.

In the meantime, I am legally married but I have no wife. In fact, we have never actually lived together as man and wife yet. What kind of marriage do you call this?

NEVADA

DEAR NEVADA: Unconsummated! See a lawyer. Under the circumstances an annulment shouldn't be hard to obtain. And you had better find out for certain who is lying. If Emma is telling the truth, your son needs help. If your son has been unjustly accused, then Emma needs help.

DEAR ABBY: I am so burned up, I'll bet sparks are coming out of my ears!

Three years ago I gave my sister in law a baby bed and a high chair. My children had outgrown them, but both items were as good as new.

Yesterday I found out that she sold them! Now, I ask you, did she have the right to sell them after I gave them to her for nothing? When I told her I wish she had told me she didn't want them becase I would have taken them back, she said, "I would have if you had told me you were only lending them to me, but you told me you were giving them to me." Who is right?

BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: She is. When you give something away, it's no longer yours.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Opening lead — five of clubs.

One tends to become a victim of habit in dealing with situations frequently encountered before. The fact is that circumstances may be similar without being identical, and the treatment successfully applied in one case may be altogether wrong in another case.

Take this deal where West led a club and declarer ducked in dummy. East won with the king and returned a club, thus establishing West's suit.

Declarer had only eight running tricks, and when he led a heart to establish a ninth, West grabbed the ace and ran his clubs to put the contract down one.

The outcome appears normal, yet the fact is that South lost the hand when he failed to take the ace of clubs at trick one. It is certainly far from uncommon for declarer to hold up an ace when his only stopper in the suit is A-x, but nevertheless, before actually holding it up, he should ask himself whether such a procedure is really desirable.

In the present hand it is reasonable to assume that West does not have the K-Q-J of clubs, for he would have led the king in such case, not the five. East must therefore be credited with at least one of the missing honors.

It thus becomes possible for declarer to positively guarantee the contract by promptly taking the ace. If East has two clubs, including an honor, the suit is blocked and cannot be run when the defenders come in with the ace of hearts. If East has three clubs, West has only four and victory is equally certain.

In the actual hand, South makes at least four notrump by taking the first club and leading the king of hearts.

Look Your Best

The following exercise is contouring to your legs and will flatten your abdomen. Assume a shoulder-stand position with your elbows resting on the floor and your hands supporting your hips, legs stretched toward the ceiling (1). While in this position lower your left leg overhead toward the floor (2). Go as far as you can. Raise the leg back to position. This time lower your right leg. Raise it and alternate. The legs are straight throughout this exercise.

Are you going to be one of the thousands of young women looking for a summer job? If so, here is a list of DOS AND DON'TS to help you win out over the competition.

Be sure that your grooming is perfect from the top of your head to the tips of your shoes. Naturally this means well manicured nails and well polished shoes as well as well pressed clothes. I think you are less apt to land a job if you have extremely long hair flopping about. It is difficult to made it look neat and hair stringing down in front of the eyes does not give the impression of efficiency. I suggest that you arrange it in some fashion or tie it back in a barette if you wish to keep it that long.

Do not wear sloppy or extreme shoes.

Pants and minis have been accepted in most offices, but just in case the one to which you are applying might be an exception, it is safer to wear a short dress or a conservative mini for the interview. Don't try your luck with hot pants — not yet anyway. Wear something that is smart and attractive but not fussy or dressy.

By all means use make-up that is flattering but calm it down. Do not look theatrical. If you wear false eyelashes use the ones which look natural, not the extreme variety. Wear one of the lighter shades of lipstick.

Your posture and the way you move about will have a tremendous impact on the impression you make. Straighten your back and do not duck your head. Walk in fairly briskly like you are alive. When you sit down in the chair do not slump. Sit with your back straight and your hips touching the back of the chair.

Cook's Nook

What continues to sweep the country as America's favorite food for informal entertaining? The fondue, of course.

The newest version to appear on the scene is the Brunch Fondue. It calls for dipping crunchy, over-toasted bread cubes in jam and jelly sauces — each kept warm in a separate fondue pot.

Any favorite jam, jelly or preserves may be used for the sauces, but you will want to select them for pleasing variation in color and flavor. Just heat the fruit spreads until melted with a little water or fruit juice, adding only enough liquid to make the sauces the consistency desired.

JAM AND JELLY FONDUE

- 1 loaf (1 pound) brown-and serve French bread
- 4 Cups over-toasted rice cereal
- 2 Eggs, separated
- 2/3 cup flour
- 2/3 cup milk
- Dash salt
- ½ teaspoon vanilla flavoring
- ½ cup (1 stick) butter or margarine, melted

Cut French bread into 1-inch slices. Cut each slice into quarters. Beat egg white until stiff. Beat egg yolk with flour, milk, salt and vanilla; fold in beaten white. Dip bread cubes in egg mixture, then roll in crushed cereal until evenly coated. Arrange in single layer on well-greased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) for 10 minutes or until browned. Drizzle with melted butter. Serve from a napkin-lined basket with one or more of the following sauces.

GRAPE-NUT SAUCE: Combine ½ cup grape jelly, ¼ cup creamy or chunk-style peanut butter and 2 tablespoons orange juice. Cook, stirring, over low heat until melted. Serve warm. Makes ¾ cup.

PEACH MELBA SAUCE: Combine ¼ cup peach preserves, ¼ cup red raspberry jelly, ¼ cup currant jelly and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Cook, stirring, over low heat until melted. Serve warm. Makes ½ cup.

Know Your Antiques

by RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Patriotism was more flamboyant during the 19th century. Posters, fabrics, and even furniture and dishes pictured citizens saluting the flag and telling of their love of country. An unusual handkerchief depicting politically minded citizens and the flag was made about 1859. It was made of a poor quality coarse cotton fabric. A sailor, farmer, building mechanic, 1776 soldier, and several other men were pictured. They are hailing a rock called "the Constitution and Laws" which was the base of the "Temple of Liberty." An eagle and the words "E pluribus Unum" are above all. It is believed that this was the emblem of the American Party. They were a political group that was also known as the Know-Nothing party. A similar design was used by a nominee of the party in 1857. The flag, the eagle, and the figure of Liberty were all popular decorative motifs during the 18th and 19th century.

Patriotism flowered in the 19th century and many decorative items featured the flag, liberty, or an eagle. This printed cotton kerchief was made about 1859 by the Boston Chemical Printing Company. It promoted a political campaign.

Q. How old are cigarette cards?

A. Cigarettes began to be packaged during the 1880s. The largest packer of the small leaf wrapped cigars and cigarettes was Allen and Ginter of Richmond, Va. The firm started packing 10 cigarettes in a box for 5 cents in 1885. A picture card was placed in each box. Almost every tobacco firm used the cards by the 1890s. English firms were using similar cards by 1887. W. D. and H. O. Wills actually put the cards into the package to stiffen it. You can still find all types of tobacco cards, the best of them in sets. Famous personalities, Indians, birds, city flags, fans, cars, planes, animals, medals, chickens, pirates, natives in costumes, and hundreds of other subjects were pictured.

Q. My husband hides behind the morning paper looking at ads for sales and auctions. For his birthday, the perfect gift would be an antique newspaper holder. Could I find such an item?

A. Reading husbands have been a problem dating back many centuries. The earliest stand that held reading matter was called Missal stand. French paper or book racks were made during the 17th century when printed newspapers were common. They were often made from carved and turned rods and were adjustable and collapsible. Nineteenth century English racks were similar to those in use today. A solid board was supported on an easel and it was adjustable for slant and height. Brass, inlaid wood, and elaborate carvings can be found on some stands.

Q. I collect glass shoes that were made to hold toothpicks, perfume, or just to decorate a whatnot shelf. Were any made before Victorian times?

A. According to legend, the glass shoe as a drinking glass was first made in England in the 1760s. It was a political joke. You drank to the Earl of Bute, a friend of King George III, with the toast "let's boot him out." The idea of a shoe to drink from became popular in all parts of Europe by the beginning of the 19th century. Early American glass factories made very similar blown glass shoes.

"You've Come A Long Way, Baby"

Mrs. Robert (Jan) Heins (center) was warmly greeted by her daughter, Kathy (right) at her arrival in Lincoln for one of the "must stops" of the Powder Puff Derby air race. Mrs. D. R. Haworth (left), the assistant operations chairman, checked with Mrs. Heins for general repairs that may be needed.

"You've come a long way, baby," is the theme of the 25th Annual Powder Puff Derby, the All-Woman Transcontinental Air Race which began on Monday, July 5, at Calgary, Can.

Competing with some 300 other women and 150 single and multi-engine planes for the $10,000 first prize and a share in the $22,500 purse, are three Lincoln women, Mrs. Robert (Jan) Heins, flying solo in a Piper Comanche 260 (TAR No. 78), and Evelyn Sedivy with co-pilot Mrs. Frank Bartunek (TAR No. 30) in a Piper Arrow.

Touching down in Lincoln for one of the five "must stops" yesterday afternoon was Mrs. Heins. Waiting anxiously to greet her at the general aviation field were her husband, Dr. Robert Heins, and one of their four children, Kathy, a junior at East High School, who was both nervous and excited.

"I think the contest is almost harder on the family than on the pilot," Dr. Heins reported as he waited his wife's arrival which had been delayed. Mrs. Heins had needed to refuel, and landed at McCook Field in Omaha before her stop in Lincoln.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Heins began taking flying lessons about 8 years ago, "just for the fun of it," Mrs. Heins reflects. Dr. Heins found that his medical practice did not allow him the necessary time to continue his instructions, but Mrs. Heins continued to pursue her study. This marks her second TAR entry.

Mrs. Heins reports that she enjoys flying by herself, and that more often she takes her family on short trips.

The Powder Puff Derby will terminate on July 8, in Baton Rouge, La. Each entrant is given a handicap according to her type of plane. Winners will be announced at a banquet the evening of Saturday, July 10.

Abby: you'd better find out who is lying

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I recently married a widow I'll call Emma, whom I always thought to be a very sensible lady. I was a widower with a 14-year-old son. Emma had no children.

Before our marriage, Emma agreed to move into my house with my son and me. I work nights. Right after the wedding, Emma moved in, but two days later she moved out, saying the boy had made improper advances toward her. Now she refuses to come back until I get a daytime job, so I can stay home nights to "protect" her from my son.

I find it hard to believe that the boy ever made any improper advances to my bride. I asked him, and he denied it, saying Emma was crazy. Emma says the boy is not only a sex maniac, but a liar. I don't know what to believe.

In the meantime, I am legally married but I have no wife. In fact, we have never actually lived together as man and wife yet. What kind of marriage do you call this?

NEVADA

DEAR NEVADA: Unconsummated! See a lawyer. Under the circumstances an annulment shouldn't be hard to obtain. And you had better find out for certain who is lying. If Emma is telling the truth, your son needs help. If your son has been unjustly accused, then Emma needs help.

DEAR ABBY: I am so burned up, I'll bet sparks are coming out of my ears!

Three years ago I gave my sister in law a baby bed and a high chair. My children had outgrown them, but both items were as good as new.

Yesterday I found out that she sold them! Now, I ask you, did she have the right to sell them after I gave them to her for nothing? When I told her I wish she had told me she didn't want them becase I would have taken them back, she said, "I would have if you had told me you were only lending them to me, but you told me you were giving them to me." Who is right?

BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: She is. When you give something away, it's no longer yours.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Opening lead — five of clubs.

One tends to become a victim of habit in dealing with situations frequently encountered before. The fact is that circumstances may be similar without being identical, and the treatment successfully applied in one case may be altogether wrong in another case.

Take this deal where West led a club and declarer ducked in dummy. East won with the king and returned a club, thus establishing West's suit.

Declarer had only eight running tricks, and when he led a heart to establish a ninth, West grabbed the ace and ran his clubs to put the contract down one.

The outcome appears normal, yet the fact is that South lost the hand when he failed to take the ace of clubs at trick one. It is certainly far from uncommon for declarer to hold up an ace when his only stopper in the suit is A-x, but nevertheless, before actually holding it up, he should ask himself whether such a procedure is really desirable.

In the present hand it is reasonable to assume that West does not have the K-Q-J of clubs, for he would have led the king in such case, not the five. East must therefore be credited with at least one of the missing honors.

It thus becomes possible for declarer to positively guarantee the contract by promptly taking the ace. If East has two clubs, including an honor, the suit is blocked and cannot be run when the defenders come in with the ace of hearts. If East has three clubs, West has only four and victory is equally certain.

1971 Deficit Is Biggest Since 1945; National Debt Tops $399 Billion

Washington (UPI)—The national debt scored its biggest annual increase in 26 years during the fiscal year that ended June 30 and the small budget surplus President Nixon predicted turned into a considerable deficit, it was reported Tuesday.

The Treasury said the national debt increased by $26 billion to a new total of $399,474,599,545. This increase was almost $10 billion more than the gain recorded during the previous fiscal year.

The last time the debt increased more than it did during the 1971 fiscal year was in the year that ended June 30, 1945 — a World War II period — when it increased by $6.50 billion.

Might Top Johnson

The joint Committee on Reduction of Federal Expenditures, meanwhile, reported that when the final figures are in the fascal 1971 budget deficit will exceed $23.3 billion, contrary to Nixon's forecast of a slight surplus made 18 months ago.

If the committee's figures turn out to be accurate, the two-year total deficit of $44 billion will be the largest since World War II.

This would eclipse the $30.2 billion two-year total run up in the final two years of President Johnson's administration.

In January, 1970, President Nixon submitted his budget for fiscal 1971, which ended June 30.

In his message, he told Congress:

"I have pledged to the American people that I would submit a balanced budget for 1971 . . . The budget I send to you today — the first for which I bear full responsibility as President — fulfills that pledge."

But it was not long before the administration was forced to revise its forecast. It first said the projected $1.3 billion surplus would turn into a $1.3 billion deficit. Then, last January, it said the deficit would amount to $18.6 billion.

Last week, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr. said the final deficit figure would be "substantially" higher.

If the congressional committee is right, the final figure will amount to $23.3 billion. All the data is not yet in, so the Treasury has not yet issued year-end figures on the size of the deficit.

The committee said the President's forecasts for government receipts were too optimistic.

Ag Products Committee Selected By Gov. Exon

The seven member Agricultural Products Industrial Utilization Committee authorized by LB776 to administer the grain alcohol fuel tax fund was named Tuesday by Gov. J. James Exon.

Appointments to the committee as specified by the Legislature were four members engaged in farming, two in business and one engaged in the petroleum industry.

An advisory committee representing one person from the Department of Economic Development, the University of Nebraska and the Department of Agriculture will assist the committee named by Gov. Exon.

A major duty of the committee will be to provide a Nebraska program for the implementation of a Nebraska Grain Alcohol Industry for automotive fuels.

Funding for the program is provided by an appropriation of $40,000 from the general fund for the period of July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1972, together with one-eighth of one cent of the motor fuels tax which is refundable under section 66-452 for the next two years.

The fund shall be used for the following purposes:

(1) Establishment, with cooperation of private industry, of procedures and processes necessary to the manufacture and marketing of grain alcohol-blended fuels;

(2) Establishment of a procedure for entering such blended fuel into the marketplace by private enterprise;

(3) Analysis of the marketing process and testing of marketing procedures to assure acceptance of such blended fuels and byproducts resulting from its manufacture, in the private marketplace;

(4) Cooperation with private industry to establish privately-owned grain alcohol manufacturing plants in Nebraska to supply demand for such product.

The committee may employ such personnel as is necessary for the performance of its duties, hire consultants and contract with private firms.

GOP Selections Due At Saturday G.I. Gathering

Grand Island (AP) — Selection of an executive secretary and new members of the executive committee will highlight a meeting of the executive committee of the Nebraska Republican Party here July 10.

Milan Bish of Grand Island, state chairman, said he would make the recommendations for the posts at a preliminary meeting at 11 a.m. Saturday for members only.

After a noon luncheon, the initial meeting of the full executive committee is scheduled. There also will be reports from various GOP state officials.

Jackie Seen In Munich

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, wife of Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, stopped briefly at Munich airport Tuesday. Airport officials said Mrs. Onassis will be accompanying her children on a trip to Austria.

21 House Democrats Oppose Citing CBS

Washington (AP) —Twenty-one House Democrats charged Tuesday that the Commerce Committee's attempt to cite CBS and its president, Frank Stanton, for contempt of Congress is a threat to the First Amendment and they urged their colleagues to oppose the move.

Rep. Parren J. Mitchell, D-Md., who originated the move, said the proposed citation is "neither justified as a matter of law nor warranted as a matter of public policy."

The Commerce Committee voted 25-13 last week to recommend that the House cite Stanton and the Columbia Broadcasting System with contempt of Congress. The action was due to Stanton's refusal to show the committee unused film clips and other material used in preparing the network's television documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon."

The full House is expected to vote on the matter next week at the earliest.

Mitchell called the committee action an "encroachment on civil liberties . . . that cannot be tolerated."

"Electronic journalists should no more be required to produce out-takes for inspection than print journalists should be required to produce their notebooks," the 21 congressmen said in a letter to their colleagues. "We do not believe that the public rights over the airwaves override the First Amendment" to the U.S. Constitution.

The Democrats signing the letter, in addition to Mitchell, were:

Bella Abzug, N.Y.; Herman Badillo, N.Y.; Jonathan B. Bingham, N.Y.; Shirley Chisholm, N.Y.; William Clay, Mo.; John Conyers Jr., Mich.; Ronald V. Dellums, Calif.; Charles C. French: Airlines Are Too Noisy

Paris (AP) — A Paris appeals court held Tuesday that three international airlines were legally responsible for problems caused by noise in 12 communities around Orly Airport.

The airlines are Pan American World Airways, Trans World Airlines and Air France.

The court, in confirming a November 1970 judgment by the Paris civil tribunal, designated a group of experts to study the possibility of soundproofing buildings and the cost of such work.

Intruders Break Into Home; Take $6,300 In Goods

Omaha (AP) — Items valued at more than $6,300 were taken from the home of George Thomas, 45, a real estate man, police said Tuesday.

Police called it one of the largest home burglaries in Omaha in recent months. Police said the intruders pried open a side door and entered the home while Thomas was away on vacation.

Items taken included a stereo-tape recorder valued at $2,000, a $600 coat, a color television, furniture, tools and appliances, police said.

Train Kills Texans

Fort Worth, Tex. (UPI) — Police said Jack Vernon Blanton, 60, and his wife, Lilia, were killed in a collision with a Texas Chief locomotive. The train engineer said he sounded the train's warning whistle again and again but Blanton's car stopped at the tracks and then pulled into the path of the train. The locomotive was traveling 37 miles an hour on impact.

Korean Police Cut Hair Free

©The New York Times

Seoul, South Korea — Seoul police began a crackdown on long-haired youths in a "social purification" campaign. More than 1,000 men in their 20's and high teens were rounded up in the streets and had their hair trimmed short at police stations.

Police said those who refused to have their hair cut would be charged with violating "good customs and traditions" of the country and causing "displeasure to others" under the law governing misdemeanors.

Fewer Quit School

Tokyo — Fewer graduates of Tokyo's junior and senior high schools are taking full-time jobs instead of continuing their education. In 1970 only 4.4% of the 126,400 junior high graduates took jobs. Of the 140,600 high school graduates, only 39,381 quit school and went to work.

1971 Deficit Is Biggest Since 1945; National Debt Tops $399 Billion

Washington (UPI)—The national debt scored its biggest annual increase in 26 years during the fiscal year that ended June 30 and the small budget surplus President Nixon predicted turned into a considerable deficit, it was reported Tuesday.

The Treasury said the national debt increased by $26 billion to a new total of $399,474,599,545. This increase was almost $10 billion more than the gain recorded during the previous fiscal year.

The last time the debt increased more than it did during the 1971 fiscal year was in the year that ended June 30, 1945 — a World War II period — when it increased by $6.50 billion.

Might Top Johnson

The joint Committee on Reduction of Federal Expenditures, meanwhile, reported that when the final figures are in the fascal 1971 budget deficit will exceed $23.3 billion, contrary to Nixon's forecast of a slight surplus made 18 months ago.

If the committee's figures turn out to be accurate, the two-year total deficit of $44 billion will be the largest since World War II.

This would eclipse the $30.2 billion two-year total run up in the final two years of President Johnson's administration.

In January, 1970, President Nixon submitted his budget for fiscal 1971, which ended June 30.

In his message, he told Congress:

"I have pledged to the American people that I would submit a balanced budget for 1971 . . . The budget I send to you today — the first for which I bear full responsibility as President — fulfills that pledge."

But it was not long before the administration was forced to revise its forecast. It first said the projected $1.3 billion surplus would turn into a $1.3 billion deficit. Then, last January, it said the deficit would amount to $18.6 billion.

Last week, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr. said the final deficit figure would be "substantially" higher.

If the congressional committee is right, the final figure will amount to $23.3 billion. All the data is not yet in, so the Treasury has not yet issued year-end figures on the size of the deficit.

The committee said the President's forecasts for government receipts were too optimistic.

RECORDS EYED IN LINCOLN RACING

...Bold Accent Tops Inaugural Handicap Bidders Today

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

If today's opening card at the State Fairgrounds attracts the same enthusiastic response as did the final one at Ak-Sar-Ben on Monday, attendance and mutuel records may be shattered.

The Omaha plant ended its 48-day horse racing season with records galore falling as crowds increased 2.26% from last year's previous record and mutuel handle totals were hiked by a resounding 9.37%.

State Fairgrounds manager Henry Brandt and racing secretary Dean Williams are both anticipating that when the 25-day meet concludes, last year's record of 122,182 customers who wagered a peak $5,453,226 will be toppled.

"Things went outstanding in registering almost 700 horses with just that short one-day break between here and Omaha," Williams said late Tuesday.

In terming the nine-race card one of the best opening day programs in years, Williams said he had no qualms about letting some of the finest horses on the grounds compete on the first in relatively short fields.

"My feeling is that the good horses should run even if you have short fields," he explained. "They came here to run so why not let them run?"

Highlighting the opening-day chases that begins with a 5 p.m. post, is the first Fairgrounds appearance of Paul Kemling's sprint standout — Bold Accent — winner of more than $23,000 this year.

The 6-year-old chestnut mare, who captured last Friday's 6-furlong Nebraskaland Handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben will face four foes in a 5½-furlong allowance test for a $2,500 purse. In carrying top-weight of 119 pounds, Bold Accent will be guided by the Fairgrounds' perennial leading jockey, Fred Ecoffey.

Bold Accent, in running for the Inaugural Purse, will be seeking the smallest purse she has run for this year.

Providing the opposition for Bold Accent will be Meadeland with 115 pounds and Alan Patterson, Be A Song with Bill Stallings and 114 pounds, Husker Ace (John Rettele and 109) and Roman Valentino (with 114).

Top-weighted in the sixth race will be J. Kirby's Gem's Package, who is coming off a smart 6-length victory in a 6-furlong test June 24 at Ak-Sar-Ben.

The 3-year-old gelding will carry 120 pounds and Wayne Anderson to oppose six other 3-year-olds in a 6-furlong allowance scamper.

"I think those two races are the best two opening day races we've ever had here," Williams said. "It just shows the quality of the horses we have here."

For the convenience of fans, extra mutuel windows have been installed and a gate west of the main entrance has been added for minors or adults with minors to enter the "Junior Paddock."

This season, racing begins at 5 p.m. on weekdays and 2 p.m. on Saturdays with no racing slated for Sundays or Mondays (except Aug. 2). Exacta wagering will be held, as usual, on the fifth and final races each day.

Sports Editor, The Star

Toying With Names

If you're a Nebraska football fan, you're likely to want to plunk down a bob or two any time HUSKER ACE, HUSKER HERO, HUSKER STAR or GO BIG RED go to the post.

The stock market boys, who normally do their "gambling" in that other realm of chance are sure to like BROKERS JOY.

Good Harvest Or Stay Even

While the goal of many racegoers is to BID for a GOOD HARVEST, others are content if they just have a good time at the track and are able to STAY EVEN.

If you're trips to the track go smoothly with NO HITCH, You'll be fortunate. If they don't you may have to RUSTLE UP more money for one LAST TRY on Aug. 7, the final day.

There will be many a bettor, who will STEP IN LINE for an exacta wager, and after getting his two bucks down just as the bell sounds will exclaim that he JUST MADE IT.

The winners can KEEP-A-GOIN back; the losers will know IT HURTS and sneak away from the track with NOT A SOUND.

Any bettor who gets enough horses IN THERE to be able to afford a vacation, will surely want to remember to leave a VACATION NOTE for the paper boy and the milkman.

There's sure to be a few days that will be JOUST ABIT WINDY.

Bring Home Loaf Of Bread

Any husband, whose wife has called him at the office and told him to bring home a loaf of bread but who stops at the track first, may have to be a HASTY MISTER as he RIPS TO MARKET before the store closes.

If he blows that assignment, he might be wise to send her a PINK ORCHID the next day.

And anyone who gets GASSED UP at the track might be wise to RACE A FOOT home rather than trying to drive his car.

The fellow, who has had a good day at the races and still feels lucky, may want to take his PACK OF GEMS to another game of chance if he can find one. If he does, he'll surely hope he can come up with a LUCKY PARA DICE.

But he'll also be hoping he doesn't hear a voice saying, I'M THE LAW. And he'll also want to be careful that he doesn't get involved with someone who's a BIT OF CHEAT.

A young bachelor who is able to MAKE CONTACT with a pretty young miss will be hoping she tells him GIVE ME A CALL and when he does finding her saying I'M WILLING.

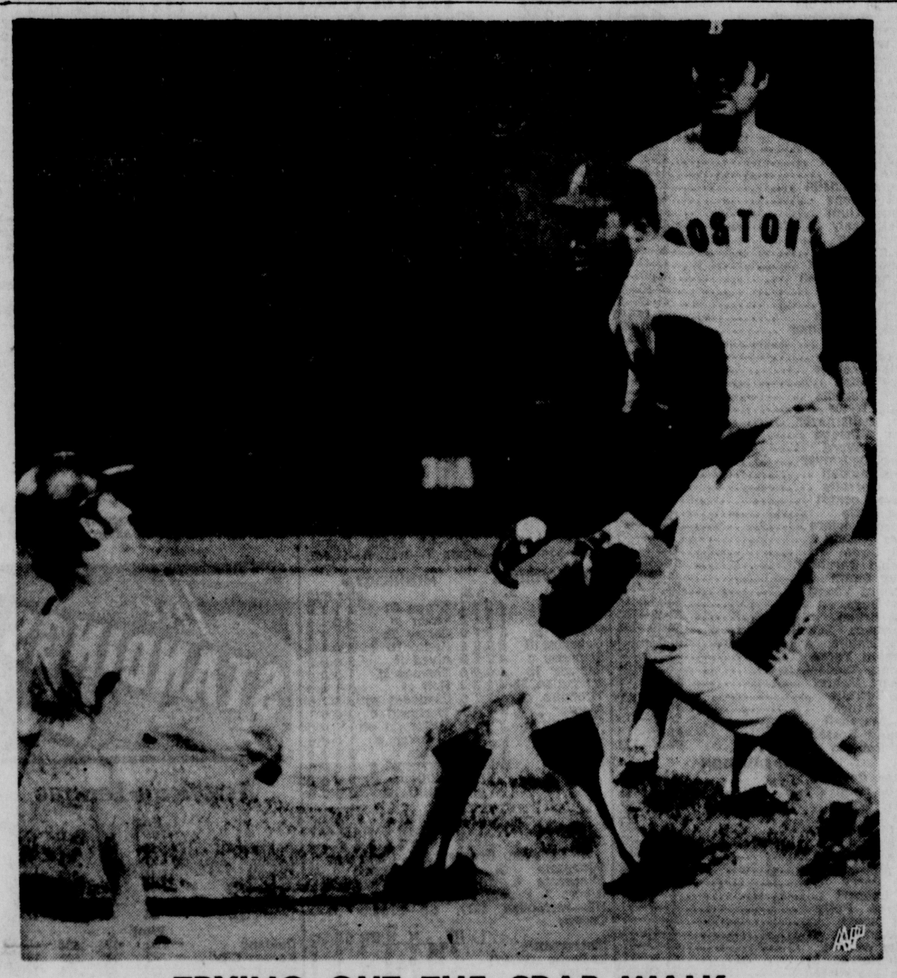

Can't Be Forgetful

The bettor who keeps winning MAYGO back again, but if you're one of those who carries bets to the track for friends had better be careful not to be FORGETFUL.

Many a horse will show a LOTTA PROMISE in the form, but when it doesn't win, you'll figure ITSA MYSTERY when a lesser horse is able to STEALTHELEAD.

Many a bettor, even after a losing day, will boast that he won to keep his SELF RESPECT while others will let it go as a SILENT MISTAKE.

But win or lose, it can be GREAT GOING to the races if you don't pick up a SPLINTER from the wooden seats and if you study the form chart before going, you'll even have some TIME TO FIDDLE between races.

TRYING OUT THE CRAB WALK

Sutton To Stay

Omaha (UPI) — Creighton University basketball coach Eddie Sutton informed Washington State University officials late Tuesday he has decided to decline their offer to head the WSU basketball program.

Sutton said his decision to remain at Creighton was "the most difficult decision of my life so far, but I feel it is the right one."

He added his decision was based on two major points, the first being his commitment to the players in the basketball program at the present time.

"When I recruited them, I told them I'd be with them for four years," Sutton explained.

The Bluejay mentor said his second reason was "I made a commitment to the great Omaha fans that I'd bring a winner to Creighton, and if I left now I felt it would be leaving the job without completing it."

He also added that the Rev. Joseph J. Labaj, Creighton's president, and "the rest of the Creighton family have given tremendous support during my two years, and have pledged continued support."

Sutton was called by WSU athletic director Ray Nagel last week to discuss the position, and flew to Seattle over the weekend. Nagel was the athletic director at Iowa before going to Washington State and the Hawkeyes play the Bluejays in basketball.

The coach, who is also Creighton's athletic director, is beginning the second year of a five-year contract here. His Bluejay teams have a record of 29-21.

Devaney Gives Rodgers Okay

Nebraska football flanker Johnny Rodgers will be permitted to play football this fall, notwithstanding his recent guilty plea to a felony charge growing out of a filling station holdup a year ago, Cornhusker football coach and athletic director Bob Devaney announced Tuesday night.

Rodgers, 19, sophomore star last season, had been placed on two years probation by the court last month after pleading guilty to larceny from a person.

As a football participant, Rodgers also will be on two years probation, Devaney said.

"We do not condone John's actions in any way," Devaney said, "but we also feel that to deprive him of the opportunity to play football would work against the aims of probation already established."

University officials earlier had ruled that Rodgers would be permitted to continue in school if given a suspended sentence or probation.

Rodgers led the nationally top-ranked Huskers in pass receiving last fall, catching 35 for 665 yards. He also led the team in kickoff and punt returns and was third in team scoring with 66 points.

The filling station incident which resulted in charges against Rodgers and two other men occurred May 20, 1970.

Devaney said the football coaching staff, "after very careful deliberation, has decided to place Johnny Rodgers on two years probation and permit him to participate in football during the length of this probation.

"We have studied the facts of the situation and feel that we should follow the pattern of the Lancaster County Court, the University of Nebraska Student Tribunal and the University of Nebraska Dean of Student Development's office.

"Since the offense in which John Rodgers participated did not take place during the time he was a member of the varsity football team, and the court, student tribunal and dean's office have given him the opportunity to redeem himself, we feel we should follow the same course."

In an interview following his arrest in May, Rodgers, of Omaha, said he'd had a year to think about it," but I still don't know why I did it."

The robbery was said to have involved around $90 but Rodgers said he did not need the money. "It was just stupidity," he said, and won't happen again.

Men's City Meet Has Aces Aplenty

. . . FOR TAYLOR, BRUNZELL

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Aces are hard to find in any golf tournament, but when two aces are scored during the same tournament, the result is a lot more than an oddity.

Charles Taylor grabbed the limelight first when he used a seven-iron to ace No. 5 at the Lincoln Country Club during the Men's City Golf Tournament, but he couldn't bask in it long as Scott Brunzell followed shortly after with the second hole-in-one of the day.

Results, Page 30

Brunzell almost pulled it off again as he struck the flag on No. 12 after collecting his ace on No. 10, a 148-yard par three.

That hole-in-one got back the two strokes Brunzell lost on the front nine. Following his birdie on the 224-yard No. 12, Brunzell played par golf and finished with a par 72, with 38 on the front nine and 34 coming in, to pace the 144 entrants in the tournament.

"I had a little trouble," Brunzell said following his feat. "I used a wrong club on the eighth and punched it over the green. But that ace brought it all back.

"I used a six-iron and could see it bounce on the green, but I didn't really know that I had gotten it until I heard some people yelling."

Brunzell followed his first ace with a birdie on No. 12 — a feat that some veteran golfers of the Country Club course say is a rarity.

"I used a four-wood on that one," Brunzell explained. "I hit the flag and ended about two feet from the pin. That was an easy bird and I kind of thought that I might have a chance at it if (Lance) Gloe didn't par."

Gloe finished two-strokes behind Brunzell by ringing in a pair of 37s for a two-over-par 74.

"The last time that a hole-in-one was recorded in the city tournament was in the mid-forties," Max Pennington said following the two aces. "But we've never had two aces scored during the same tournament before that I can recall."

Taylor, who finished with a 45-37 for an 80, said this was the second time he has collected an ace, the first coming at Chappell "before the war."

In the senior division, Larry Rowan came home with a five-over-par 77 to lead the seniors into their second day of play at Pioneers Golf Course.

Americans Head British Open Lineup

SOUTHPORT, England AP) — A tour-toughened cadre of Americans, headed by Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino, rank as the dominant figures in the international field assembled for the 100th British Open golf tournament.

The grand-daddy of all the world's golf championships gets underway Wednesday with defending champion Nicklaus and the streaking Trevino solidly entrenched as the men to beat for this ancient title.

Nicklaus, the powerful Golden Bear who captured his second British Open title in a playoff with Doug Sanders last year, was given a slight edge by Britain's legal bookies, but Trevino warned:

"I think I can win it.

"I'm playing pretty good right now."

The latter was something of an understatement, decidedly out of character for the brash and breezy Mexican-American who is threatening to break all sorts of financial records on the United States circuit.

Trevino is leading in the chase for the Vardon Trophy, which goes to the man with the low stroke average. He tops the money winners with more than $195,000 and is the only player to core four victories on the U.S. tour this season. He's missed four other titles by a total of five strokes.

Trevino, who Sunday added the Canadian Open to his United States Open title, arrived from Montreal Monday and got in only two practice rounds—one of them abbreviated—on the rolling links of Royal Birkdale, hard by the Irish Sea.

But he said the lack of preparation and the let-down that often follows a tournament triumph don't figure to bother him.

"It's not exactly like this was the screen door open," said the stocky, swarthy character who stalked out of poverty and obscurity only five years ago and shouldered his way into the front ranks of the game's super-stars.

"This is the British Open. You don't have to work to get up for it. I said early in the year that it was one of my goals for the season. Nothing's changed that. There's all this tradition and history. This is where it all started.

Hot Pants Selling Like Hot Cakes On Eve Of Merry Old English Open

Southhampton, England (AP)—Hot pants and thigh-high stockings came into fashion for golfing girls Tuesday on the eve of the British Open — and Robert De Vincenzo approved the new sexy style with a thigh-high signature.

De Vincenzo, the popular Argentinian who won the cherished title in 1967 at Hoylake, said: "This is one of the best female fashions that men could ever hope for."

She wore purple hot pants and purple thigh-high stockings — and left the male golfing crowd assembled at Royal Birkdale wondering whether mixed foursomes would ever be the same again.

"I took up golf because my boy friend is a keen player and I wasn't prepared to sit around the clubhouse waiting for him," she said. "All the men were wearing such colorful clothes that I thought we girls should try to match them."

Marion's answer: hot pants and thigh-highs.

"It's time for lady golfers to shake off the old image of tweeds and bermuda shorts," she said. "Why shouldn't a girl on a golf course look as attractive as a miniskirted girl on Main Street?"

"Thank you, sir," she said.

"A pleasure," replied Roberto.

A crowd of more than 100 were fascinated by the informal little ceremony. If the enthusiasm of the fans was anything to judge by, hot pants could become the gear to wear on golf courses from Palm Beach to Prestwick, from Birdale to the Bahamas.

Designer Douglas Witt told newsmen: "The ladies have got to create a new fashion image in golf. For more years than I like to remember, people have joked about women golfers. But there's no reason why a good-looking girl should not be as sexy and stylish as her own golf swing.

"After all, Teddy Tinling did wonders for the tennis girls with his bright fashions. Now we're doing the same for the girls who prefer golf."

The hot pants come in all the colors of the rainbow. On the eve of the British Open, they were selling like hot cakes.

"They're comfortable. If you play golf in Britain you need something warm. And if you play golf in Africa, they keep the snakes off."

Aunt Priscilla Ready For Races

If you don't think I'm the happiest old girl in town, you're wrong, because there's nothing like the horse races to make an aging Aunt Priscilla feel young again.

Priscilla

And after my best year ever last season when I made $4.60 at the Lincoln races, I've just been busting my buttons to get at 'em again.

Of course, that $4.60 has been spent and I've even heard that my favorite pony, Champagne Kid, won't be here this time around.

But I've got another $100 to bet with this year, $4 per day, and even if Champagne Kid is gone, there's a Champagne Jo and a Champagne Baby ready to run and today I'll start building my fortune with $2 win bets on Champagne Jo in the first, and Perry Gray in the eighth.

Ag Products Committee Selected By Gov. Exon

The seven member Agricultural Products Industrial Utilization Committee authorized by LB776 to administer the grain alcohol fuel tax fund was named Tuesday by Gov. J. James Exon.

Appointments to the committee as specified by the Legislature were four members engaged in farming, two in business and one engaged in the petroleum industry.

An advisory committee representing one person from the Department of Economic Development, the University of Nebraska and the Department of Agriculture will assist the committee named by Cov. Exon.

A major duty of the committee will be to provide a Nebraska program for the implementation of a Nebraska Grain Alcohol Industry for automotive fuels.

Funding for the program is provided by an appropriation of $40,000 from the general fund for the period of July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1972, together with one-eighth of one cent of the motor fuels tax which is refundable under section 66-452 for the next two years.

The fund shall be used for the following purposes:

(1) Establishment, with cooperation of private industry, of procedures and processes necessary to the manufacture and marketing of grain alcohol-blended fuels;

(2) Establishment of a procedure for entering such blended fuel into the marketplace by private enterprise;

(3) Analysis of the marketing process and testing of marketing procedures to assure acceptance of such blended fuels and byproducts resulting from its manufacture, in the private marketplace;

(4) Cooperation with private industry to establish privately-owned grain alcohol manufacturing plants in Nebraska to supply demand for such product.

The committee may employ such personnel as is necessary for the performance of its duties, hire consultants and contract with private firms.

GOP Selections Due At Saturday G.I. Gathering

Grand Island (AP) — Selection of an executive secretary and new members of the executive committee will highlight a meeting of the executive committee of the Nebraska Republican Party here July 10

Milan Bish of Grand Island, state chairman, said he would make the recommendations for the posts at a preliminary meeting at 11 a.m. Saturday for members only.

After a noon luncheon, the initial meeting of the full executive committee is scheduled. There also will be reports from various GOP state officials.

Jackie Seen In Munich

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, wife of Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, stopped briefly at Munich airport Tuesday. Airport officials said Mrs. Onassis will be accompanying her children on a trip to Austria.

21 House Democrats Oppose Citing CBS

Washington (AP) —Twenty-one House Democrats charged Tuesday that the Commerce Committee's attempt to cite CBS and its president, Frank Stanton, for contempt of Congress is a threat to the First Amendment and they urged their colleagues to oppose the move.

Rep. Parren J. Mitchell, D-Md., who originated the move, said the proposed citation is "neither justified as a matter of law nor warranted as a matter of public policy."

The Commerce Committee voted 25-13 last week to recommend that the House cite Stanton and the Columbia Broadcasting System with contempt of Congress. The action was due to Stanton's refusal to show the committee unused film clips and other material used in preparing the network's television documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon."

The full House is expected to vote on the matter next week at the earliest

Mitchell called the committee action an "encroachment on civil liberties . . . that cannot be tolerated"

"Electronic journalists should no more be required to produce out-takes for inspection than print journalists should be required to produce their notebooks," the 21 congressmen said in a letter to their colleagues. "We do not believe that the public rights over the airwaves override the First Amendment" to the U.S. Constitution.

The Democrats signing the letter, in addition to Mitchell, were:

Bella Abzug, N.Y.; Herman Badillo, N.Y.; Jonathan B. Bingham, N.Y.; Shirley Chisholm, N.Y.; William Clay, Mo; John Conyers Jr., Mich.; Ronald V. Dellums, Calif.; Charles C. Diggs Jr., Mich; Don Edwards, Calif.; Edwin W. Edwards, La.; Bob Eckhardt, Tex.; Michael J. Harrington, Mass.; Edwin I. Koch, N.Y.; Robert L. Leggett, Calif; Patsy T Mink, Hawaii. Charles B. French: Airlines Are Too Noisy

Paris (AP) — A Paris appeals court held Tuesday that three international airlines were legally responsible for problems caused by noise in 12 communities around Orly Airport.

The court, in confirming a November 1970 judgment by the Paris civil tribunal, designated a group of experts to study the possibility of soundproofing buildings and the cost of such work.

Intruders Break Into Home; Take $6,300 In Goods

Police called it one of the largest home burglaries in Omaha in recent months. Police said the intruders pried open a side door and entered the home while Thomas was away on vacation.

Train Kills Texans

Fort Worth, Tex. (UPI) — Police said Jack Vernon Blanton, 60, and his wife, Lilia, were killed in a collision with a Texas Chief locomotive. The train engineer said he sounded the train's warning whistle again and again but Blanton's car stopped at the tracks and then pulled into the path of the train. The locomotive was traveling 37 miles an hour on impact.

Korean Police Cut Hair Free

©The New York Times

Seoul, South Korea — Seoul police began a crackdown on long-haired youths in a "social purification" campaign. More than 1,000 men in their 20's and high teens were rounded up in the streets and had their hair trimmed short at police stations.

Police said those who refused to have their hair cut would be charged with violating "good customs and traditions" of the country and causing "displeasure to others" under the law governing misdemeanors.

Fewer Quit School

Tokyo — Fewer graduates of Tokyo's junior and senior high schools are taking full-time jobs instead of continuing their education. In 1970 only 4.4% of the 126,400 junior high graduates took jobs. Of the 140,600 high school graduates, only 39,381 quit school and went to work.

Orioles Land Trio On All-Star Team

. . . BROOKS ROBINSON NO. 1 VOTE GETTER

New York (AP) — The world champion Baltimore Orioles placed three men on the American League All-Star team, including third baseman Brooks Robinson, the No. 1 vote-getter in final balloting announced Tuesday by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Robinson, who drew 1,110,468 of the more than 2,300,000 ballots cast in what is believed to be the largest computerized vote ever taken in sports, will be joined by teammates Boog Powell at first base and Frank Robinson in the outfield.

Rounding out the AL's starting infield for the 42nd All-Star Game at Detroit are second baseman Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins and shortstop Luis Aparicio of the Boston Red Sox. The catcher will be Ray Fosse of Cleveland.

It will be the 10th All-Star appearance for Frank Robinson, who has played for the American League four times and the National League six times.

The eight winners in the fan balloting conducted throughout the United States and Canada must play three innings. The balance of the squad, including pitchers, will be named by Manager Earl Weaver of the Orioles.

The eight National League starters will be named later in the week.

The leaders:

Ellis Captures 12th Straight, As Pirates Defeat Reds, 5-2

By Associated Press

Pittsburgh's Dock Ellis registered his 12th consecutive victory as the Pirates defeated Cinsinnati, 5-2, Tuesday night and widened their National League East lead to 5½ games over the slumping New York Mets.

The Mets suffered their sixth loss in seven games, bowing to Montreal, 5-1, as the Expos' Bil Stoneman fired a six-hitter and struck out nine, raising his season's strikeout total to 150 — tops in the NL.

Mike Lum's two-run, tie-breaking double helped Atlanta down Philadelphia, 5-2, in another NL game.

In the American League, streaking Boston pulled within 2½ games of first-place Baltimore in the East, edging Cleveland, 3-2, while the Orioles were splitting a doubleheade with Washington. Baltimore won the opener, 6-2, then lost, 3-2.

Third-place Detroit moved within six games of the top, outslugging the New York Yankees, 12-7, as Norm Cash smashed a pair of three-run homers.

Reggie jackson's three hits, including his 17th homer, powered Oakland past the Chicago White Sox, 9-4. Kansa City nipped Milwaukee, 1-0, behind Dick Drago's six-hitter, and California whipped Minnesota, 7-5, on Ken Berry's tie-breaking two-run pinch single.

Ellis, 14-3, suffered a bruised shin bone in the fourth inning when struck by Tommy Helms' single, and finally left the game in the seventh. Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente cracked a triple and a single, becoming the 24th player in major league history

Reggie Smith drilled his 17th homer in the fifth inning and John Kennedy tripled in a run in the sixth and scored on an error as Boston overcame Cleveland, giving the Indians with their fifth loss in a row.

Cash's two homers boosted his season's total to 19, the most in the AL. His first of the game came during a seven-run Detroit outburst in the Cookie Rojas' fourth-inning sacrifice fly following a walk to Paul Schaal and Amos Otis' single provided Drago with the only run he needed against Milwaukee.

In late west coast games the Houston Astros jumped on Ron Bryant for three runs in the first inning and went on to beat the skidding San Francisco Giants, 5-2, behind the six-hit pitching of Jack Billingham and George Culver.

Keino Takes Mile, Ryun Finishes Last

Stockholm (AP) — Kip Keino, the Olympic gold medalist from Kenya, ran the fastest mile in the world this year — 3:54.4 Tuesday night — while world mile record holder Jim Ryun, reportedly suffering from hay fever, finished last in the field of 10 with a 4:17.3.

This was the first meeting between Keino and Ryun since the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City, when the sturdy Kenyan, taking advantage of the high altitude — similar to his homeland — burst to a wide lead and won the 1500 meters, the metric mile, in an Olympic record 3:34.9. Ryun was second in 3:37.8.

Tuesday, Keino bettered Marty Liquori's 1971 best of 3:54.6. Ryun, whose best time this year was 3:54.8, was almost 10 seconds behind the ninth-place finisher.

Ryun later told newsmen he had never been so disappointed in his life.

"Not even after the defeat in the 1968 Olympics did I feel as disappointed as tonight," Ryun said.

He said he did not know whether to continue his European tour.

"We will see tomorrow. If I decide to continue, my next race will be in Oslo July 14," Ryun said.

Keino said he was surprised not to see Ryun when he glanced back on the third lap. "I saw only fast running Swedes and was really surprised not seeing Ryun," he said.

John Mason of the United States was third in 3:59.2 and Anders Gaerderud of Sweden wound up fourth in 3:59.8.

Meanwhile, Jay Silvester of the United States won the discus with a toss of 214 feet 10¾ inches and the shot put with a heave of 65-5½.

Al Feuerbach of the United States finished second to Silvester in the shot at 64-10¾.

Royals Defeat 89ers In 10th

Oklahoma City (AP) — Omaha scored two runs in the top of the 10th inning to overcome Oklahoma City, 8-6, in an American Association game here Tuesday night.

A three-run eighth enabled Omaha to tie the game at 6-6. Rick Severson, newly sent down from Kansas City, slammed a three-run homer to tie the game.

Offutt Air Force Base sailed through the holiday softball tournament at Bailard Field without a loss over the weekend to claim the top spot in the eight-team tournament.

Runnerup KOLN-TV of Lincoln had to win a four-team playoff to salvage the runnerup spot. KOLN-TV, Council Bluffs Falstaff, Roberts-Skyline of Lincoln and Central Nebraska Co-op of Kearney had identical 4-3 records at the conclusion of round robin play.

KOLN-TV defeated Kearney and the Council Bluffs club ousted Roberts-Skyline in the first round of the playoff. KOLN-TV then defeated Council Bluffs, 6-1, for the runnerup spot.

Small Gain Posted By Stock Market

A boost to 6% in the prime rate — the interest charged major corporate borrowers — was made by many big banks throughout the country. The move was initiated about two weeks ago, but only a few banks had gone along prior to this week.

Investment analysts have been saying for some time that the prospect of higher interest rates was pushing the market lower. But the market's firmness when the boost showed definite signs of becoming general indicated the action had been widely anticipated and discounted.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, after standing almost still during most of the session, showed some life in the last half hour and closed with a gain of 2.11 at 892.30.

The Associated Press 60-stock average advanced .7 to 320.4 with industrials up 2.1, rails off .4, and utilities up .4. The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks edged ahead 0.02 to 55.20. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dipped .02 to 99.76.

Gainers led losers 728 to 626 among 1,652 issues traded on the Big Board. New 1971 highs topped new lows by 42 to 34.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange was a dull total of 10.44 million shares, up a bit from the 9.97 million shares traded Friday.

Institutional investors curbed their activity, with only 59 blocks of 10,000 shares or more being traded, compared with 72 Friday.

A huge block of 980,000 shares of Greyhound crossed the ticker tape. Identities of the participants in the transaction were not disclosed by the broker who handled the trade. Greyhound rose ⅛ to 22⅜ on total volume of 1,143,380 shares.

Rubber issues, mail order-retails, chemicals, oils, tobaccos and bulding materials were mostly higher. Aircrafts, rails, electronics and utilities declined.

The American Stock Exchange price-change index rose .07 to 25.59, and advances led declines by 441 to 383 among 1,108 issues traded. Volume expanded to 2.57 million shares from 2.31 million Friday.

Corporate and government bonds were mostly higher.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Approaches Are Outlined For Selecting Investments

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Matter Of Opinion

The sucker's recipe for certain failure—buy high and sell low. He purchases stocks, not because they are undervalued, but because of intoxication from the spectacle of rising prices. He hopes that someone else as ignorant as himself will give him an opportunity to sell out at a profit.

Wall Street, unlike other markets, is scared by markdowns. There should be a greater understanding if prices per share were translated into total capitalization of a venture in prevailing market prices.

Matter Of Opinion

But there are approaches. One is to ferret out after a market break prime growth stocks which have fallen below peak quotations to somewhat more reasonable price-earnings ratio. Based on past performances, growth stocks include such shares as: American Hospital, Anheuser-Busch, Avon Products, Coca-Cola, Eastman Kodak, Emerson Electric, IBM, S. S. Kresge, Merck MMM, Polaroid, and Xerox.

A second approach, instead of selecting high-price to earnings ratio growth stocks, is to choose long term seasoned corporate earners. Thus United Business & Investment Report recently compiled a list of 155 companies that have never shown a lack of profit. These include: Union Oil of California, Union Pacific, Upjohn, Georgia-Pacific, Household Finance, Interco, Kroger, Nabisco, Standard Oil of California, American Electric Power, American Home Products, American Natural Gas, Carolina Power & Light, Castle & Cooke, and Combustion Engineering.

Dollar Averaging

A third approach for bucking tipsters is dollar averaging. That is investing the same amounts of money in exactly the same carefully selected stocks of companies with strong survival prospects periodically—monthly, quarterly, or annually—irrespective of the rise and fall of Wall Street optimism.

Q. An 18-year-old student in Nigeria asks for suggestions as to how to finance his forthcoming education in the United States, which he estimates will cost $2,583 a year.

A.—A well motivated person can earn income through odd jobs such as cutting grass and tutoring. M. Lincoln Schuster, the eminent book publisher, earned funds by working in the library and by sending college news to newspapers. Maybe you could get an assignment from a Nigerian newspaper to send back your impressions. Alan H. Temple, who became executive vice president of the First National City Bank of New York, earned his way on the campus by waiting on tables.

Our native students are helped by scholarships and long term loans. I suggest you ask the college of your choice whether you as an alien will be eligible for any such benefits.

Q. A Sacramento, California reader asks about no-load and closed end funds. Are there no-load closed end funds?

A. A no-load fund is a mutual fund which can be purchased directly through the sponsor at current net asset value with no premium for sales expense. It is mand. This right of the holder to demand his share of the current market value of the portfolio at any time is a theoretical disadvantage. However, the closed end investment company is not subject to this hazard. The corporate setup resembles that of conventional industrial, utility or railroad companies and the only way the investor can turn his holdings into cash is to sell them at the Stock Exchange. The acquisition of the closed end fund, such as Lehman Corporation, Dominick Fund, Tricontinental and Japan Fund, is subject to the regular brokerage commission. As a matter of fact, some of the closed end funds actually sell at a discount below actual current break-up value. On Mondays the Wall Street Journal lists the discounts and premiums, as the case may be, of closed end funds, which are undersold.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Power Ratio Cut

Washington — At the turn of the century, when internal-combustion engines were becoming popular as an automotive power source, 10 pounds of engine weight was required to produce a unit of horsepower. The modern engine produces one horsepower for every 3 pounds, or less, of engine weight.

It's '4 C's'

...Bold Accent Tops Inaugural Handicap Bidders Today

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

If today's opening card at the State Fairgrounds attracts the same enthusiastic response as did the final one at Ak-Sar-Ben on Monday, attendance and mutuel records may be shattered.

The Omaha plant ended its 48-day horse racing season with records galore falling as crowds increased 2.26% from last year's previous record and mutuel handle totals were hiked by a resounding 9.37%.

State Fairgrounds manager Henry Brandt and racing secretary Dean Williams are both anticipating that when the 25-day meet concludes, last year's record of 122,182 customers who wagered a peak $5,453,226 will be toppled.

"Things went outstanding in registering almost 700 horses with just that short one-day break between here and Omaha," Williams said late Tuesday.

In terming the nine-race card one of the best opening day programs in years, Williams said he had no qualms about letting some of the finest horses on the grounds compete on the first in relatively short fields.

"My feeling is that the good horses should run even if you have short fields," he explained. "They came here to run so why not let them run?"

Highlighting the opening-day chases that begins with a 5 p.m. post, is the first Fairgrounds appearance of Paul Kemling's sprint standout — Bold Accent — winner of more than $23,000 this year.

The 6-year-old chestnut mare, who captured last Friday's 6-furlong Nebraskaland Handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben will face four foes in a 5½-furlong allowance test for a $2,500 purse. In carrying top-weight of 119 pounds, Bold Accent will be guided by the Fairgrounds' perennial leading jockey, Fred Ecoffey.

Bold Accent, in running for the Inaugural Purse, will be seeking the smallest purse she has run for this year.

Providing the opposition for Bold Accent will be Meadeland with 115 pounds and Alan Patterson, Be A Song with Bill Stallings and 114 pounds, Husker Ace (John Rettele and 109) and Roman Valentino (with 114).

Top-weighted in the sixth race will be J. Kirby's Gem's Package, who is coming off a smart 6-length victory in a 6-furlong test June 24 at Ak-Sar-Ben.

The 3-year-old gelding will carry 120 pounds and Wayne Anderson to oppose six other 3-year-olds in a 6-furlong allowance scamper.

"T think those two races are the best two opening day races we've ever had here," Williams said. "It just shows the quality of the horses we have here."

For the convenience of fans, extra mutuel windows have been installed and a gate west of the main entrance has been added for minors or adults with minors to enter the "Junior Paddock."

This season, racing begins at 5 p.m. on weekdays and 2 p.m. on Saturdays with no racing slated for Sundays or Mondays (except Aug. 2). Exacta wagering will be held, as usual, on the fifth and final races each day.

Toying With Names

If you're a Nebraska football fan, you're likely to want to plunk down a bob or two any time HUSKER ACE, HUSKER HERO, HUSKER STAR or GO BIG RED go to the post.

And you can bet that Nebraska offensive line coach Carl Selmer and defensive line coach Monte Kiffin will take a long look at HUSKERLINE.

The stock market boys, who normally do their "gambling" in that other realm of chance are sure to like BROKERS JOY.

If you've just paid off a bill, you might take a chance on ACCOUNT CLOSED.

Good Harvest Or Stay Even

While the goal of many racegoers is to BID for a GOOD HARVEST, others are content if they just have a good time at the track and are able to STAY EVEN.

If you're trips to the track go smoothly with NO HITCH, You'll be fortunate. If they don't you may have to RUSTLE UP more money for one LAST TRY on Aug. 7, the final day.

There will be many a bettor, who will STEP IN LINE for an exacta wager, and after getting his two bucks down just as the bell sounds will exclaim that he JUST MADE IT.

The winners can KEEP-A-GOIN back; the losers will know IT HURTS and sneak away from the track with NOT A SOUND.

Any bettor who gets enough horses IN THERE to be able to afford a vacation, will surely want to remember to leave a VACATION NOTE for the paper boy and the milkman.

There's sure to be a few days that will be JOUST ABIT WINDY.

Bring Home Loaf Of Bread

Any husband, whose wife has called him at the office and told him to bring home a loaf of bread but who stops at the track first, may have to be a HASTY MISTER as he RIPS TO MARKET before the store closes.

If he blows that assignment, he might be wise to send her a PINK ORCHID the next day.

The fellow, who has had a good day at the races and still feels lucky, may want to take his PACK OF GEMS to another game of chance if he can find one. If he does, he'll surely hope he can come up with a LUCKY PARA DICE.

But he'll also be hoping he doesn't hear a voice saying, I'M THE LAW. And he'll also want to be careful that he doesn't get involved with someone who's a BIT OF CHEAT.

A young bachelor who is able to MAKE CONTACT with a pretty young miss will be hoping she tells him GIVE ME A CALL and when he does finding her saying I'M WILLING.

Can't Be Forgetful

The bettor who keeps winning MAYGO back again, but if you're one of those who carries bets to the track for friends had better be careful not to be FORGETFUL.

Many a horse will show a LOTTA PROMISE in the form, but when it doesn't win, you'll figure ITSA MYSTERY when a lesser horse is able to STEALTHELEAD.

Many a bettor, even after a losing day, will boast that he won to keep his SELF RESPECT while others will let it go as a SILENT MISTAKE.

But win or lose, it can be GREAT GOING to the races if you don't pick up a SPLINTER from the wooden seats and if you study the form chart before going, you'll even have some TIME TO FIDDLE between races.

TRYING OUT THE CRAB WALK

Sutton To Stay

Omaha (UPI) — Creighton University basketball coach Eddie Sutton informed Washington State University officials late Tuesday he has decided to decline their offer to head the WSU basketball program.

Sutton said his decision to remain at Creighton was "the most difficult decision of my life so far, but I feel it is the right one."

He added his decision was based on two major points, the first being his commitment to the players in the basketball program at the present time.

EDDIE SUTTON

"When I recruited them, I told them I'd be with them for four years," Sutton explained.

The Bluejay mentor said his second reason was "I made a commitment to the great Omaha fans that I'd bring a winner to Creighton, and if I left now I felt it would be leaving the job without completing it."

He also added that the Rev. Joseph J. Labaj, Creighton's president, and "the rest of the Creighton family have given tremendous support during my two years, and have pledged continued support."

Sutton was called by WSU athletic director Ray Nagel last week to discuss the position, and flew to Seattle over the weekend. Nagel was the athletic director at Iowa before going to Washington State and the Hawkeyes play the Bluejays in basketball.

The coach, who is also Creighton's athletic director, is beginning the second year of a five-year contract here. His Bluejay teams have a record of 29-21.

Devaney Gives Rodgers Okay

Nebraska football flanker Johnny Rodgers will be permitted to play football this fall, notwithstanding his recent guilty plea to a felony charge growing out of a filling station holdup a year ago, Cornhusker football coach and athletic director Bob Devaney announced Tuesday night.

Rodgers, 19, sophomore star last season, had been placed on two years probation by the court last month after pleading guilty to larceny from a person.

As a football participant, Rodgers also will be on two years probation, Devaney said.

"We do not condone John's actions in any way," Devaney said, "but we also feel that to deprive him of the opportunity to play football would work against the aims of probation already established."

University officials earlier had ruled that Rodgers would be permitted to continue in school if given a suspended sentence or probation.

Rodgers led the nationally top-ranked Huskers in pass receiving last fall, catching 35 for 665 yards. He also led the team in kickoff and punt returns and was third in team scoring with 66 points.

The filling station incident which resulted in charges against Rodgers and two other men occurred May 20, 1970.

Devaney said the football coaching staff, "after very careful deliberation, has decided to place Johnny Rodgers on two years probation and permit him to participate in football during the length of this probation.

"We have studied the facts of the situation and feel that we should follow the pattern of the Lancaster County Court, the University of Nebraska Student Tribunal and the University of Nebraska Dean of Student Development's office.

"Since the offense in which John Rodgers participated did not take place during the time he was a member of the varsity football team, and the court, student tribunal and dean's office have given him the opportunity to redeem himself, we feel we should follow the same course."

In an interview following his arrest in May, Rodgers, of Omaha, said he'd had a year to think about it," but I still don't know why I did it."

The robbery was said to have involved around $90 but Rodgers said he did not need the money. "It was just stupidity," he said, and won't happen again.

Men's City Meet Has Aces Aplenty

. . . FOR TAYLOR, BRUNZELL

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Aces are hard to find in any golf tournament, but when two aces are scored during the same tournament, the result is a lot more than an oddity.

Results, Page 30

ment, but he couldn't bask in it long as Scott Brunzell followed shortly after with the second hole-in-one of the day.

Brunzell almost pulled it off again as he struck the flag on No. 12 after collecting his ace on No. 10, a 148-yard par three.

That hole-in-one got back the two strokes Brunzell lost on the front nine. Following his birdie on the 224-yard No. 12, Brunzell played par golf and finished with a par 72, with 38 on the front nine and 34 coming in, to pace the 144 entrants in the tournament.

"I had a little trouble," Brunzell said following his feat. "I used a wrong club on the eighth and punched it over the green. But that ace brought it all back.

"I used a six-iron and could see it bounce on the green, but I didn't really know that I had gotten it until I heard some people yelling."

Brunzell followed his first ace with a birdie on No. 12 — a feat that some veteran golfers of the Country Club course say is a rarity.

"I used a four-wood on that one," Brunzell explained. "I hit the flag and ended about two feet from the pin. That was an easy bird and I kind of thought that I might have a chance at it if (Lance) Gloe didn't par."

Gloe finished two-strokes behind Brunzell by ringing in a pair of 37s for a two-over-par 74.

"The last time that a hole-in-one was recorded in the city tournament was in the mid-forties," Max Pennington said following the two aces. "But we've never had two aces scored during the same tournament before that I can recall."

Taylor, who finished with a 45-37 for an 80, said this was the second time he has collected an ace, the first coming at Chappell "before the war."

In the senior division, Larry Rowan came home with a five-over-par 77 to lead the seniors into their second day of play at Pioneers Golf Course.

Americans Head British Open Lineup

SOUTHPORT, England AP) — A tour-toughened cadre of Americans, headed by Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino, rank as the dominant figures in the international field assembled for the 100th British Open golf tournament.

The grand-daddy of all the world's golf championships gets underway Wednesday with defending champion Nicklaus and the streaking Trevino solidly entrenched as the men to beat for this ancient title.

Nicklaus, the powerful Golden Bear who captured his second British Open title in a playoff with Doug Sanders last year, was given a slight edge by Britain's legal bookies, but Trevino warned:

"I think I can win it.

The latter was something of an understatement, decidedly out of character for the brash and breezy Mexican-American who is threatening to break all sorts of financial records on the United States circuit.

Trevino is leading in the chase for the Vardon Trophy, which goes to the man with the low stroke average. He tops the money winners with more than $195,000 and is the only player to core four victories on the U.S. tour this season. He's missed four other titles by a total of five strokes.

Trevino, who Sunday added the Canadian Open to his United States Open title, arrived from Montreal Monday and got in only two practice rounds—one of them abbreviated—on the rolling links of Royal Birkdale, hard by the Irish Sea.

But he said the lack of preparation and the let-down that often follows a tournament triumph don't figure to bother him.

"It's not exactly like this was the screen door open," said the stocky, swarthy character who stalked out of poverty and obscurity only five years ago and shouldered his way into the front ranks of the game's super-stars.

"This is the British Open. You don't have to work to get up for it. I said early in the year that it was one of my goals for the season. Nothing's changed that. There's all this tradition and history. This is where it all started.

Hot Pants Selling Like Hot Cakes On Eve Of Merry Old English Open

Southhampton, England (AP)—Hot pants and thigh-high stockings came into fashion for golfing girls Tuesday on the eve of the British Open — and Robert De Vincenzo approved the new sexy style with a thigh-high signature.

De Vincenzo, the popular Argentinian who won the cherished title in 1967 at Hoylake, said: "This is one of the best female fashions that men could ever hope for."

She wore purple hot pants and purple thigh-high stockings — and left the male golfing crowd assembled at Royal Birkdale wondering whether mixed foursomes would ever be the same again.

"I took up golf because my boy friend is a keen player and I wasn't prepared to sit around the clubhouse waiting for him," she said. "All the men were wearing such colorful clothes that I thought we girls should try to match them."

Marion's answer: hot pants and thigh-highs.

"It's time for lady golfers to shake off the old image of tweeds and bermuda shorts," she said. "Why shouldn't a girl on a golf course look as attractive as a miniskirted girl on Main Street?"

"Thank you, sir," she said.

"A pleasure," replied Roberto.

A crowd of more than 100 were fascinated by the informal little ceremony. If the enthusiasm of the fans was anything to judge by, hot pants could become the gear to wear on golf courses from Palm Beach to Prestwick, from Birdale to the Bahamas.

Designer Douglas Witt told newsmen: "The ladies have got to create a new fashion image in golf. For more years than I like to remember, people have joked about women golfers. But there's no reason why a good-looking girl should not be as sexy and stylish as her own golf swing.

"After all, Teddy Tinling did wonders for the tennis girls with his bright fashions. Now we're doing the same for the girls who prefer golf."

The hot pants come in all the colors of the rainbow. On the eve of the British Open, they were selling like hot cakes.

"They're comfortable. If you play golf in Britain you need something warm. And if you play golf in Africa, they keep the snakes off."

And after my best year ever last season when I made $4.60 at the Lincoln races, I've just been busting my buttons to get at 'em again.

Of course, that $4.60 has been spent and I've even heard that my favorite pony, Champagne Kid, won't be here this time around.

But I've got another $100 to bet with this year, $4 per day, and even if Champagne Kid is gone, there's a Champagne Jo and a Champagne Baby ready to run and today I'll start building my fortune with $2 win bets on Champagne Jo in the first, and Perry Gray in the eighth.

Nixon Says U.S. Nearing Decadence

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — President Nixon said Tuesday the United States is turning to "drugs and defeatism" and approaching the decadence that destroyed history's great civilizations.

He said the country needs a moral regeneration to save it from death.

In a 45-minute speech to about 150 news executives from 13 Midwestern states, the President said a tendency to focus on the nation's faults has led many citizens, particularly the young, to turn to "drugs, defeatism, negativism and alienation."

Nixon briefed the news editors in Kansas City enroute from Washington to San Clemente, Calif., for a two-week stay.

U.S. At That Point

"The great civilizations of the past — as they have become wealthy, as they have lost their will to live, to improve — they have become subject to the decadence that has destroyed civilization," Nixon told the editors. "The United States is now reaching that point."

But Nixon said he believes the "strength and vitality of the American heartland will pull the nation through its current "crisis of confidence" and allow it to lead the world to peace in the last third of the 20th century.

The President urged the editors and other opinion makers to help foster a national moral regeneration by not letting the problems of the moment obscure "the vision of America's future." Nixon discussed a broad range of foreign and domestic problems during his three-hour stop in Kansas City.

At End Of Day

He spoke at the end of the day-long series of briefings of the editors by ranking administration officials on his domestic programs — a package he said went "far beyond any program of domestic reform presented to the American people during the past 40 years."

Nixon said much of the moral decadence in America today is reflected in the use of drugs. But, he said, the problem goes beyond narcotics.

The problem, he said, went to a spreading sense of defeatism fostered not only by dissatisfaction with the war but by a general questioning of the nation's traditional values.

"If individuals have something to live for, if individuals have something to believe in, then the tendency to throw up their hands, to retreat, to give up on life is reduced," he said.

Pompidou,Brandt See Troop Talks As Too Limited

Bonn, Germany (AP) — President Georges Pompidou of France agreed Tuesday with Chancellor Willy Brandt that East-West negotiations on a mutually balanced reduction of forces in Europe should not remain confined to the United States and the Soviet Union.

The statesmen ended two days of talks, under a 1963 French-German agreement providing for twice-yearly meetings.

Referring to a call Brandt made for French participation in Western consultations over the troop reductions, French government spokesman Leo Hamon said the French situation was well known.

However, France agreed that the troop talks should not remain restricted to the two superpowers.

France, which has no foreign troops stationed on her soil, has until now been cool toward the reduction idea.

Charges Said Part Of Reagan Plot

San Rafael, Calif. (UPI) — In a petition asking for the "apprehension and arrest" of Gov. Ronald Reagan, Angela Davis' attorneys said Tuesday the murder-kidnap charges against her were the result of a vendetta led by Reagan and involving President Nixon and Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

Defense attorneys made the charges in a petition asking the case be removed to the federal courts. A federal judge set a hearing on the petition for Friday, and the protracted pretrail hearings in State Superior Court in San Rafael were recessed again.

The petition said Reagan had been trying to "drive out" the former UCLA philosophy instructor from the University of California system because she was black and a Communist.

The charges of murder, kidnaping and conspiracy in connection with the Aug. 7, 1970, Marin County Courthouse shootout are part of this scheme, the petition said.

U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti said he would allow Miss Davis' co-defendant, Ruchell Magee, and his attorneys to argue previous, similar removal motions Friday.

Russian Talks About Establishing Embassy On Malta

Valetta, Malta (UPI) — Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Smirkovsky arrived Tuesday in Malta and said he had come to talk about establishing the first Soviet embassy on this long-time western bastion in the Mediterranean.

Political sources said there was no doubt Smirkovsky also would discuss Malta's military situation in light of the new Labor government's policies.

Smirkovsky, ambassador to Britain and non-resident envoy to Malta, flew in from London with his wife. He was met by Maltese officials and an estimated 100 newsmen and photographers.

"We will see about the embassy," he said before being whisked away by government officials who urged him not to say anything more to newsmen.

Smirkovsky came to Valetta a year ago with a request that a Soviet embassy be established in Malta but was turned down by the pro-Western Nationalist Party government of Premier Georgi Borg Oliver. His government was unseated recently.

Frozen Foods Idea

New York — The idea of freezing foods evolved during an expedition to Labrador in 1915. Meat, fish and game frozen at minus 50 degrees were found good after thawing months later.

Iowa Corn Looks OK

Des Moines (UPI) — Ninety-eight per cent of Iowa's corn crop is in excellent to good condition, according to the Iowa weekly weather and crop report released by the National Weather Service.

Orioles Land Trio On All-Star Team

. . . BROOKS ROBINSON NO. 1 VOTE GETTER

New York (AP) — The world champion Baltimore Orioles placed three men on the American League All-Star team, including third baseman Brooks Robinson, the No. 1 vote-getter in final balloting announced Tuesday by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Robinson, who drew 1,110,468 of the more than 2,300,000 ballots cast in what is believed to be the largest computerized vote ever taken in sports, will be joined by teammates Boog Powell at first base and Frank Robinson in the outfield.

Rounding out the AL's starting infield for the 42nd All-Star Game at Detroit are second baseman Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins and shortstop Luis Aparicio of the Boston Red Sox. The catcher will be Ray Fosse of Cleveland.

It will be the 10th All-Star appearance for Frank Robinson, who has played for the American League four times and the National League six times.

The eight winners in the fan balloting conducted throughout the United States and Canada must play three innings. The balance of the squad, including pitchers, will be named by Manager Earl Weaver of the Orioles.

The closest voting revolved around the third outfield position, with Frank Robinson edging Bobby Murcer of the New York Yankees. Robinson collected 633,217 votes to 606,203 for Murcer.

Fosse amassed 645,966 votes to win the catcher's post over Bill Freehan of Detroit, with 570,199, and Aparicio gained the shortstop berth with 437,959 votes to 368,799 for Leo Cardenas of Minnesota.

The eight National League starters will be named later in the week.

The leaders:

Third Base—Brooks Robinson, Baltimore, 1,110,469; Harmon Killebrew, Minnesota, 412,852; Rico Petrocelli, Boston, 160,250; Sal Brando, Oakland, 119,958; Leo Rodriguez, Detroit, 109,477; Craig Nettles, Cleveland, 60,207.

Small Gain Posted By Stock Market

A boost to 6% in the prime rate — the interest charged major corporate borrowers — was made by many big banks throughout the country. The move was initiated about two weeks ago, but only a few banks had gone along prior to this week.

Investment analysts have been saying for some time that the prospect of higher interest rates was pushing the market lower. But the market's firmness when the boost showed definite signs of becoming general indicated the action had been widely anticipated and discounted.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, after standing almost still during most of the session, showed some life in the last half hour and closed with a gain of 2.11 at 892.30.

The Associated Press 60-stock average advanced .7 to 320.4 with industrials up 2.1, rails off .4, and utilities up .4. The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks edged ahead 0.02 to 55.20. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dipped .02 to 99.76.

Gainers led losers 728 to 626 among 1,652 issues traded on the Big Board. New 1971 highs topped new lows by 42 to 34.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange was a dull total of 10.44 million shares, up a bit from the 9.97 million shares traded Friday.

Institutional investors curbed their activity, with only 59 blocks of 10,000 shares or more being traded, compared with 72 Friday.

A huge block of 980,000 shares of Greyhound crossed the ticker tape. Identities of the participants in the transaction were not disclosed by the broker who handled the trade. Greyhound rose ⅛ on 22⅜ on total volume of 1,143,380 shares.

Rubber issues, mail order-retails, chemicals, oils, tobaccos and building materials were mostly higher. Aircrafts, rails, electronics and utilities declined.

Bausch & Lomb, which has been one of the most volatile issues recently, jumped 6 to 132.

The American Stock Exchange price-change index rose .07 to 25.59, and advances led declines by 44 to 383 among 1,108 issues traded. Volume expanded to 2.57 million shares from 2.31 million Friday.

Corporate and government bonds were mostly higher.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Approaches Are Outlined For Selecting Investments

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Matter Of Opinion

If you want to play the role of sucker in Wall Street, get pessimistic after stocks have fallen out of bed.

The sucker's recipe for certain failure—buy high and sell low. He purchases stocks, not because they are undervalued, but because of intoxication from the spectacle of rising prices. He hopes that someone else as ignorant as himself will give him an opportunity to sell out at a profit.

Wall Street, unlike other markets, is scared by markdowns. There would be a greater understanding if prices per share were translated into total capitalization of a venture in prevailing market prices.

Matter Of Opinion

But there are approaches. One is to ferret out after a market break prime growth stocks which have fallen below peak quotations to somewhat more reasonable price-earnings ratio. Based on past performances, growth stocks include such shares as: American Hospital, Anheuser-Busch, Avon Products, Coca-Cola, Eastman Kodak, Emerson Electric, IBM, S. S. Kresge, Merck MMM, Polaroid, and Xerox.

A second approach, instead of selecting high-price to earnings ratio growth stocks, is to choose long term seasoned corporate earners. Thus United Business & Investment Report recently compiled a list of 155 companies that have never shown a lack of profit. These include: Union Oil of California, Union Pacific, Upjohn, Georgia-Pacific, Household Finance, Interco, Kroger, Nabisco, Standard Oil of California, American Electric Power, American Home Products, American Natural Gas, Carolina Power & Light, Castle & Cooke, and Combustion Engineering.

Dollar Averaging

A third approach for bucking tipsters is dollar averaging. That is investing the same amounts of money in exactly the same carefully selected stocks of companies with strong survival prospects periodically—monthly, quarterly, or annually—irrespective of the rise and fall of Wall Street optimism.

Q. An 18-year-old student in Nigeria asks for suggestions as to how to finance his forthcoming education in the United States, which he estimates will cost $2,583 a year.

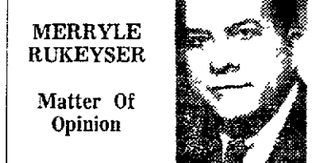

A.—A well motivated person can earn income through odd jobs such as cutting grass and tutoring. M. Lincoln Schuster, the eminent book publisher, earned funds by working in the library and by sending college news to newspapers. Maybe you could get an assignment from a Nigerian newspaper to send back your impressions. Alan H. Temple, who became executive vice president of the First National City Bank of New York, earned his way on the campus by waiting on tables.

Our native students are helped by scholarships and long term loans. I suggest you ask the college of your choice whether you as an alien will be eligible for any such benefits.

Q. A Sacramento, California reader asks about no-load and closed end funds. Are there no-load closed end funds?

A. A no-load fund is a mutual fund which can be purchased directly through the sponsor at current net asset value with no premium for sales expense. It is mand. This right of the holder to demand his share of the current market value of the portfolio at any time is a theoretical disadvantage. However, the closed end investment company is not subject to this hazard. The corporate setup resembles that of conventional industrial, utility or railroad companies and the only way the investor can turn his holdings into cash is to sell them at the Stock Exchange. The acquisition of the closed end fund, such as Lehman Corporation, Dominick Fund, Tricontinental and Japan Fund, is subject to the regular brokerage commission. As a matter of fact, some of the closed end funds actually sell at a discount below actual current break-up value. On Mondays the Wall Street Journal lists the discounts and premiums, as the case may be, of closed end funds, which are undersold.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Power Ratio Cut

Washington — At the turn of the century, when internal-combustion engines were becoming popular as an automotive power source, 10 pounds of engine weight was required to produce a unit of horsepower. The modern engine produces one horsepower for every 3 pounds, or less, of engine weight.

It's '4 C's'

Nixon Says U.S. Nearing Decadence

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — President Nixon said Tuesday the United States is turning to "drugs and defeatism" and approaching the decadence that destroyed history's great civilizations.

He said the country needs a moral regeneration to save it from death.

In a 45-minute speech to about 150 news executives from 13 Midwestern states, the President said a tendency to focus on the nation's faults has led many citizens, particularly the young, to turn to "drugs, defeatism, negativism and alienation."

Nixon briefed the news editors in Kansas City enroute from Washington to San Clemente, Calif., for a two-week stay.

U.S. At That Point

"The great civilizations of the past — as they have become wealthy, as they have lost their will to live, to improve — they have become subject to the decadence that has destroyed civilization," Nixon told the editors. "The United States is now reaching that point."

But Nixon said he believes the "strength and vitality of the American heartland will pull the nation through its current "crisis of confidence" and allow it to lead the world to peace in the last third of the 20th century.

The President urged the editors and other opinion makers to help foster a national moral regeneration by not letting the problems of the moment obscure "the vision of America's future." Nixon discussed a broad range of foreign and domestic problems during his three-hour stop in Kansas City.

At End Of Day

He spoke at the end of the day-long series of briefings of the editors by ranking administration officials on his domestic programs — a package he said went "far beyond any program of domestic reform presented to the American people during the past 40 years."

Nixon said much of the moral decadence in America today is reflected in the use of drugs. But, he said, the problem goes beyond narcotics.

The problem, he said, went to a spreading sense of defeatism fostered not only by dissatisfaction with the war but by a general questioning of the nation's traditional values.

"If individuals have something to live for, if individuals have something to believe in, then the tendency to throw up their hands, to retreat, to give up on life is reduced," he said.

Pompidou, Brandt See Troop Talks As Too Limited

Bonn, Germany (AP) — President Georges Pompidou of France agreed Tuesday with Chancellor Willy Brandt that East-West negotiations on a mutually balanced reduction of forces in Europe should not remain confined to the United States and the Soviet Union.

The statesmen ended two days of talks, under a 1963 French-German agreement providing for twice-yearly meetings.

Referring to a call Brandt made for French participation in Western consultations over the troop reductions, French government spokesman Leo Hamon said the French situation was well known.

However, France agreed that the troop talks should not remain restricted to the two superpowers.

France, which has no foreign troops stationed on her soil, has until now been cool toward the reduction idea.

Charges Said Part Of Reagan Plot

San Rafael, Calif. (UPI) — In a petition asking for the "apprehension and arrest" of Gov. Ronald Reagan, Angela Davis' attorneys said Tuesday the murder-kidnap charges against her were the result of a vendetta led by Reagan and involving President Nixon and Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

Defense attorneys made the charges in a petition asking the case be removed to the federal courts. A federal judge set a hearing on the petition for Friday, and the protracted pretrail hearings in State Superior Court in San Rafael were recessed again.

The petition said Reagan had been trying to "drive out" the former UCLA philosophy instructor from the University of California system because she was black and a Communist.

The charges of murder, kidnaping and conspiracy in connection with the Aug. 7, 1970, Marin County Courthouse shootout are part of this scheme, the petition said.

U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti said he would allow Miss Davis' co-defendant, Ruchell Magee, and his attorneys to argue previous, similar removal motions Friday.

Russian Talks About Establishing Embassy On Malta

Valetta, Malta (UPI) — Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Smirkovsky arrived Tuesday in Malta and said he had come to talk about establishing the first Soviet embassy on this long-time western bastion in the Mediterranean.

Political sources said there was no doubt Smirkovsky also would discuss Malta's military situation in light of the new Labor government's policies.

Smirkovsky, ambassador to Britain and non-resident envoy to Malta, flew in from London with his wife. He was met by Maltese officials and an estimated 100 newsmen and photographers.

"We will see about the embassy," he said before being whisked away by government officials who urged him not to say anything more to newsmen.

Smirkovsky came to Valetta a year ago with a request that a Soviet embassy be established in Malta but was turned down by the pro-Western Nationalist Party government of Premier Georgi Borg Oliver. His government was unseated recently.

The Peugeot 504

"The Peugeot 504 has a personality and character all its own. It is distinctively handsome in appearance, comfortable to ride in, a pleasure to drive. Its durability is legendary and it both handles well and stops well."
Road and Track Magazine

The Peugeot 304

Available in both station wagon and four door sedan. Excellence in handling, passenger comfort, appearance and craftsmanship make the Peugeot the hands down winner when compared to its competitors.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the puzzle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

BRINGING UP FATHER

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

The Norwegian Folk Music Institute has been transferred to the University of Oslo and will be known as the Norwegian Folk Music Collection.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How to Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

to L O N G F E L L O W

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
